Burglar "Touches" Tower of London for First Time.

London, Aug. 18.—The burglar record has been broken in the city of London. The Tower lost its reputation as a stronghold when a burglar succeeded in not only breaking in, but setting away with the canteen cash belonging to the soldiers of the garrison.

It is probably the first time in the history of the Tower of London that a burglary has taken place there, and certainly it is the first time the police have been called in to assist the soldiers stationed in England's premier fortress. Up-to-date, they have not captured the culprit.

Airplane Patrols.

BRITAIN ALREADY LOOKING INTO THE FUTURE.

The Dutch paper Telegraaf reported that on November 15 airplanes dropped bombs on the castle at Swalmen, where the ex-crown prince of Germany is staying.

No suggestion is made as to the nationality of the airplanes, except by the parenthetical remark that Swalmen is only three miles from the German frontier. The report does not mention any casualties, nor does it say how the ex-price bore himself under fire, though it would have been interesting to have known, since, according to popular report, he has had no previous experience during the war of being under fire, having left all that to the German "cannon fodder," which he so recklessly and cynically sacrificed.

The report is vague in the extreme, but whether or not true, it suggests various exciting possibilities in the future. Piracy and smuggling by airplane are possibilities not to be overlooked. Of course, while all Europe is still armed, and the German army resembles a pack of wolves without a pack leader, nothing could be easier than for some German airmen who disapprove of the ex-crown prince's conduct in general and are resolved that no counter-revolution shall ever make him emperor, to paint out the national marks on their machines, fly high above the clouds into Holland, dive upon his residence and release their bombs. In any force still retaining its discipline and the discipline of active service at that, such action would be wildly impossible.

In times of peace such raids would be less easy. All airmen and their airplanes will of course be registered; the movements of aircraft will be even more strictly under observation than those of seagoing ships, for the simple reason that their periods of absence from terra firma are necessarily much briefer.

Moreover, air pirates could never stop a commercial airplane and call on it to "stand and deliver." They could never get away with booty, and therefore their operations could only be destructive and not profitable.

But one must not overlook the possibility that a power as evil disposed and reckless as Germany was in 1914 might suddenly begin a systematic attack on all the aircraft of a rival. The experiences of the past warn us to be cautious in the future.

It will be the task of the royal air force to guard the air merchantmen of Britain. For years their work may be as bloodless as was the work of the navy from Navarino in 1814, but the navy was needed at last, and it would be very rash to declare that the royal air force will never again send a foe down in flames.

We must remain prepared on land, on the sea and, last but not least, in the air.—London Mail.

The Lesson of Warsaw.

Warsaw still stands. She reeled and staggered under the pounding blows of Bolshevik Russia, but instead of going down for the count, to the defeat that would have meant ruin and political bankruptcy, she steadies herself and "like a wild cat mad with wounds," springs at her opponent.

The panorama of the world is reflected, in miniature, in the Polish capital. A new Poland was created by the statesmen that sat around the conference table at Paris, just as these same men sought to build a new world by a League of Nations out of the wreckage of the Great War.

The Poles were unable to face without irresolution, the tremendous tasks of peace. The inst of fighting was in their veins, and they could not settle down to the work of rehabilitation. So it was in the great world beyond. There was the same irritability, the same distaste for strenuous and continued effort in the unadventurous paths of peace. There was the same distrust of those in command, the same desire for change of government.

Poland was infiltrated with the propaganda by which the Bolsheviks of Europe sought to overthrow the whole world structure. When Soviet Russia threw her armies against the walls of Warsaw the shock of battle reverberated around the world.

Warsaw has won at least a breathing space by concentration of effort and by the unity of national aims that gained the victory for the Allies in the four memorable years of our testing time. Man, woman and child in Poland, consumed with the same passionate zeal for the public welfare, fought desperately for national existence. There were no meetings of protest among little groups of the Polish army, no coquetting with the Red armies, no response to the lure of their damnable creed.

Poland gives the world a lesson. When all seemed lost, unity of effort and supreme faith in the righteousness of their cause has turned defeat into victory.—Montreal Daily Star.

Sugar Up and Sugar Down.

(From the New York World.) As sugar prices went up when sugar was scarce and in unusual demand, so they are now going down because the commodity is plentiful and the demand less. The fact furnishes an interesting illustration of Governor Collidge's theory that "we must have less of Government interference in business and more reliance of the people on themselves." It is not to Government regulation that the public owes the lower prices, but to its own decreased consumption of sugar. The consumer holds the infallible remedy in his hands and can supply it at any time through the exercise of a little self-denial more effectually than through the medium of Government machinery. If there is any economic lesson that has been made clear to the popular intelligence it would seem to be that borne home to the public by its experience with the wide fluctuations of sugar prices over a period of years. Hoarding and speculative buying have, of course, had their effect, and these abnormal influences the law correct. But the ultimate stabilization of prices rests with the people through "more reliance on themselves" and less on Government.

THERE IS ONLY ONE GENUINE ASPIRIN

Only Tablets with "Bayer Cross" are Aspirin—No others!

If you don't see the "Bayer Cross" on the tablets, refuse them—they are not Aspirin at all. Your druggist gladly will give you the genuine "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" because genuine Aspirin is now made by Americans and owned by an American Company.

There is not a cent's worth of German interest in Aspirin, all rights being purchased from the U. S. Government. During the war, acid limitations were sold as Aspirin in pill boxes and various other containers. But now you can get genuine Aspirin, plainly stamped with the safety "Bayer Cross."—Aspirin proved safe by millions for Headache, Toothache, Earache, Rheumatism, Lumbago, Colds, Neuritis, and Pain generally. Handy tin boxes of 12 tablets—also larger "Bayer" packages. Aspirin is the trade mark (Newfoundland Registration No. 761), of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacid-ester of Salicylicacid, U.S.A. The Bayer Co., Inc., U.S.A.

Fads and Fashions.

Crope jersey is used for underwear. Paris favors short sleeves for fall. Copper tones are full favorites. Dresses have deep, square openings. A new fall shade is couture brown. Silk tassels fall from waist to hem. Chemise dresses are belted at the hips. Long buttons are used on the suit coat. Black broadcloth is being used for capes.
