The First Hundred Years of Missions.

THE splendid article on China which appears in this month's CAMPAIGNER is from Rev. Dr. J. S. Ross' invaluable book, "The First Hundred Years of Missions." So cleverly has Dr. Ross condensed the latest statistics, the historical facts, and the progress and results of missions in all lands, that in the book one possesses information from everywhere about everything relating to missions. One cannot close the book without gaining from looking back an inspiration to look forward upon our opportunities and obligations, which have widened and increased with the growth of a century.

The Hamilton Conference Convention of the Epworth League.

At the convention held in Paris, the following resolution was unanimously adopted:

Moved by Rev. R. W. Woodsworth, seconded by Rev. Dr. Henderson, and resolved,—

That we, the members of the Epworth League Convention of the Hamilton Conference, desire to express our hearty approval of the Forward Movement in Missions, and hereby pledge ourselves to do all in our power to secure its practical adoption in the numerous Leagues that we represent. As an additional inspiration for aggressive work we take as our motto for 1897 not only "A Revival in every League," but "A Missionary Society in every League," being fully persuaded that with such mighty motives to quicken and guide us, we shall have a year of unprecedented blessing and victory all along the line.

THE illustration is withdrawn from this number on account of the full explanation given of the Young People's Forward Movement for Missions.
