

Canada To Have Independent Fuel Supply :: Jewish Fraternity Instituted

DOMINION MINES WILL PROVIDE INDEPENDENT SUPPLY TO CANADIANS

Coke From Maritimes Expected To Solve Problem in Eastern Ontario and Quebec, While Coal Will Be Brought From West To Supply Western Ontario.

LEGISLATION IS PLANNED FOR THIS SESSION

By E. C. BUCHANAN, Special to The Advertiser.
A Staff Correspondent.
Parliament Building, Ottawa, March 16.—Information of immediate importance came tonight from Hon. Charles Stewart, minister of the interior, on Canada's fuel problem. It is to the effect that the government has already gone a long way toward the solution of this problem and is going further. Legislation will be introduced this session by Mr. Stewart and other steps will be taken to make Canada independent in its fuel supply.

Briefly, the government is satisfied after its thorough investigations that the solution lies largely in the coking of soft coal, and at the same time it is hopeful that transportation costs on Alberta lignite can be brought down to make it possible for this fuel to compete with American anthracite in Western Ontario. The two combined would practically free Canada from the necessity of looking to the United States for fuel.

Bring Coal From West.

In the matter of Alberta coal, for Western Ontario, the minister stated that a wholehearted attempt was to be made this spring to establish the lowest cost, at which it could be laid down in Ontario. The Canadian National Railways were to bring down 50,000 tons, and to assist in this the government was continuing the contribution of $200,000 voted for the purpose last session and not used this year, owing to the strike in Alberta. It had been announced that Sir Henry Thornton had agreed to fix a rate of $7 a ton on this coal. It was believed, Mr. Stewart said, that the cost could be reduced to $5 and the cost of mining and loading on cars kept within $3.50 a ton, the coal, which had proved entirely satisfactory, could compete with Pennsylvania hard coal.

As for Quebec, and as far west in Ontario as Cornwall, American anthracite could be replaced by the use of coke made from Nova Scotia soft coal. The feasibility of coke manufactured from the marketing of by-products, and Montreal would furnish the market. A million and a half tons of American coal would be supplanted in Quebec by Canadian coke.

Coking at Toronto.
The government was also negotiating with the hydro-electric commission to have it install coking ovens in connection with its proposed steam auxiliary plants in Toronto. If this were done much of the coke also, which could be supplied by the coke fields of the Ontario coast, could be supplied by the coke fields of the Ontario coast, which could be supplied by the coke fields of the Ontario coast.

The matter came up on the resolution of T. L. Church, Toronto, proposing that measures be taken to establish an independent national fuel supply, including a duty against American coal. Mr. Stewart stated that the government was ready to accept the resolution if the reference to duty was withdrawn.

