Opinions in Hindostan. CALCUTTA, Feb. 16.-The Anglo-Indian and native press is mostly loyal in its comments upon the events in the Soudan, but different opinions are expressed regarding the dispatching of Indian troops to Egypt. the dispatching of Indian troops to Egypt. The press is unanimous, however, against India's being saddled with the expense of the campaign. It is rumored that the Indian contingent will garrison Suskim and not be sent to the front. Many native officers, including Mahomedana, have petitioned the government to send their corps into active service in the Soudan.

The British Headquarters.

Gubat, the present centre of British

It is surrounded by vegetable gar dens, which supply the markets of Shendy, of which town Gubat is virtually a suburb, although situated on the other side of the Nile. It contains, also, the emetery where were buried some of the most famous saints and chieftakes of Shendy, a fact which makes the village sacred in the esteem of the entire Mahometan world, and will render its occupation by the British peculiarly irritating to El Mahdi. Ways and Means.
