

CATHOLIC CHILD IMMIGRATION

Some forty years ago, Cardinal Manning, Archbishop of Westminster, who made the saving of Catholic children one of the great works of his Episcopate, sent a party of Catholic children to Canada. The condition of the poor at that time in the great towns of England was appalling, and thousands of Catholic children were annually being lost to the faith.

The Cardinal made the saving of these children the great Crusade of his declining years. His vast influence, his voice, and his pen, were devoted wholeheartedly to the work. Schemes of rescue were established, Homes and Orphanages were opened, and the children were gathered in.

The work of child immigration inaugurated by Cardinal Manning has seen steady development. It recalls the names of Father Seddon, to whom the Cardinal entrusted the work, and who is buried in the Basilica at Quebec, of Canon Lord Archibald Douglas, of Canon St. John of Southwark, of Mr. Nugent whose devoted labours among the poor of Liverpool are commemorated by a public statue in St. George's Square, of Mr. Canon Bane of the Crusade of Rescue, and of Arthur Chilton Thomas, the brilliant barrister and philanthropist.

The Canadian Receiving Home of the Association is at St. George's Home, Wellington Street, Ottawa, and is under the care of Mother Evangelist and the Sisters of Charity of St. Paul. To St. George's Home from 800 to 350 children are sent each year from England, and happily placed out from the Home in Canadian families.

It will be interesting to note the success of the children. It is a rule of the Association that all the boys shall be placed on farms, and all the girls in domestic service. In this way the Association is helping to meet the two great social needs of Canada, farm labour and domestic service.

Before unvelling the Memorial, General MacBrien paid a very high tribute to the Home, and said its peace record was such that it could not but have a good War record. The Home was carrying on a splendid work. No greater proof could be found for this than the eagerness with which the boys enlisted when the call came, the credit and distinction with which they served and the courage with which so many met their death.

first Holy Communion. Visitors from Canada to England are astonished at the high standard of Educational efficiency and general comfort in the English Catholic Homes. The same high standard is realized in the work at St. George's Home. The children, after being placed out, remain under the legal care of the Home until they reach the age of eighteen. They are always placed in Catholic families approved by the Parish Priests.

Each year they are visited by a Sister from the Home, and an exhaustive report is made on each child's condition, progress and opportunities of advancement. The number of applications for them from Canadian farmers is practically unlimited, and today the time has come when a steady application is being received from farmers who were once boys of the Home.

It should be noted that Catholic Child Emigration forms but a small part of the whole of child immigration to Canada. While the Association sends about 800 children each year, the total number of children sent each year reaches 8,000. The religious creed of immigrants into Canada is having an important bearing on the development of the Church in this country. As a result of the War, immigration is today largely confined to Protestants. The Association is the only Catholic organization that conducts systematically the immigration of Catholics.

It will be interesting to conclude this account with a brief reference to the War record of the Association. This reference gains in interest from the fact that on Monday, Nov. 1st, a memorial tablet to the old boys who fell in the War, was unveiled at St. George's Home. The ceremony was performed by Major General J. H. MacBrien, C. B., C. M. G., D. S. O., Chief of the General Staff, Ottawa, in the presence of many distinguished guests, including Major General J. H. Elmsley, C. B., C. M. G., D. S. O., Adjutant General, Lt. Colonel D. S. Street, Major Willis O'Connor, D. S. O., Rev. Major J. J. O'Gorman, P. M. C., Rev. George Fitzgerald, P. P., Rev. Father Frederick O. S. F. C., Capuchin Monastery, Chaplain to the Home, Mr. D. Bogue-Smart, Supervisor of Juvenile Immigration, Department of the Interior, Mr. W. L. Scott, President of the Children's Aid Society, Mr. T. G. Brown, President of the Knights of Columbus, Bayswater Council, and a large number of old boys and girls of the Home.

Mr. MacBrien, the Secretary of the Association, pointed out that the old boys were among the first to answer the country's call in 1914. Some 1,200 enlisted in the Canadian Forces, and most of them went overseas and took part in the great battles of the War. They made good and brave soldiers and won many military honours for conspicuous gallantry. The names of 72 were recorded on the memorial as having been killed at the front. Mr. Bogue-Smart said Canada was proud of the achievement of the boys from St. George's Home. He remarked that in the early days of the War many of the Home boys, before enlisting, came to him for advice, and they all showed "the indomitable pluck of the Britisher." The cause for which the Home stands has proved to be not only philanthropic but also intensely patriotic.

