A METHODIST UNION.—A meeting of the quarterly boards of the various Methodist churches of the city and Fairview was held in Centenary church the other night. It was decided to form a union of the several boards and a committee was appointed to draft a constitution and report to another meeting to be held on May 15th. The object of the union will be to look after all things of interest to the Methodist of the city. Some discussion took place with regard to the exchange of pulpits by the pastors. The feeling was against a discontinuance of this custom.—Sun.

MR. ALLISON.—The Faculty Concert last Friday evening was in every respect the most artistic and refined musical event of the season. In addition to the excellent solo work of the performers, a large and well drilled chorus of 60 voices, (young ladies and gentlemen of the Colleges of Mt. Allison) supported by the school orchestra, 15 violins, piano and organ, rendered the music signed to them in a splendid manner.

Of the choral works, the 'Cloister Gate,' by Grieg, the most celebrated Norwegian composer now living, was certainly the gem of the evening. The chorus was sung by the vocal pupils of Miss Mack, about 25 in number, the solos by Miss Mack and Miss Edith Troy were sung with much feeling and fine effect towards the end of the composition the violins and organ came in, adding still more to the grand closing measures.

Miss Troy accompanied the number beautifully. The other choruses were the 'Palms,' and selections from 'The Song of Life,' both well sung and finely accompanied. The solo work of the evening was in the hands of the Faculty. Miss Ayer charmed the audience with a delicate solo by Wierzbicki, a piece worthy of a second hearing. Miss Johnson's solo by Mendelssohn was excellent; a pity she did not have the grand piano to show the nature of her execution. A highly emotional composition by Bizet, an Agnus Dei, was superbly sung by Miss Mack, the accompaniment being played by Miss Ayer. A charming feature of the programme was the recitation by Miss Landers of Langfellow's 'King Robert of Sicily.' The effect of the reading was heightened by a musical accompaniment played by Mr. Mack. Miss Landers was at her best in this number and the audience gave her a most hearty recall. An organ solo opened the concert, played by Mr. Mack in an effective manner. Mention must be made of the Misses Palmer, Nelson and Caldwell for their excellent work at the organ in the chorus numbers. Mr. Mack's talent as a chorus conductor was shown in the best light, the effect he produced with chorus and orchestra were always of the best, never does the volume of sound degenerate into mere noise. Mention must be made of 2 songs sung by Miss Mack; one of the songs having been composed by Mr. Mack. It is to be regretted that the people of Sackville did not avail themselves of this last opportunity of hearing a public performance of the faculty in its present personnel; the choruses alone were something worth going far to hear.

An event of very considerable importance in the musical work at Mt. Allison is the yearly violin recital. The recital last Tuesday was in every sense a great success and the gifted and energetic lady, Miss Ayer, who is at the head of the violin department may be well pleased at the interest taken in her work and the success of the recital.

The playing of the pupils. The opening number, a Valse by 28 violins, was in some respects the finest piece on the programme, at least as far as the concert numbers went. The Misses Robb, McEwen and Webb played their selections tastefully and carefully. A duet by Miss Robb and Mr. R. Archibald went exceedingly well. Later in the program the Messrs. Beckwith and R. Archibald were heard to great advantage; special mention must be made of a beautiful trio, played by Messrs Ayer, Robb and Mr. R. Archibald; this was beautiful. Assistance was ably rendered by Miss Weston (recitation) and the Misses L. Johnson and F. Webb, (piano).

Meaning of Baptizo.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE POST: Sir,—In your last issue a correspondence requests any of your readers who may have Greek lexicons, to quote their definitions in connection with the word Baptizo. Having two or three standard works of the kind at hand I shall give the meanings they assign to the word named.

Liddell and Scott's abridged Greek-English Lexicon (Clarendon Press, 1887) used generally in colleges and high schools, and in the preface of which it is intimated that "special care has been taken to explain all words contained in the New Testament," gives the following:

BAPTIZO.—To dip repeatedly, dip under; to bathe; to baptize. Hence baptism, that which is dipped; baptism.

The Greek and English Lexicon of the New Testament, by J. H. Thayer, of Harvard (Harper & Brothers, 1889), a work of recent date and highest authority, says:

BAPTIZO.—1. To dip repeatedly, to immerse, to submerge; to cleanse by dipping or submerging; to wash; to make clean with water; to overwhelm. 2. In the New Testament it is used pericly of the right of sacred ablution, first instituted by John the Baptist, afterwards by Christ's command, received by Christians and adjusted to the contents and nature of their religion, viz., in the shape of water, performed as a sign, and administered by those who, impelled by a desire for salvation, sought admission to the benefits of the Messiah's kingdom.

With these definitions before him, your correspondent can decide as to who was in the right in the conversation to which he had the pleasure of listening.