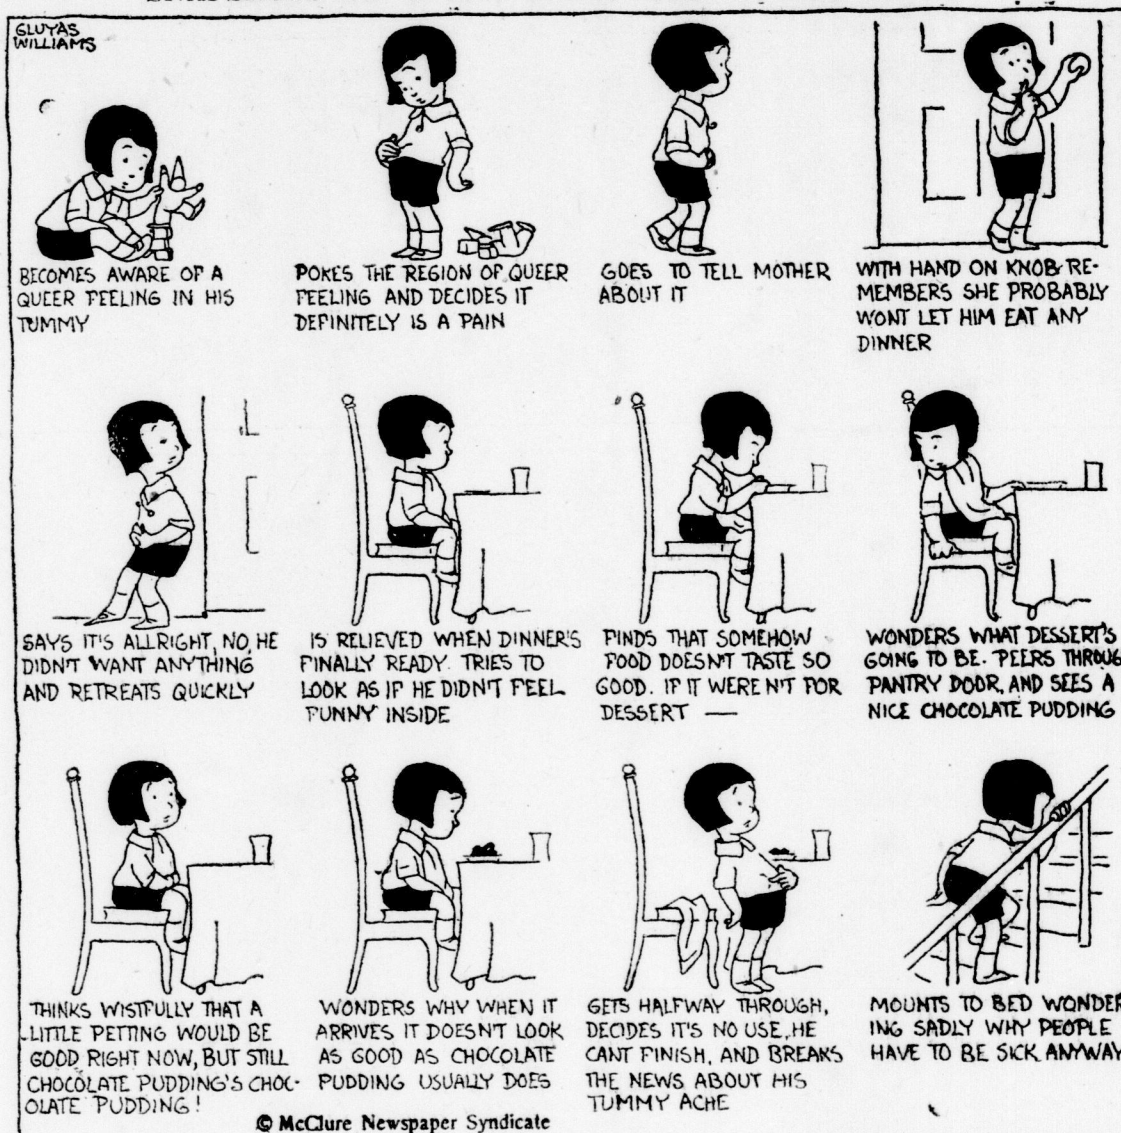

Maritime members took advantage of the occasion to press for the duty against the United States soft coal, but the question was disposed of by the adoption of a motion to adjourn.

RESOLUTION LOST.
Canadian Press Despatch.
Ottawa, March 16.—By a vote of 86 to 65, the House of Commons tonight rejected a resolution by G. G. Coote (Progressive, MacLeod) proposing a substantial reduction in the customs tariff on automobiles and motor trucks entering Canada. All the Progressives, half a dozen Conservatives and two Liberals supported the motion.

The two Liberals were W. F. Carroll of Cape Breton South and L. H. Martell of Hants.

The Conservatives supporting the resolution were Donald Sutherland,

Scotia Invaded By Ku Klux Klan

Canadian Press Despatch.
Halifax, N.S., March 16.—"We are entering Nova Scotia" was the statement received in a letter by a Halifax citizen asking him to take upon himself the duties of organizing a branch of the Ku Klux Klan here. The letter, which was sent from a Toronto address, described the aims of the Klan, which it was stated, had become well established in Canada. It was stated that the Klan was a white men, Gentiles and Protestants. Protestant organization was needed to overcome the influence of the papacy, the letter stated, and the recipient was asked to fill out a questionnaire which was enclosed.

Employment Aid.

