SIX THOUSAND PAY HEAD TAX

According to Franklin Q. Twitchell, inspector of immigration at St. John for the United States Government, some 6,000 people have paid their head taxes at the various points of entrance to the United States in New Brunswick, since the first of the year. He gave this information when asked by the Journal for the total number of people who had left the province because of a statement recently published that some 16,000 New Brunswickers had gone to the United States during the last few months, to take up permanent residence there. For the six months ending December 31, 1922, the total number was 7,000 while up to date this year the total is 6,000, making an outside total for the past year of some 13,000. Mr. Twitchell pointed out that this number included those from Nova Scotia who found it more convenient to come by this route and also those from Prince Edward Island. Asked what percentage of the total would be from Nova Scotia, he thought at least ten and perhaps fifteen percent, with probably another ten percent from the Island, so that the total number of New Brunswickers would be in the vicinity of 10,000.
Since January 1, 1923, about 6,000 had gone. This did not include those who were only visiting in the States, but ones who had actually paid head tax, with the intention of going to work there. The exodus had started on an extensive scale just about one year ago, and from May 1922 the emigration had been about three times greater than was usual in an ordinary year. The records showed that approximately 5,000 people paid their head taxes during an average year, thus signifying their intention of staying in the United States some temporarily and some permanently.

He said that statistics showed that usually 70 per cent of those who crossed the border in this manner remained on the other side permanently but it had been noticed during the last year that the percentage of those remaining was higher. The movement was not confined to the Maritime Provinces alone, but was common all over Canada. Mr. Twitchell thought one reason for it was the great industrial activity in the United States at the present time.
When the increased activity in emigration was first noticed last May, it was largely young men and young women who were leaving here to seek a livelihood in the United States. Each section of the country had a certain section of the States, to which the people went in preference to other sections. Massachusetts and parts of Maine were the favorite sections to which people from these provinces went. This was still true, although a great many young men went to Detroit to work in the automobile factories.
About the first of this year, he said, the movement southwards was not confined to young men and young women, but consisted chiefly of the families of those who had gone before, going to join their relatives who had obtained work.
This probably was the reason that there was not such a high percentage returning as in former years.
About twelve families a day were going through the local office at the present time and in one week recently, 54 families had left the city for the United States.
All of course, who went through the local office were not from St.
John, although the majority of them were from New Brunswick. In one week 47 young men had left Fredericton. Mr. Twitchell pointed out the loss which this meant to merchants, meaning in the aggregate at least $47,000 a year, which could be counted a dead loss.

Asked what reasons were given by most of the people, he said those from the city complained of high taxation, high rents, and the general high cost of living. Those from the country, districts and small towns were moving in most instances because the younger members of the family had gone to the States. He believed the cause was largely fundamental. The young people growing up to-day were not content with the quiet, se-date life in the country districts which their parents had lived before them. The original settlers were willing to endure the hardships of carving homes in the wilderness but the present generation was not willing to live in the homes made for them but were filled with the desire for excitement and for the pleasures of the big cities.

The industrial revival in the United States promised the opportunity of high wages and so these people were tempted by letters of friends, who had gone before them, to join them. In many instances, young people went across the border only on visits but when there found the opportunity for work and took it. Asked if he thought many of those who had gone would return, he cited the statistics given above, and said that these movements came in cycles and he believed that many of those from western and central Canada would return just as they did in former years. With regard to this province probably there would be the same return movement on a lesser scale. When the demand for labor ceased in U.S. many of those who had gone would return home.

Plan To Emigrate England's Unemployed

Questioned in the House of Commons about the prospects of Government assistance enabling the alleged 300,000 able bodied unemployed ex-servicemen to emigrate, Lieut.
Colonel Albert Buckley, secretary of the Overseas Trade Department, pointed out that the number to be benefitted must depend, among other things, on the absorptive capacity of the Dominions. It was hoped, however, that during the next twelve months a measure would be adopted which, at a rough estimate, would make possible the emigration of 1,500 a week.

INDIAN CHIEF IS FINED $20

In the Chatham police court Wednesday morning, John Gennish, chief of the Burnt Church Indian Reserve was charged with assault, by Paul Taylor, an ex-chief of the reserve.
Gennish was arrested at Burnt Church by Provincial Constable, Adam Dickison. J.P. Barry appeared for the informant and Herman S. Murray, represented the accused. After hearing evidence of several Indians from the reserve, Magistrate Gaynor found the accused guilty and imposed a fine of $20 and costs.
Prior to this case sentence was imposed upon Daniel Murphy, junk dealer, who was charged with receiving stolen goods. T. H.
Whalen, of Newcastle, Clerk of the Peace, conducted the prosecution.
Thomas S. Murray appeared for Murphy.
The evidence of the two youths who sold the goods was heard and the accused found guilty. The magistrate in giving his decision told Murphy that he would give him another chance, but if he ever appeared in the Court again he would be sent to Dorchester.
Murray and Perry, who had been convicted for theft, were allowed out on suspended sentence.

Children Cry for Fletcher's CASTORIA

Fletcher's Castoria is strictly a remedy for Infants and Children.
Food are specially prepared for babies. A baby's medicine is even more essential for baby. Remedies primarily prepared for grown-ups are not interchangeable. It was the need of a remedy for the common ailments of Infants and Children that brought Castoria before the public after years of research, and no claim has been made for it that its use for over 30 years has not proven.

What is CASTORIA?
Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. For more than thirty years it has been in constant use for the relief of Constipation, Flatulency, Wind Colic and Diarrhoea; allaying Feverishness arising therefrom, and by regulating the Stomach and Bowels, aids the assimilation of Food; giving healthy and natural sleep.