Farewell Address to Mr. E. L. Stevens.

On Saturday last Mr. E. L. Stevens, who left yesterday for Providence, Rhode Island, where he will make his future home, was waited upon by his fellow workmen at Fawcett's foundry and was presented by them with a handsome gold-headed cane, accompanied by the following address, as a slight token of their regard, and regret at his departure:

MR. EDWARD L. STEVENS: Dear Sir,—We, the employees of the Sackville Stove Foundry, learn with regret that you are about to sever the pleasant relations that have existed between us for the past twenty-two years, during which period you have held the responsible position of Foreman and Mechanical Manager of the largest stove manufacturing establishment in the Maritime Provinces, in a very dignified and efficient manner, and in a fair and impartial manner, feel it incumbent upon us to in a modest way show our appreciation of your long and successful career.

We remain yours sincerely, W. R. THOMPSON, H. RILEY.

Committee on behalf of the Employees.

Mr. Stevens was not unmoved by this show of kindness, and in reply said:

FELLOW WORKMEN: It is with mingled feelings of pleasure and regret that I face this occasion. Pleasure that I should have found myself occupying so high a place in your regard, and regret that I am to part with such warm and generous friends and companions. My stay in Sackville has been a prolonged one. Here have been the best years of my life, the period from early manhood to advancing age. During all these years I have experienced nothing but kindness and forbearance on the part of my fellow workmen; sympathy and generosity on the part of my fellow citizens. Dull indeed would be the sensibilities of any man who could remain so long in a place and not feel keenly the severance of the relations that have been mine. While not inclined to arrogate to myself merit commensurate with the respect you have shown me, I can conscientiously say that in the trying position that I have occupied it has been my own aim to do my duty faithfully, scrupulously, firmly and kindly. Although born a citizen of another country I have endeavored to be true to the country of my adoption, her laws, her government, her wars, her peace, and her glory. I have endeavored to be true to the country of my adoption, her laws, her government, her wars, her peace, and her glory. I have endeavored to be true to the country of my adoption, her laws, her government, her wars, her peace, and her glory.

Accept my most profound thanks for your kindness in the remembering me, and with the best wishes of Mrs. Stevens and myself for your future welfare, I will not trespass further but take to my lips the saddest of words I can utter, 'farewell.'

On Tuesday evening a large number of the representative citizens of Sackville met Mr. Stevens in Powell's Hall and presented him with a handsome gold watch accompanied by the following signed address:

TO EDWARD L. STEVENS ESQ.: We learn with deep regret that you are about to sever your connection with us as a citizen of Sackville. We are unable to express our profound admiration for your great skill, ingenuity and knowledge in your chosen craft in clearer terms than by congratulating you, on behalf of the citizens of Sackville as a whole, upon your most successful career as a citizen of Sackville, and as a citizen of the Maritime Provinces. You were ever ready to aid with your sympathy and material support, any deserving project of moral or social improvement. Mrs. Stevens and yourself carry with you your truest friends and the affection of our whole community irrespective of creed and party. The slight token of the great respect in which you and your good wife are held by the people of this community, Joseph Wood, M. P.; David Allison, L. D.; R. A. Treman, Accountant; F. McDonald, Bankers; W. C. Munro, Custom Collector; Geo. E. Ford, Merchant; A. D. Smith, L. D.; S. W. Hutton, Professor; W. Andrews, Professor; C. B. Treman, Accountant; H. E. Patterson, Jeweller; W. A. Cunningham, Merchant; Thomas Murray, Banker; H. A. Powell, M. P.; J. T. A. Cunningham, Merchant; P. B. Borden, Professor; Anna Dixon, Druggist; Wm. McGehee, Merchant; Chas. Moore, Mechanic; J. B. Dickson, Merchant; C. W. Ford, Merchant; H. B. Allison, Gentleman; Chas. Pickard, Merchant; Woodford Turner, Merchant; R. M. Fulton, Merchant; J. P. Treman, Conductor; Wood Brock, Mechanic; R. E. Fawcett, Druggist; J. F. Allison, Postmaster.

Mr. Stevens was visibly affected by the flattering show of kindness and good wishes which had been tendered him. He desired to thank those gentlemen who had so kindly remembered him and while he felt that the encomium was undeserved, yet he would ever prize both the token and address as a souvenir of a very happy period of his life—his twenty-two years in Sackville. Although circumstances ordained that he should sever with his foster country, he would take it as a privilege to be so long interested in Sackville and be pleased to hear of its continued prosperity as well as that of each and every citizen.

Mr. Stevens and his family will be in Providence, Rhode Island, just previous to their departure Mr. Stevens was made the recipient of a purse of gold from his employer Charles Fawcett, also a handsome gold-lined silver pitcher from the clerks in the office.