Mr. Coote, speaking to his resolution, urged that a substantial reduction in the tariff at least on the lower priced cars, would result in a reduced price in Canada, and increased employment.

Hon. J. A. Robb, acting minister of finance, thought the resolution could very well have a reduction in the price of these vehicles. He thought all parties in the House would support his resolution, which was in line with the present Liberal policy in Canada, these factories gave employment and paid taxes to Canadians.

There was a general demand, Mr. Coote said, for a reduction in the price of these vehicles. He thought all parties in the House would support his resolution, which was in line with the present Liberal policy in Canada, these factories gave employment and paid taxes to Canadians.

The Progressive party, he thought, were behind it, and the leader of the official Opposition had said in 1911 that an industry demonstrated its ability to export a large proportion of its output, the tariff thereon, could safely be lowered.

Mr. Coote maintained that the spread between United States and Canadian prices was too great and motor companies here had been able to get along without so much tariff protection. "I would suggest a reduction of 50% in the present tariff," he declared.

W. D. Euler (Liberal, North Waterloo) asked if Mr. Coote thought there would be no increase in the import of cars under a reduced tariff. Mr. Coote thought not. Canadians would buy domestic cars as they were doing now.

Without dividing, the house also passed a resolution calling for legislation "which will make difficult and

GUELPH ALDERMAN TOOK CITY RELIEF

Judge Spotton Makes Report On Investigation of Department.

Special to The Advertiser.

Guelph, March 16.—The report of County Judge Anson Spotton in connection with the recent judicial investigation into the conduct of the city relief department, presented at tonight's meeting of the city council, finds James Cassidy, whose resignation as relief officer was accepted following the inquiry, guilty of irregularities. The judge also found that Ald. W. P. Evans had received relief improperly from the relief department.

Judge Spotton found that in three cases men entitled to relief were obliged to do work around the city hall, of which Cassidy was caretaker, before they were given relief. The judge also sustained a charge that Cassidy paid Mr. Annie Freymire, whom he had engaged to work for two years, with relief orders for the services she performed.

On three or four occasions, the report stated, Cassidy had a woman do laundry work for him, she being paid by relief orders upon grocers. It is also found that Cassidy had made out relief orders to parties who did not receive the relief, the orders being presented by Cassidy, or someone in his behalf, brought to his own home and used there.

The judge also accepted the testimony of Mrs. Sarah Collins, a housekeeper for Cassidy for two years, to the effect that the product of relief orders, made out in fictitious names, had reached the home of Ald. W. P. Evans through the latter himself and his children, and on one occasion through Mrs. Collins, who stated she had personally delivered a basket of groceries to the alderman's home.

The report was referred to the finance committee for consideration.

AT THE THEATRES

MAJESTIC THEATRE

"Flirting Flapper."

Comedy and impersonations with songs and dances between times go into the making of "The Flirting Flapper" at the Majestic theatre this week. The play might be called a musical comedy without a chorus. Howard Blair, female impersonator, is a musical comedy type. There is no doubt that he made good in his first appearance last night. He is a good dancer and possesses a fair voice. He accomplished much in the trying ordeal of a male soprano.

Every character in "The Flirting Flapper" offers the cast unusual possibilities. It is only fair to say that the members of the Majestic Players excelled themselves.

Margaret Robertson, as Arabella, the maid, turned what might easily have been a wearisome part into a splendid example of a movie mad hero worshipping kitchen slave.

Lyle Clement, as a young man in urgent need of a wife, had the whole-hearted support of the cast. Miss Leslie Rice played well up to her usual performance. Cora Stephens, dainty and attractive, has her opportunity this week in dance numbers. Nature intended her for a dancer, and as such she is far from disappointing.

The plot concerns a young man who must be married before 10 p.m. Naturally there is a bedroom scene and a lot of fun.

The scenery brought applause, and well deserved it.

CAPITOL THEATRE

"Racing Luck."

But for the seats in the theatre the audience would have been dancing last night when Vincent Lopez band played at the Capitol. This is a band of the highest calibre, and a syncopation its first cousin. Four times it was forced by applause to give another selection last night, and after the great treat even for opponents of syncopation.

