The good-natured rivalry of the candidates ended in a lively scene at the polling place, and the returning officers. Messrs. Wm. A. Martin and A. Wanless, were kept busy from 8 to 10:15 p.m., handling the ballots. The vote was large. In the meantime, the Italian harpers discoursed music in the main club room, and short speeches were delivered by prominent Lib-erals. Mr. John Purdom, the new president, filled the chair, and took occasion to again thank the members for the honor conferred upon him. He knew he would have the loyal support of his colleagues in office

Mr. J. D. Clarke, being called upon, spoke briefly, dwelling on the bright prospects, not only for the new Liberal Government, but for the Dominion. Dr. George C. The predictions of the Conservative party were falling very flat. Conservatives would admit that the Dominion never had a cabinet composed of so many able men as the Liberal Government of today. Mr. Purdom thought that the currency would some day invade Canada as it had the United States. The temperance question would be another issue of the near future. But no matter how these problems were solved, Canada would be a desirable place to live in. Alluding to local affairs, the speaker said that if any one doubted that the old vim existed in London Liberals, he had only to suggest a saw-off in the election protest, to evoke the indomitable spirit of Mr. Hyman's supporters. Was troubled with constant dropping in the throat, terrible pains in my head, and my breath was very offensive. I was induced to give Dr. Agnew's Catarrhal Powder a trial, and the result was magical. The first application cleared my head instantly. I persisted in its use, and today I am a cured man, and it affords me pleasure to lend my testimony.

Meanwhile young Dacons had graduated at the Illinois University, and, unable to find his mother, employed detectives to assist him, continuing the search from year to year. He recently caused inquiries to be sent to Michigan, finding as a result two half-sisters and one halfbrother, living in Van Buren county, by whom their mother had been mourned as dead for 36 years. Dacons' mother has been found living in a western city, and the sequel will be the reunion at Paw-Paw of the mother and children.
