LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

To the Editor of The Telegraph: Sir,-The Globe, ever anxious to make a point against the local government, criticises them for requiring Trust Companies, within the province, to procure from the receiver general provincial three per cent. debentures to amount of $25,000 and deposit them with him, as security for the rformance by the companies obligations within the province. It seems to me, Mr. Editor, that the Globe, if it was not so bitterly opposed to the government, might have found much to commend in their course in this instance. These trust companies are asking for privileges, which are not allowed to individuals. They are asking to be allowed to become executors, administrators and trustees of estates. There is no in and trustees of estates. There is no individual hability; neither are they required to give bonds as an individual would be. It is therefore proper that they should be required to make a deposit with the provincial government for the protection of the public. If the deposit were made in cash the companies could not expect to receive over 3 per cent. interest. The banks only allow that rate, and it would be absurd for the province to pay more. be absurd for the province to pay more. As the deposit must necessarily be a permanent one, it is as well for the province to give its certificates of indebtedness or bonds, and have them lodged with the receiver-general, as to give a receipt for the cash deposit. The companies would receive their interest half yearly on the deposit equally in the one case as the other.

I understand that the Independent I understand that the Independent Order of Foresters have had for several years a deposit of $30,000 with the receiver-general, on which they only receive 3 per cent. interest. They have never complained at the lowness of the rate. So far as the public know the trust companies are not saying any thing why, therefore, should the Globe find fault with the effort of the government to add this the effort of the government to add this small amount yearly to the provincial revenues, through the medium of the trust companies, in return for the privileges granted them?
Yours truly,

SERVICE RIBBON NAILED TO A DEAD | The Situation Outlined --- Plan to Increase CANADIAN'S BODY.

Atrocious Act Committed by Boers at the Battle of Hart's River--Circumstances Told by Trooper Simpson in a Letter to This

A couple of leters have been received here from a St. John lad serving in South Africa with the Canadian Mounted Rifles, under Colonel Evans. The writer is Trooper Alfred Simpson and the recipient is Charles Jackson of Messrs. A. L. Good-

The letters were written within a month after the battle of Hart's River and go into details regarding certain little happenings which bring into disagreeable prominence the cruelty and rancour exhibited by the Boer soldiery.

Describing roughly the different circumstances which led up to the engagement, Trooper Simpson tells of how 50 Canadians were cut off from the main body and how after shooting their horses to provide breastworks, they eventually secretary Shaw reported that all the licencees had paid their financial obligations. The money had been placed in the ammunition and greatly depleted ranks. When the Boers came amongst them to accept the surrender, about the first thing done was to strip the dead, which the duty of the chair to call to the attention of the commissioners the fact that there was now a vacancy on the board, due to the death of Patrick Gleeson. In the Prussian Diet last January Count Von Buelow gave what was, from the German point of view, a somewhat dismal account of the situation. The government, he said, had to deal with an organized Polish agitation. Polish lawyers, Polish doctors, Polish contractors were united in the attempt to thrust the German element into the background. The reports of the provincial president of Posen and West Prussia showed how German element in the provincial president of Posen and West Prussia showed how German elements.

In face of these facts the Polish question was, in his opinion, the most important contents of Prussian politics at the present ern of Prussian politics at the present time. The minister-president went on to

"We shall, therefore, continue to pursue the course on which we have entered, and especially to advance even larger sums of money than before in order to strengthen the position of the Germans as landed proprietors as well as to establish in those districts a strong German middle-class and to restore it in places where it has been driven back."

The new government bill presents an attempt to carry out this policy. The attempt to carry out this policy. The memorandum by which it is accompanied points out that of the $46,800,000 voted in 1896 and 1898 only $13,104,000 remain unspent. The settlements commission has hitherto acquired 406,444 acres, of which about 247,100 acres have been taken over by settlers. A sum of $9,126,000 will be required to enable new proprietors and required to enable new proprietors and tenants to take possession of the remaining 159,379 acres, so that actually only $3,978,000 of the existing fund remain at the disposal of the commission for further purchases. It is calculated that this balance would be exhausted in the course of the acres to the purchases.

The urgency of the situation is exhibited by the fact that, owing to the advance of the Polish element and its increasing prosperity, there has been, in spite of the activity of the settlements commission activity of the settlements commission a balance of change in the proprietorship amounting to about 76.601 acres in favor of the Poles. It is proposed to institute a new method of procedure in order to establish the German occupants more firmly on the land. In many cases, as has already been mentioned, those German immigrants who had bought their land outright from the government have been only too grady owing to their unfavored. been only too ready owing to their unfavorable surroundings, to part with it eve sire it, to convent a certain number of them into leaseholders or into occupiers of holdings leased out or sold by the gov ernment against the payment of a fixe annual rent redeemable with only the cor sent of both the contracting parties. In this way the government would retain permanent control over the land, and would be enabled to prevent it from finding its way back into Polish hands.

It is further proposed to devote $23,-

400,000 of the new grant in part to the purchase of properties for the purpose of creating large government estates, which, it is anticipated, would provide allies for the government in the sphere of local ad-ministration and would also serve as