"Racing Luck" introduces a new star to picture fans. Monty Banks is a new type in movie comedy, a very clever artist with a sense of humor. A young Italian immigrant to America is the hero of the story. Diminutive, and almost insignificant, he enters his new life with a zest. In the space of a few weeks he beats up the Italian ward boss of the district in New York, (twice) falls in love with his uncle's adopted daughter, and wins a motor race after one day's coaching in a flivver. The race is a hair-raising affair with a chuckle of the whole ritual. All other virtues are merely instruments to that great end. B'nai Brith has one common song of service and fellowship. The city of our objects was anything that B'nai Brith will do under the heading of citizenship.

Clear Conscience Needed.
"There is only one support that we need from the Jewish people in the practice of our objects—that is a clear conscience and a clear heart. B'nai Brith is neither entirely religious nor political. It teaches service, citizenship, and it has already been recognized as a social organization in the public life of the world, the public life of this province."

Mr. Singer expressed the hope that in the very near future a grand lodge would be organized in London, making the fifteenth grand lodge in the world. At present there exists only one B'nai Brith organization on the continent. He declared that as Canadians have a sense of laws and history, it would become necessary for a separate grand lodge as a child of the greater organization.

He was optimistic of this, and declared that it could be realized shortly by increased membership of the newly-formed organization.

Outlines Ideals.
Isidore Goldstick, chairman for the evening, and present of the London lodge, expressed noble sentiments and outlined the ideals of B'nai Brith in an explanatory manner.

"We have good reason to congratulate ourselves on being admitted to this great lodge," he said. "Our attitude to the order should be that of a loving and obedient child to a fond parent."

David Rusland, a member of the central committee of the district grand lodge, No. 1, Buffalo, N. Y., told how the order stood for brotherly love and justice.

"If we mete out justice to our brothers, we will give happiness to the world in which we live. Our order bans us together for the purpose of spreading a humanitarianism and fellowship all over the world."

M. Levy, secretary of the district grand lodge, gave an historical outline of the lodge, tracing it to its origin in 1825 by a band of German Jews in New York city. The lodge grew with great rapidity, until now it has become the greatest Jewish organization in the world. It was first instituted in Canada, he said, in the year 1875.

Mayor Wenige Replies.
Other speakers for the evening included J. Fox, who gave the toast to the city of London. Mayor Wenige responded. A toast to the ladies was offered by E. Matthews and responded to by Mrs. H. Varmovsky. A toast to the guests was given by C. Burns, vice-president of the London lodge. J. Sweet, district deputy, replied. The press was toasted by Dr. L. Jessel and responded to by A. R. Kenney of the The Advertiser and Arthur Ford of the Free Press.

Throughout the evening pleasing musical selections were rendered by A. S. Greenaway, Miss Gladys Lewis and Miss Louise Wolf. A dance was held at the conclusion of the banquet.

B'nai Brith is probably the largest Jewish fraternal society in the world, having a membership of 75,000 in a total of 500 lodges.

Officers for the London lodge are: I. Goldstick, president; C. H. Burns, vice-president; H. Lewis, secretary; L. Greenstein, treasurer; M. Fishkin, monitor; B. Matthews, assistant monitor; A. Agranov, warden; S. C. Harris and J. S. Shewach, stewards.

Several hundred were present at last night's banquet. A degree team from Hamilton furnished much of the afternoon and evening entertainment. Representatives were present from all parts of Western Ontario, including Chatham, St. Thomas, Hamilton, Toronto, Windsor and Ottawa.

No one was injured.

B'NAI B'RITH LODGE FORMED IN CITY

Canadian Conference Head Declares Order Stands For Loyalty and Worship.

40 LOCAL MEMBERS

B'nai Brith became a reality in London last night. B'nai Brith, a lodge which stands for loyalty to God, loyalty to the country, justice and true citizenship, a fraternal organization of the Jewish people which stretches around the world, now has a local following.

The London lodge of the Independent Order B'nai Brith Sons of the Covenant was instituted yesterday when forty members were installed in an afternoon and evening ritual. Officers of the grand lodge of America were present for the event, and many members of other Canadian lodges came to the city for the institution.

