ood men in France at that time and he was of the opinion that we would never have many more.

"America is having a fine time trying to raise an army," he declared satirically. "I hear that 1,600 mutiated the other day in New Terk and refused to get on a transport, and a town in the Northwest composed principally of citizens of Swedish blood retuded to register at all! We are getting excellent information about all conditions in America."

Elective before this had come the revelations from, Washington of the intrigue of Count von Europary, the German minister to argentian, and I knew where the knizer was getting the information he referred to. In nearly every case, it appeared, the knizer's informats were misleading him.

Both before and after we entered the war the knizer was thoroughly convinced that we could play only a neminal part in it so far as man power was concerned and his assurance on that point undoubtedly accounted for his decision to carry through his submarine program even though it resulted in bringing us into the war.

"Do you restime how many tons at shipping it takes to ship a single solder?" he asked me on one occasion.

"Well, it takes six tons to the man! To send over an army of 500,000 men, therefore, your country would require a,000,000 tons of shipping in addition to the tonnage required for regular traffic. Where is it coming from, with my submarines sinking the allied vessels faster than they can ever be replaced? My U-boats are doing wonderful work and we sire prepared to take care of all the troops America may try to land in France."

"How foolish for America to have come into the war," he went on. "Iff she could succeed in landing a rest come into the war," he went on. "The she could succeed in landing a real army in France, what good would it do? America can see how easy it was for me to break through and to capture 500,000 of the Italians, and they must realize that I can break through on the western front and do the same thing there. If America had kept out of the war she would have gone on making untold profits and when peace was finally declared she would have gone in a most envisible position among the nations of the world, he it to willow will never have a seat at the peace table if I can help it, and now, a werles shall have to pay all the

An attack by the British and American forces was impending. The Germans expected it and informed the population that if they gathered in the local church and put up a white sheet as a flag, they would be spared by the advancing Alfied troops. They did so. The Germans soon were driven out by the British and Americans.
