

LITERARY REVIEW.

The Post Office for March is to hand. It contains a very good article on the ribbed paper stamps of the United States. The other most important things are the Chronicle of new issues and report of the Woodward sale in Boston which goes to show that good stamps WILL bring good prices.

●●

The American Philatelist for March is the next paper to drop before us. It consists of 8 pages and cover, principally made up of short articles and notes which prove very interesting.

●●

The International Philatelist for February consists of 20 pages of which 14 contains advertising matter. Although only six pages have reading matter, yet what there is is first class.

●●

The Michigan Philatelist for April is now before us. As usual it contains a good supply of reading matter which will interest the beginner as well as the advanced collector.

●●

The Canadian Philatelic Magazine for March contains 14 pages and cover. A fine portrait of Thos. Mitchell of Toronto adorns the first page while several other pages are filled with articles on B. N. A. stamps. Several other small items complete the paper.

Philatelic Facts for February and March have been received. They do not contain a very large amount of reading matter but what there is suits us very well.

●●

The Philatelic Monthly & World for March is now before us. Good articles on U. S. and Foreign stamps is the most important. A few other notes and ads make this paper complete.

●●

The Philatelic West is to hand. It has at last secured second-class rates and the publishers now say that its future is guaranteed. It is full of interesting notes and we hope to be favored with many future visits.

●●

The Midland Philatelist sends us a double number for March and April. It has 8 small pages and cover and is very good for its size.

●●

The Springfield Philatelist for April is now before us. It contains as usual a large amount of readable matter including "Savern's Fan" which is very amusing.

●●

The April number of The Bay State Philatelist contains a portrait of J. N. Luff of the Scott Stamp & Coin Company of New York, also a good auction sale report for which this paper is noted.