Before unvelling the Memorial, General MacBrien paid a very high tribute to the Home, and said its peace record was such that it could not but have a good War record. The Home was carrying on a splendid work. No greater proof could be found for this than the eagerness with which the boys enlisted when the call came, the credit and distinction with which they served and the courage with which so many met their death.

Do good today and leave the future in better hands than your own.

OBITUARY

MR. JOHN P. CORRIGAN
The Orillia Packet

On Wednesday, October 20th, the Angel of Death called to its eternal reward the soul of a well known and highly respected resident of Mars Township, in the person of Mr. John P. Corrigan, after a lingering illness of nearly three years borne with great patience and fortitude.

Mr. Corrigan was born in Mars nearly sixty-nine years ago. He married Miss Bridges Clarke of Uptergrove, and settled on a farm near the old homestead, where they have resided since. Their marriage was blessed with four children, Father John F. Corrigan, of the Holy Family Parish, Toronto; Patrick and Mary, at home, and one boy who died in infancy. He was a very charitable man, of a cheerful, contented disposition, loved and respected by all who knew him. He had the consolation of being surrounded by his loving wife and family in his last moments. The funeral took place on Friday to St. Columbkille's Church, Uptergrove, and was one of the largest ever held in that district, the church being filled with relatives and friends whose esteem had been testified by the many spiritual offerings. Solemn Requiem High Mass was celebrated by his son, the Rev. Father Corrigan, the Rev. Father Armstrong of Orillia, as deacon, and the Rev. Father McGrath of Toronto, as sub-deacon, the Rev. Father Flannigan of Uptergrove, was master of ceremonies; Rev. Father W. Kelly of Toronto, assisted in the choir, and the Rev. Father Hayes delivered a very appropriate sermon. The Rev. Fathers Morrow and Oarberry were in the sanctuary. The remains were interred in St. Columbkille's cemetery. He is also survived by four brothers and one sister, William of Oregon, Joseph of Texas, James and Peter of Mars, and Mrs. J. Desmond of Brechin. The pallbearers were Messrs. J. Desmond, P. Clarke, F. Clarke, L. Roche, M. Deolar and D. Calderwood. Heartfelt sympathy is extended to the bereaved family in the loss of a devoted and loving husband and one of the best of fathers, who was loved in life and honored in death. May his soul rest in peace.

DIED
MCGANNON.—Capt. Edmund P., on October 25th, at his home at Prescott, Ontario. May his soul rest in peace.

NEW BOOK

"Ursula Finch," latest novel by Isabel C. Clarke. In the quaint Cornish port of St. Faith's, Miss Clarke has placed the opening scenes of a fascinating tale that reaches even to Rome, and brings the reader within the portals of St. Peter's itself.

With the incisive clearness of style for which she is so well known, she pictures an indolent and beautiful sister Ursula's selfishness, which forced Ursula to leave her home and go to far off Italy.

Thus, having the Eternal City as a background with unerring sense of the dramatic, the author builds a profoundly moving love story, whole some, delightful, and vibrant with the exquisite spirit of true Catholicity. How Ursula passes through the Cinderella change from family drudge and obscure governess to a condition of happiness, affluence, and ease; and how a great good comes from a very unpromising source, we shall have to leave the reader to discover. The swift action, the brilliant dialogue, the intimate portrayal of character in this new novel—all bear evidence that Miss Clarke's pen retains the delightful magic that has won her the reputation of being the foremost living Catholic Novelist. Price $2.75 Post Paid, CATHOLIC RECORD, London, Ont.

THE ANGELUS BELL

Three times a day—morning, noon, and evening—the ringing of the church bells announces to us the Incarnation, and yet how multitudinous we heed the sweet, musical reminder! To a true Catholic, the Angelus possesses a quiet consolation in the midst of the struggle and fret of the working day. It is a precious reminder that though we struggle for our daily sustenance, still, the promise of our Redeemer rings softly and encouragingly in our ears. Yet, notwithstanding, the invitation of the Angelus remains unheeded by the multitude who regard it simply as marking certain periods of rest in the day's labor and occasions for the appeasing of our base animal appetites. Many Catholics, we blush to say it—are even unable to recite the lovely prayer, and thus altogether disregard their sweetness and their comfort. A very few secondarily suffice to direct our minds to the tremendous Mystery of the Incarnation. In Catholic countries all classes immediately cease work to recite the Angelus as often as the bell rings out. Can we Catholics remedy this seeming indifference of ours? Surely if we really love Our Lord and His Holy Mother we will heed the message of their bell—Catholic Columbian.

We cannot always judge with perfect accuracy our own intentions, then why try to sit in judgment on the intentions of others?
