

Notes From N. B.

Again, notes from N. B. are in order. The Associations are in the past. The work accomplished is a matter of history.

Many of our societies have been stimulated by a visit from Mrs Churchill, whose visit to N. B. has been productive of much good. Many of our people do not seem to know the needs of the work, so we must give 'line upon line, precept upon precept.'

At East Florenceville, Mrs Churchill organized a new Aid Society, Mrs A D Hartley, Pres., Miss Maud Hartley, Sec'y.

At Sussex at the close of the Association meetings Mrs Churchill organized an Aidd Society, Mrs. C. T. White Pres, Mrs Mel. Scott, Sec'y.

Blank forms have been sent to every Aid Sociey and Mission Band. Will the secretaries see that they are filled out and sent to me at Chipman, by August 10th.

Again, we must ask the societies and Bands to send money only to our own treasurer for Home and Foreign Missions, leaving the dividing for Home Missions to be done by the Treasurer, pro rata, as the Union ordered last year at Truro.

The year will have closed ere you read these lines, our new year will have begun. Let us do daily work this year beginning with the first day.

Another favor, I would be glad if every society would send me a list of the principal officers whenever new ones are elected. It is so hard to keep up communication with societies when the secretary's name is unknown. Now let the work begin.

Notes From P. E. I.

Work among our societies is slowly but surely advancing. We realize it is but the dawn of spiritual awakenings. We seek the Master's words of commendation. "Women great is your faith, be it unto you as you will.

Our last notes were from some of our societies in the west, we now wish to say a few words of several of our societies in the east with whom we have come in personal contact of late.

At Hazelbrook and Alexandra we find two well equipped, well sustained societies. They are earnest workers in this noble cause of "women's work for women." Their devotional services as well as their social hours spent together are highly prized by all and in them both they are working for the Master. Both of these societies have under their care a Mission Band with Mrs J C Spurr as Supt (or Leader.) We were just amazed and delighted with the work done by those children in the short time of their existence as bands and our hearts were cheered with the eagerness and earnestness of the little faces as they answered the questions and repeated their verses of Scripture, or recited some touching little poem, but we were not surprised that such was so when we knew the leader. We realized fully what a work among the children could be accomplished with a consecrated energetic Supt. such as theirs. She with her hand in the "Hand of the Father" is willing to do His bidding and to work for the extension of His Kingdom and for "His honor and His glory. Would that many more such lives (busy lives) would come forth to lead the youth in our province in this "Mission Band work."

At Montague the Society is very small, but we spent a pleasant season together and as we talked over the work and our responsibility our hearts burned within us that we might be willing (in the absence of strength and numbers) to do our individual parts with more wholehearted determination and persistence, and stronger faith, remembering the words, "As thou wilt be it unto thee." It was truly a time of refreshing and we separated with the full assurance that it was good to be there and to have waited upon the Lord.

We were pleased with the opportunity of meeting with Mrs C. W. Turner and to have her co-operation in our work. They are very few, yet with Mrs Turner's assistance and the consecrated zeal of their faithful sec-
