

apply the
 ut seeing
 ncipality,
 t self, viz.
 ut a 100
 in it are
 Bishop-
 of note,
 divided
 Cardigan,
 Radnor,
 brook and
 th Wales,
 omontory,
 rains raise
 esey, which
 le Coun-
 of Corn;
 ous Har-
 once with
 ef Towns,
 , Cardriff,
 very plea-
 ; the Na-
 Labour,
 or may we
 mostly di-
 iz.
 es fair;
 re.
 part that
 n of Great Tweed and one to the
 ighth, tho in Breadth

Breadth not proportionable, being in some parts but 60 from Sea to Sea, divided properly into two parts by the River Tay, viz. South and North, the former Division being both Fruitful and Populous, and again sub-divided into the Counties of Merch, Teviotdale, Lorhian, Liddesdale, Eschedale, Annandale, Niddesdale, Galloway, Carrick, Kyle, Cunningham, Arran, Cliddesdale, Lennox, Sterling, Fife, Strat- herne, Menteith, Argile, Cantire, Lorn, all comprehended in South Scotland: Loquabrea, Braidalbin, Perth, Athole, Angus, Merns, Mar, Buquhan, Mur-
rey, Rosse, Southerland, Cathanes, and Strathavern, North Scotland; and in this Kingdom are found Two Arch-bishopricks, viz. St. Andrews and Glasgow, under whom are Eleven Suffragan Bishops; and here the Chief City is Edenburg, a City principally composed of one large Street, about a Mile in length, of very good Building; the rest less confiderable, tho throughout the whole Kingdom are many fair Cities, Towns, and Villages.

The Principal Islands lying upon the coast of Great Britain and Subject to it, are the Islands of Wight, Man, Anglesey, Jersey, Guernsey, the Orcades or Isles of Orkney 30 in Number; the Chief of which are Pomania, Hesby, and Sheathland, all very Fruitful, abounding with Cattle and Corn: The Hebrides 40 in number, but many of them rather Rocks than Islands, the Chief being Illa and Jona, the ancient Burying place of the Scottish Kings: Mulla, where the Redbanks Inhabited, once so frightful to the English: The Sirlings containing 145 Islands, but none of note, except Armath, Sanfad, and Scilly, after the name of which the rest are called for the most part; some others there are on this Coast, but scarcely worth noting, as yielding little Trade or Commodity.

IRELAND, a Kingdom in Subjection to Britain
 by right of Conquest, separate from England only L by