The keynote of B'nai Brith was impressed upon its newest members at a banquet at the Masonic Temple last night, when fathers of the organization in Canada, officers in American branches and members of the grand council, outlined its aims and policies. B'nai Brith stands for justice and citizenship. It is a chain which will bind the world in a spirit of fraternity. London is the fifth city in Ontario to be introduced to B'nai Brith.

L. M. Singer Speaks.

L. M. Singer, chairman of the Canadian conference, was the chief speaker at last night's banquet. Forcibly, he demonstrated the power B'nai Brith would mean to the community. He told of its requirements, its aims and its policies, and convincingly illustrated the great spirit of friendship which it breathed.

"This is a big day in the history of London," he said. "The reason for existence of B'nai Brith is not for the Jewish people alone. It is to teach the principles of citizenship, and there is no greater thing for a progressive center than the quality of true citizenship."

"Worship your God. Be loyal to your country. These are the keynotes of the whole ritual. All other virtues are merely instruments to that great end. B'nai Brith has one common song of service and fellowship. The city of our objects was anything that B'nai Brith will do under the heading of citizenship."

LIQUOR KEEPING CASE ENLARGED

Failure of Defence To Be Heard Previously Gains Enlargement.

Special to The Advertiser.

Sarnia, March 16.—A further enlargement until Thursday was granted in police court today in the case of Norman Dale and Charles Heffron, charged with having or keeping liquor on February 16, in a place other than a private dwelling-house. At the close of the submission of testimony for the prosecution at the hearing last week, defence counsel moved for dismissal, and in support of his motion quoted a recent decision of the appellate division. This decision, as interpreted, required indemnity of the seized liquor by sealing in the presence of the defendant.

Pleading to give judgment this morning, Magistrate Gorman said he had studied the judgment several times and could find no such ruling in it. He was about to go on and reject the defence when N. L. Levesque, appearing for the defendant, in the absence of P. P. Dawson, said he understood that no evidence had been offered for the defence at the previous sitting, and he asked the court to have an opportunity to offer a defence. The court agreed to an adjournment, and fixed Thursday as the date.

The charge in this case was preferred when the police found Dale and Heffron in Beattie's cleaning shop, Christina street, at an early hour on the morning of February 16. Bottles of beer were found on the premises.

MRS. FLEMMINGTON, 88, GIVEN BIRTHDAY PARTY

Sparta Woman, Native of Lincolnshire, England, Interesting Conversationalist.

Special to The Advertiser.

Sparta, March 16.—A birthday party of unusual interest was held Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. William Velland in honor of her mother, Mrs. Sarah Flemmington, who on Saturday reached her eighty-eighth year. Mrs. Flemmington, then Sarah A. Leverton, came with her parents from Lincolnshire, England, in April, 1837, and settled north of Sparta on the fourth concession of South Yarmouth, but later purchased the adjoining farm, now owned by Frank Schojner, where they lived for many years. In 1871 she became the bride of Josiah Flemmington, and they settled on the farm adjoining the village, now owned and occupied by Irwin Martin, where they lived for thirty years.

Moved To Village.

On Mr. Flemmington's health failing at this time they moved into the village into the home now owned and occupied by Harley Gorvitt. After the death of Mr. Flemmington on December 15, 1912, Mrs. Flemmington made her home with her daughter, Mrs. William Velland, with whom she has lived ever since. In 1917, Mrs. Flemmington united with the Methodist church and has been an active member ever since. She was present at the organization of the first ladies aid society which took place during the pastorate of the late Rev. James Charlton, who was stationed here in 1877-8-9. Mrs. Charlton was elected the first president, and Miss Bessie Rundle, sister of the late John Rundle, the first secretary. The present parsonage was built during this pastorate.

Bright Conversationalist.

Mrs. Flemmington is enjoying good health, and is a very interesting conversationalist, as she has a wonderful fund of knowledge of Sparta and surrounding district, having lived here for some sixty-seven years. She has one sister and one brother living, having a membership of 75,000 in a total of 500 lodges.

