Detroit, June 24.—Of all the sorrowful days strewn through the diamond career of Jimmie McAleer, yesterday must have caused the most pain for the wise little manager of the St. Louis Browns. It takes more than an ordinary defeat to make "Sunny Jim" despondent. But when the Tigers take five games in a row from his team and make the eighth one a wallowing first, Jones might be warranted in declaring that the Champions were adding insult to injury.

The Score 8 to 1.
That the Tigers have little regard for the feelings of the visitors from Missouri was evident from the first test. The score of the game was 8 to 1. It came very nearly being 8 to 0, for the Browns were unable to get a man across the plate until the inning next to the last.

George Suggs, the Tiger twirler, who has pitched good ball on several occasions this season and yet found ill-luck trailing him about, deserves most of the credit for what the Browns failed to do in the scoring line.

Suggs in Shape.
George held the St. Louis sluggers to five stinging hits. With the exception of the eighth when the Browns got two, and enough to give them their lone tally, there was not another tinning in which McAleer's men got more than one hit, and they only got this allotment in the second, fifth and sixth innings. Suggs passed but one of the Browns and fanned five. Through his clever twirling the visitors were retired in order in five of the rounds.

"Dodge" Departs Early.
But while Suggs was giving considerable aid to the visiting ballplayers, the Champions were toying with the slants of their opponents. "Dodge" Criss, who, besides being called on to bat for some one of the Browns in a pinch, also pitches, went in against the Tigers at the beginning of the game. "Dodge" started out by hitting McIntyre. In addition to this he was found for two hits and a pass in the first round which sent the Champions off with a lead of two runs.

Criss Was Hammered.
"Dodge" escaped in the second inning after permitting the Champions one single. But when the Tigers developed such a fondness for the awkward youth's delivery, that McAleer wisely and unceremoniously yanked him from the box. Crawford, first up in the third, picked one of Criss' choice ones out, and clouted it to right. It went for a single. Cobb, Rossman and O'Leary, did precisely what Sam did and with none out, McAleer beckoned "Dodge" to the bench.

Bailey Replaces Criss.
Bailey, the Browns' sidewinder, was selected to pull the team out of the hole, but he failed miserably, and the Tigers registered a total of four scores in this round before three men were retired.

A Great Swatfest.
If nothing more, the game gave the Tigers a chance to fatten their sticking averages. Fifteen was the total of swats that the Champions got off the delivery of both twirlers. Six of these were two-baggers. Sam Crawford, who was up to bat five times, pounded out four safe hits, and three of them were doubles. Schaefer is credited with two doubles, and Bush one. Every man in the Tiger camp line-up got at least one hit, save George Suggs.
