MANSLAUGHTER THE VERDICT IN THE DR. SAMSON CASE

Judge Sentenced Prisoner to Serve Two Years In Penitentiary—Council and Judge's Address to Jury.

MUCH EVIDENCE TAKEN.

PERCE, Oct. 22.—Several doctors examined today swore that it was quite possible to make the mistake the prisoner made and that the antidote he administered to his wife after the poisoning were the right ones.

Dr. Joseph Arthur Pidgeon, of Perce, declared that on the evening of March 1st, before the coroner's inquest on the body of Celatine Lafontaine, the prisoner, in a state of high excitement with tears streaming down his eyes, spoke to him as follows:

"My dear confere, I made a terrible mistake. I gave to my wife a teaspoonful of tincture of nox vomica instead of tincture of colombo which I thought I had given her. Fifteen or twenty minutes after my wife had convulsions, which I took for nervous crisis. As the crisis increased and one convulsion followed another, I came to the conclusion that my poor wife was poisoned. Then I tasted the bottle, a dose out of which I had given my wife. It was very bitter, I saw it was a case of poisoning by strychnine. I immediately consulted my books to see which antidote I should administer. I gave her tannic acid and bromide of potassium. To control the convulsions I made her inhale chloroform. The whole thing produced no effect, as my poor wife died in two hours. That is why, my dear confere, I wired you last night to come and hold an inquest and see if I was guilty or not."

The witness says that the antidote administered by prisoner to his wife are the best he knows of under the circumstances.

The prisoner also told witness before inquest that the fall previous, he had some medicine in his other house. The moisture had caused the labels to fall off the bottles. He prepared new labels for them and through mistake labelled a bottle of nox vomica, tincture of colombo and vice versa. Witness says it is quite possible to make a mistake in those circumstances. According to him, if he had a bottle of tincture of colombo, which is a harmless substance and a similar bottle of nox vomica, which is a violent poison, both unlabelled, it is practically impossible to know one from the other without opening the bottle.

Dr. Jos. Emile Bernier, Grand Juror is the following witness.

The tenth of March last, between five and six o'clock in the afternoon, he was summoned to Dr. Samson's house. When he arrived Mrs. Samson was dead. The prisoner asked him if the woman was not in a state of catalepsy. Witness made sure she was dead. Prisoner then suggested to give his dog the same quantity of the same liquid he had given his wife, in order to see if it was poison or not. Prisoner prepared the dose which the witness put in the dog's mouth. In half an hour the dog was dead.

Dr. Wm. B. Houghton, Port Daniel, examined by Mr. Flynn for the defense declares that he knows both substances, tincture of colombo and tincture of nox vomica, and it is very easy, even for a doctor, to mistake one of these substances for the other. It is also quite possible, especially for a country doctor, who is not familiar with cases of poisoning to mistake the initial stage of the attack resulting from poisoning by strychnine for nervous crisis, especially if he does not know that strychnine has been administered.

Dr. S. Grenier, of Perce, is called.

Judge Tessier then made a clear and impartial review of the evidence, and at 5 p. m. the jury retired to deliberate.

At 3.30 p. m. jury rendered a verdict of manslaughter against Dr. Samson. They tried for murder. Mr. Flynn presented two motions to quash verdict on technical grounds and asked that it be set aside.

CHURCH WEDDING AT CHATHAM

Crocker-Snowb. Wedding at St. Luke's Chatham, Event of the Season.

RECEPTION AND SUPPER.

CHATHAM, N. B., Oct. 27.—One of the most brilliant and fashionable weddings that has taken place in Chatham for many years was performed at 8 o'clock this evening in St. Luke's Methodist church, when Rev. G. P. Dawson made Mr. Earle Stanley Crocker and Miss Frances Ellen Snowball man and wife.

The groom is the son of Mr. T. W. Crocker of Newmarket, and is manager of the Royal Bank of Canada branch in Cuba. The bride is a daughter of the late Lieut. Governor J. B. Snowball. Both young people are very popular in Miramichi social circles and are well known not only in provincial centres but also in many upper Canadian circles.

The bride entered the church leaning on the arm of her brother, W. B. Snowball, the organist, Miss Winifred Harper, rendered Lohengrin's wedding march. The church had been tastefully and elaborately decorated under the skillful fingers of the bride's friends and the "bridesmaids" presented a beautiful "White Point" gown, white and autumnal foliage were extensively used in the scheme of decoration.

The bride and groom stood beneath an arch of spruce boughs decorated with white chrysanthemums from the centre of which hung a bell formed of white chrysanthemums.

The bride looked really charming. Her dress was a magnificent gown of the softest ivory satin made on principles and arranged with a scarf and corsage draping of champagne silk, orate embroidered in silver, the lace being bordered with emerald and a fringe of silver bullion. The yoke was of tulle intermixed with some fine old lace, the train being caught up with rare ivory lace. The bride veil was caught in place with a wreath of orange blossoms and spray of white heather. The bride carried a shower bouquet of white roses, lilies of the valley and maiden hair fern. The bridesmaids, Mrs. H. E. Rawlings of Montreal, sister of the bride, looked particularly charming in a handsome gown of pale pink mull, and carried a large black picture hat with white willow plumes. The bridesmaids, Miss Berthe Poirer of Chatham, and Misses Snyder, Waterloo, Ont. were attired in a deeper shade of soft pink mull, and wore black picture hats.

The groom was supported by Mr. Ernest Poirer of Chatham, and Misses Snyder, Waterloo, Ont. were attired in a deeper shade of soft pink mull, and wore black picture hats.

After the conclusion of the ceremony the bride party fled out of the church to the home of the bride's father, Mr. T. W. Crocker.

A reception and supper was subsequently held at the bride's home, Wellington Villa. The bride couple received at the seat and of the drawing room in a bay window, beneath an arch of smilax intertwined with small silver bells.

The library decorations consisted of spruce boughs, foliage and potted plants arranged with gorgeous profusion. Supper was served in the large dining room and the table was a magnificent sight with its decorations of silver, cut glass and twinkling festoons of smilax and flowers.

Mr. and Mrs. Crocker left at midnight on the Maritime express for Montreal.

The groom's gift to the bride was a handsome diamond pendant and the mother of honor and the bridesmaids novelty pendants with baroque pearls. The bride's gift to the groom was a gold monogram watch fob.

There were over one hundred guests present. Among the immediate relatives of the contracting parties were Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Black, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Black, Mrs. J. B. Black, Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Thompson of Fredericton; Mr. and Mrs. J. Crocker and Miss Crocker, Newmarket, were among those present from the groom's family circle. Other guests present were Mrs. Geo. Y. Dillie, Fredericton; Mrs. G. P. Shaw, Westmount; B. C. Miss Stella Sturman, Fredericton and Mr. A. J. Leavie, St. John.
