Going Back to Macedonia.

Lieut. Galbraith's leave is up on Saturday, and he expects to go directly back to Macedonia. "I don't expect there will be much to do when I get back there, the way things look now,' he said. "unless it is decided to push right on and perhaps link up with Rumania. Of course it doesn't do to be too optimistic." Considering the difficult and disheartening conditions of warfare experienced by Lieut. Galbraith with the British army in front of Doiran for a couple of years, he might be forgiven for indulging in optimism now. During the past week he has been visiting friends in Defoit, where he gave addresses before the Businessmen's Club at the Y. M. C. A. His brother, Capt. Campbell Galbraith, who went overseas with the first contingent, leaving London in the command of Lieut.-Col. Campbell Becher in August, 1914, is expected home on his first Canadian leave in the immediate future.

Mr. Jordan announced that it had been planned to hold a community chorus amongst the soldiers of the London Garrison, and that Lieut.-Col. W. J. Brown, A. A. G. M. D. No. 1, believed in the efficacy of singing not only as a musical training, but also as physical exercise. At the close of a most enjoyable evening, Mr. Jordan announced that the community chorus would be held every Thursday in the Auditorium, the next one to be held October 3.

MISSIONS BUDGET

Important Memorials Passed at This Morning's Session.

The total estimates for the work of the Dominion W. M. S. of the Methodist Church for the year 1918 to 1919 were made out this morning and amounted to $251,684.43. The memorials regarding the enfranchisement of the women of Methodism and the permitting of W. M. S. missionaries to administer the sacrament of baptism in cases of emergency, no ordained male missionary being present, again came up and were passed in their new wording. These memorials will be forwarded to the general conference of the Methodist Church to be held at Hamilton in October. tical, downright helpful business talk you've got to secure a man that is able ton in October.

tical, downright helpful business talk you've got to secure a man that is able to deliver just such an address—one who can speak from the depth and breadth of his own experience.

The policy of the London Advertising Club in always selecting a speaker whose address will be of profit as well as interest, has proven a vital factor in the success of what is admittedly Canada's most successful advertising club. That policy was never better exemplified than in the securing of David A. Brown of Detroit to address the opening meeting next Tuesday night at the Tecumseh House.

Mr. Brown is president of the Detroit Adcraft Club and one of the difrectors of the board of commerce there. He is also president of the General Necessities Corporation, which supplies Detroit with its coal and coke, ice, soft drinks, cold storage facilities and some of its amusements. Although, as may readily be imagined, his varied and exacting duties make him a very busy man, Mr. Brown has found time to write a series of business articles. Any spare time left he devotes to the furtherance of advertising club work in his own country.

America's famous teachers, William L. Whitney, has decided to remain in London for this year. This talented young singer, who received much recognition in Boston from musicians and critics, has been chosen by A. D. Jordan as his associate teacher of singing, and will resume study under him. After the unusual richness, depth and promise of Miss. Laymon's voice were discovered some years ago, she was engaged as contralto soloit in the First Methodist choir, a position which she held until resigning to go to Boston a year ago. Last Christmas she sang the contralto role in the annual presentation of "The Messiah" by the Musical Art Society, her poise and confidence, along with the rare quality of her voice, and the finish and sympathy of her interpretations, winning for her glowing tributes from the celebrated singers associated with her as soloists.

Miss Laymon took advantage of her residence in Boston to take up the study of dramatic art in Emerson College, an important asset to her work.

She has been re-engaged as soloist of the First Methodist Church. FARMERS ARE URGED TO SAVE SEED CORN

Every farmer who has good corn, fit for seed, should save as much of it as possible. There will not be enough seed corn in Ontario this year to meet the demand, if every ear fit for seed is saved. The demand for Ontario seed will warrant extra care this fall. According to the statement made by P. L. Fancher, in the new seed corn bulletin, recently issued by the Ontario department of agriculture.

As most Ontario corn growers are aware, the fallure of the 1917 crop in Southwestern Ontario and in the northern states compelled this province to look to the southern cities for a supply of seed corn for this season's planting. Compared with the Ontario varieties, most of the imported corn is larger cob, kernel and stalk. Being grown where the season is much longer and warmer than in Ontario, this is only natural. The time required to mature it for ensilage or husking purposes is much longer than for the native varieties.

The bulletin also tells how to care for seed corn. The Ontario Corn Growers' Association assist those in need of seed corn.