The following invited guests were present: Mrs. John Farr, St. Thomas; Mrs. W. H. Leaverton, Mrs. Herb. Leaverton, Mrs. R. Yelland, Mrs. Swazie, Mrs. Hilburn, Mrs. W. H. Mills, Mrs. R. Flincheh, Mrs. Neil Gloom, Mrs. W. Gorvitt, Mrs. George Ennis, Mrs. Joseph Leverton, Miss Moeding, Mrs. Rose Grisdale and Mrs. (Dr.) Husser.

Mrs. Flemmington received many congratulations and good wishes for many returns of the day. Saturday, her birthday, a second party was held, attended only by relatives.

Hudson Fashion Shoppe Presents Season's Smartest Creations For Her Approval.

OTHER FIRMS ASSIST

Members of Princess Patricia Chapter Irresistible Display.

Loew's Theatre was crowded last night for the Fashion Parade presented there by the Hudson Fashion Shoppe, under the auspices of The London Advertiser.

The latest models in spring costumes, hats and shoes were displayed by members of the Princess Patricia chapter, during the course of a musical program. Ensemble costumes, characteristic of the spring mode, predominated in all the beautiful beige, tan and morocco shades. Navy blue, too, was seen in several striking costumes, while black with its contrasting shades played an important part in a number of the gowns.

The hats, specially made to match the gowns by the Royal Millinery Shop, were marked by their chic and daintiness. For the most part they were small and black in tone. But silk and flowers to harmonize with all their loveliness, and with such skill that the general effect was exceedingly lovely. But one wide-brimmed hat made its appearance. It was a drooping picture shape, of straw, from the right side of which drooped a large silk flower.

Beautiful Setting.

The Ontario Furniture Company had provided a pretty setting for the fashion parade, the comfortable chairs and divanettes having been placed about the stage, which was softly lit with lamps of exquisite design. Flowers and palms, too, had been placed there to add to the beauty of the Gammage decorator, giving the stage the impression of being a beautifully furnished drawing-room. Then the part began, and with it the arrival of the guests in their Modish gowns. A trim white-capped maid was on hand to take away the wraps and so reveal the gowns in all their loveliness, beneath just as lovely cloaks and coats.

One lovely lady appeared in a cloak of pearl gray, trimmed with the palest green, and when she threw back her cloak, showing the pale mauve lining, the audience discovered that she was also wearing a crown of pearls and a crown of pearls.

Then another guest arrived. Her coat was a tailored model of beige cloth and she carried a cane, if you please.

School Girls Appear.

The next arrival had donned a smart navy coat, trimmed with white flannel and lined with gray. The gray gown was disclosed beneath. Two attractive school girls appeared, one wearing royal blue while the other wore a navy blue gown. The background with the plaid marked in blue.

Then there appeared a lady wearing a black satin cloak trimmed with black and gold silk, and to represent leopard skin. When the maid appeared she just turned the coat inside out, and presto! there was another costume. This time the coat was of the leopard skin satin and the trimming black. The gown beneath matched the coat.

A handsome ottoman coat of black and gold silk was worn with a graceful black and blue gown. An Oakwood cloak had a gown of the same tone. One tailored suit was of navy cloth with a gray silk scarf tied close up about the neck in front.

Musical Program.

With the most of costumes came and under-arm bags from the Nash Jewelry Shop were carried. The shop also supplied the lovely jewelry which was worn during the fashion show.

And the modish shoes which so neatly fitted the feet of the guests were from Ashplant's shoe shop. After the guests had all assembled a delightful musical program was given including violin numbers by Miss Cora Brown and piano selections by Miss Lenore Coughlin, Heintzman & Co. piano was used on the stage.

The following members of the Princess Patricia chapter showed off the gowns to advantage: Miss Eula White, Mrs. Eric Reid, Mrs. Richard Cronyn, Mrs. George Wain, Miss Miss Shirley Johnston, Miss Helen Boughner, Mrs. Farleigh Hungerford and Miss Constance Givens.

The Princess Patricia chapter members are giving their services in aid of a new Y. W. C. A. building for London.
