The Becrees of the Council of Trent.

Editor World: In his remarks in to-day's World regarding the election of a successor to Archbishop Lynch. Administrator Laurent says that the decrees of the Council of Trent were published in the Province of Quebec, and that the canon law is consequently in force there. In this the venerable administrator is entirely in error. The decrees of the Council of Trent were not published in the Province of Quebec. The King of France would not allow them to be published in any part of his domains so that they did not become law either in Frances or Quebec. The has been decided over and over again in the Quebec courts, and was authoritatively settled by the Privy Council in the celebrated Guiborid case, where that court declared it to be "a matter almost of common knowledge, certainly of historical and legal fact." If the Administrator was correct, these decrees would be in force in this province as well as in Quebec. as Ontario was then a part of the old French Province of Quebec. The claim thus put forward for the decrees of the church is in fact justs of which we hear time and again and which are made the basis of unbunded assumptions.

that Dr. Daniel Wilson, President of Toronto University, means to decline the knighthood offered him by Her Gracious Majesty. I hope this is not strictly true, however, as in a letter, received from the doctor yesterday, in reply to one of greeting from me, he says nothing about it. It were impertinent to search the grounds of the doctors from it, if resolved upon, but it is meet to say publicly that there will be deep and general regret if it takes place, as Dr. Wilson was chosen for this high honor because of his representative character as a scholar, a promoter of education and a man of letters, promoter of education and a man of letters, and all his many colleagues—of the latter chase especially—feel it as a right that one of themselves should bear the badge and token of thighthood bachelorship, in the name of the whole guild. Perhaps it were even a duty on the Wilson's next to access? on's part to accept.
