Commercial.

We see in possession of New York papers of Tuesday morning, which announce the arrival of the ships St. Andrew and Transesse, from Liverpool, from whence the latter vessel sailed upon the 18th January. The commercial intelupon the 18th January. The commercial intelligence immediately relating to the Canadian trade is not very important, a forther decline in Ashes, as will be seen below, being its most important festure. The temporary difficulty in which the old and respectable Banking-house of Sir J. Espail & Co. had been involved, upited with two very extensive failures in the silk trade in London, and a firm at Bristol, had rather unsetiled the money market in London. Trade generally is spoken of as being in the most pros. perous condition. The Wheat market was shade lower, and purchases of that article in bond could be made on easier terms. The stock of Ashee in the Glasgow on the lat of January, was greater by 2000 bar. rels than on the same date last year, Subjoined will be found some interesting renarks upon the metal trade, taken from the Mining Journal.

The advices received yesterday from New York, notice a further fall in the rate of Exchange on England. On Monday bills were offered freely at N prem, without finding buyers. This decline had an immediate effect on the money market, which was easier. Flour was very firm at $12 for common brands of Western. A sale was made of 1000 bashels Red German Wheat at $2,07, but all descriptions of this grain are stated to be very dull and prices declining.

It is satisfactory to find that the past year has, on the whole, been a prosperous one, as regards the mining interest, although, in some kinds of mineral produce; there has been much fluctua-tion, and latterly a considerable decline. ton, and latterly a considerable decline.

Commencing with Coal, as the most important of our miners' products, there appears to have been the usual steady and adequate demand, from which a fair and remanerating price has saturally resulted; we may infer, also, from the general absence of those atriks among the working miners, which have at former periods produced such unfortunate consequences, that the relations substiting between them and their can. ing miners, which have at former periods produced such unfortunate consequences, that the reittions subsisting between them and their cappioyers have been more satisfactorily adjusted. The Iron trade, flourishing in the earlier part of the year, almost without precedent, has considerably declined in activity towards the close, but is still by no means depressed. This circumstance, resulting from the completion of many foreign orders, railway contracts, eds., which had previously given a great temporary stimulus to this branch of mining must, however, have been foreseen from the first; and as the iron-masters have very pradently decreased the make in proportion to the smaller demand, there is every probability that a fair and remunerating price will still be maintained.

there is every probability that a fair and remun-erating price will still be maintained.

The Copper trade has been throughout the year in a sound and prosporous state, the metal-not having materially fluctuated in its price, which has been such as to afford satisfactory, pro-fits to the minor, and enable the more success-ful mines, both of England and Ireland, to pay very considerable dividends to the sharehold-ers.

The Lead trade appears to have permanently recovered from that ruinous depression which for so many years hung over it; and at the price this metal now obtains, fair profits may be obtained from the more productive class of mines.

Lisson—Wine Merchants.—The measure by which the wine merchants at Oporto we called upon to pay one half the amount of the expert duty in advance, meets with a most determined opposition at Oporto. The parties, in the first instance, addressed a strong joint remonstrance to the Government, which having been dieregarded, they have since declared, in the most positive terms, that they will not pay one farthing in advance. One English house—that of Ormerode & Co.—has 12,061 pipes in the stores, and is consequently called upon for £9.000. The British merchants intend to apply, through Lord Howard, to the British Government for protection against this proceeding.

LITERARY UNION,

LADIES AMERICAN MAGAZINE.

Joseph R. Chandler, R. Penn Smith.

The Proprietor of the Lady's Book is determined to use every means to maintain the superiority which his publication has obtained. For years he has gone steadily on in the course of improvement, and he flatters himself that his facilities are such as to give his work eminent advantages over his competitors. His very ample subscription list enables him to be liberal in his expenditures upon it, and whatever can be accomplished by enterprize and cost he is resolved to effect. Besides the persona above mentioned as contributors, he has expectations of receiving original articles from several distinguished female writers in Europe; and as an indusement to writers of our own country, he is willing to pay for every article adopted by him as suitable to his publication, as high a rate of remuneration as will be given by the proprietors of any other periodical in the United States. The mechanical portion of the Lady's Book will likewise be improved. The typography will be most elegant, and the paper of a better quality. During the y-ar portraits, engraved on steel, of several eminent ladies will be given; and every second month a coloured plate, illustrating the prevailing fashion, will be furnished. Other embellishments, calculated to enhance the appaarance and in rease the value of the work, will be introduced; and generally, everything will be done that the most untiring purpose of making the Lady's Book pre-eminently entitled to patronage can suggest. With the experience he has acquired during a long course of years deveted to the business, and the aid to be derived from the distinguished hady who will be menforth be associated with him, the Publisher is confident that he will be able to render the amplest satisfaction to all who may become his patrone. He, therefore, with a just reliance on his claims. dent that he will be able to render the amplest satisfaction to all who may become his putrons. He, therefore, with a just rollance on his claims to support, respectfully solicite a continuance of that liberal encouragement which has so kindly been bestowed on his endeavours.
