

A hot time in the old car

A Toronto man has been accused of setting his own car on fire.

Witnesses told Peel police they saw a man set fire to a 1974 Pontiac at Dixie Plaza before boarding a Mississauga Transit bus. John Robert Moore, 40, of 14th Street, New Toronto, is charged with arson.

Fight leads to charge

Two people became involved in a struggle with police early Sunday morning when their car was stopped.

Police say the two had to be subdued when they would not stop the commotion. Charged with causing a disturbance and assaulting police are Phillip Hack, 17, and Richard Michael Hack, 18, of Trotwood Avenue.

Police nab suspect

A man wanted for seven months in connection with a stabbing around Christmas time was arrested last week by Peel policemen.

A 27-year-old male had to be hospitalized for three days after showing up at a party with the former girl friend of a Brampton man. Charged with assault causing bodily harm is Michael Prioriello, 35, of Lisa Road, Brampton.

It wasn't self-serve

Three youths found inside a Hurontario Street gas station Friday night were discovered by a policeman making a routine check.

THE LAW

The teenagers had allegedly gained entrance to the Esso station at 3445 Hurontario St. by crawling underneath the rear doors. Charged with break and enter with intent are Cameron S. Walkey, 16, and David Allen Hunt, 17, both of Mississauga Valley Boulevard, and David Louis Dobbin, 17, of Lana Terrace.

Officer is attacked

A plain clothes officer investigating a complaint was punched and kicked at a Bloor Street East apartment Sunday, police say.

Detective Anthony Ball had to be assisted by other officers when the resident refused to cooperate during an investigation of indecent assault.

No charges were laid as a result of the original complaint, but the resident was charged with assault with intent to resist arrest. Charged is Weldon Nicholas Basaruba, 35, of Bloor Street East.

2 teens charged

A description obtained from a woman who scared off two prowlers led to the arrest of two youths, police say.

Two teenagers had allegedly broken into a Swirling Leaves Crescent home July 12 and were rummaging through it when confronted by the owner. They ran but not before the woman got a good look at them, police say.

Charged with break and enter is Gregory Hugh Shin, 17, of Lexicon Drive and Mark Andrew Romolock, 18, of Pinesmoke Crescent.

The tools of crime

Two men leaving a construction site with approximately $1,000 worth of equipment were stopped by police last week. A chainsaw, pick and tool boxes allegedly stolen from the construction shack at 6145 Netherhart Rd. were found in the van being driven by the men. Charged with break, enter and theft are Mark Charles Podgham, 17, of Louis Drive and Alan Walter Vali, 19, of Stillmeadow Road.

Escapee is arrested

A youth who escaped an arresting officer last month was arrested by Peel police detectives last week. Police say a teenager taking life jackets, a microphone and membership cards from the Serson swimming pool office June 24 ran away from police. Charged with break enter and theft is John Allan Wilcox, 17, of Fourth St.

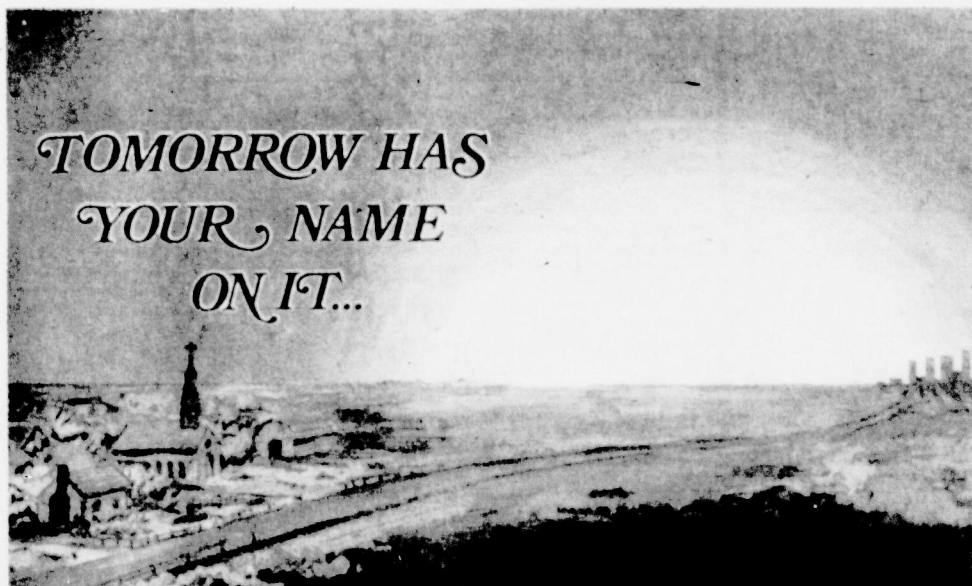

College more popular

Enrolment in summer school courses at Erindale College has jumped 35 per cent this year, and an increase in enrolment this fall is projected.

Les McCormick, associate registrar and coordinator of part-time studies, says summer sessions in universities in North America have been declining rapidly over the last few years. But the University of Toronto campus' experience this summer may indicate a reverse in the trend.

Part of the increase may be from the larger number of students who want to complete their education more quickly, and take summer courses to acquire additional credits. Many other students are taking "job-related courses" to go with their chosen careers.

TOMORROW HAS YOUR NAME ON IT...

AND IT'S COMING WITH XPRES SPEED

If you have the vision to see beyond today, XPRES has an exciting, potentially profitable opportunity for you.

XPRES is a process that instantly creates heat transfers of original graphics, photographs, and artwork for use on a variety of material, ranging from fabric to metal. Consumer and industrial applications are limited only by imagination... T-shirts, caps, tote bags, calendars, fabric flying discs, name tags, plaques, awards, metal nameplates, and identification panels.

All that's required for the simple, two-step imprint process is the XPRES Processor (which produces a sublimating heat transfer), a heat press, and our unique, patented XPRES Imaging Powder. You just add imagination! Supplement your existing business, or start a new one.

The innovative XPRES process has proven successful in businesses ranging from the Awards and Incentive industry, Trophy Manufacturing, Premium Imprinted Sportswear to the Advertising Specialty industry.

If you're ready now to make the most of tomorrow, contact Dan Morgan at Imaging. Dealer inquiries are invited.
