LEAGUE PRESENTS CANADIAN PLAY

Theatre Opens New Season With Bright Comedy.

With the establishment of the Drama league in Warner Hall the Little theatre movement receives a further impetus in London. For the initial performance of the season last right, the hall was packed, indicating a membership of at least five hundred.

Two one-act plays were presented by groups of talented players. The second play, following the policy of the Pague this year, was by a Canadian playwright, Merrill Denison Scarely could the league have choen a better vehicle to start off the seasn than this bright little coredy of the Canadian north country "From Their Own Place," diread by Basil Morgan.

Mr. Morgan himself took a prom ignt role in the play which lends tree backwoodsmen who dominate he stage, he did some exceptionally lever acting. Mr. Morgan is always ignified in his dramatic work. Last light's performance was restrained. called for subtle comedy which Mr. Morgan was able to furnish to the delight of his audience. The scene of the play is Mr. Stedman's summer cottage. It is winter, and the three backwoodsmen, one of whom is caretaker, have taken a proprietory interest in the place. They prietory interest in the place. They have used pipes from the motor-boats to make their illegal stills, and now, when they hear that "The Old Lad," as Mr. Stedman is affectionate-Lad," as Mr. Stedman is affectionately called, will make a winter visit to his estate, they plan to "do" him by selling him their illegally-trapped furs at an outrageous price.

It is a question of "the rich man" fair game any day. The three backwoodsmen are chareters drawn with a knowing pen. The dramatist has remembered the frailties of human nature and has used her brush lavishly to make fun for her audience. With their rough manners, their primitive diplomacy as how to put it over the other fellow. three rugged men afford the local color of the piece.

in marked contrast to this atmosphere of the backwoods, comes the youthful owner of the place and his wife. As the wife, Miss Lorna Rum-ball, appeared for the first time before the league. Direct from Emerson School of Oratory, Boston, Miss Rumball has a refreshing personality and marked dramatic ability.

The role of "The Old Lad's" wife was not a big one in the play, but Miss Rumball, by her attractive personality and her glever acting, made the character stand out. There were many who expressed the wish that they might see her again in a larger

Harry Dickinson and Marvin Kenyon as backwoodsmen in the play were excellently cast, and accounted for not a few of the best laughs of the evening. Dr. Kenneth Berry as The Old Lad, and George Spelvin as the game warden also stood out in piece for their excellent dramatic this first Canadian play of the season was a marked success, and augurs well for others

Miss Lorna Rumball, as well as appearing in the Merrill-Denison com-dy, directed the first play of the evening The Robbery, a pretty little one-act comedy by Claire Kummer.

Here, too, the acting was of a very excellent quality. Miss Miriam Eckert and Regime!

Miss Miriam Harrington, Eckert and Reginald Faryon, who had the longest roles, did fine work as the youthful members of the cast, while Dr. Edwin Seaborn and Mrs. cast Seaborn provided delightful comedy. Dr. K. Berry, as Fielding the butler, did a nice little bit of character work. The stage was attractively set for both plays, under the direction of Mrs. Arthur Brickenden.

Between acts a trio from the University of Western Ontario orchestra furnished delightful numbers under the leadership of Walter Rennie.

Altogether the audience was more than satisfied with the opening night of the season, which, with Dr. Geo.
