A Costumer's Reasonable Wish is This Store's Pleasure

Dykeman's

The New Fall Coats For Ladies and Children

are more that attractive. They are serviceable, comfortable, made from dependable cloths, and made in a sensible style. They are shown here in abundance of trimming designs, with tight, semi and loose backs. Nearly all of the new Coats are from 40 to 50 inches long and are shown in plain and tweed effects.

Prices range from $5.50 to $27.50. We are showing some particularly attractive lines at $10, $11.00 and $12.00, which will equal in value Coats shown in other stores at $15.00.

Mrs. Herbert D. Archibald, formerly of Sackville, has recently been appointed station master for the Canadian Pacific Railway at Eagle River, Ontario. Mr. Archibald, who left Sackville for the west some time ago, has been connected with the Canadian Pacific service for some months. Mrs. Archibald and family will leave St. John's shortly to join Mr. Archibald at Eagle River—Sackville Tribune.

Mary Driscoll, daughter of John Driscoll, died suddenly at her home on Union street last night after a very short illness. The deceased was a well known and highly esteemed young lady and only a week ago contracted pneumonia. The doctors very much troubled over her recovery but her sudden death came as a great shock to her parents who had no idea of the seriousness of her case until last night. Notice of the funeral will be given later.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Adams, of Celebration street, appeared at the police station this morning very much troubled over the disappearance of their little three year old boy, whom they have not been able to locate. The child was lost early this morning and was not discovered until some time after the police were notified and are endeavoring to find the little chap.

ADAM HAD A LITTLE RAM; IT GOT HIM INTO TROUBLE

It Wandered Round the Cabbages, and Ed Schofield Saw Double—Twenty Dollars.

The blow which was delivered to defend his pet ram yesterday afternoon, cost Adam Bell $20 in the police court this morning. He having been previously guilty of assaulting Edward Schofield, the prosecutor. Bell said that his pet ram had been hit by a sheep which he had been looking after. He had a saw in his hand at the time. Bell said to him: "You had better not get too fresh with that sheep. He said: "What right has it in here?" and Bell hit him. Schofield swore that he had not hold of the ram's horn and did nothing to injure the animal.

Three witnesses, Warren Merritt, Chas. Shilley and H. A. McCarby, corroborated the statements made by Schofield and proved that the blow had been administered by Mr. Bell while none saw Mr. Schofield injure the animal. One of the witnesses stated that Schofield might have hit the sheep before he was looking but he did not see him.

Adam Bell, the defendant, explained to the court that he was a lover of dumb brutes, and took pride in training them. He would not stand by and see his innocent sheep injured, when it was doing no harm, and consequently Schofield felt the weight of his flat behind the ear. He had visited the fair to advertise the Bell clear, and just entered the agricultural building when he heard some one shout "Jim look here," and he saw Schofield interfering with his ram. He always expected his pet to act the sheep, but on this occasion Schofield was acting the goat. He saw Schofield with the saw in his hand and believed that he was going to saw the animal's horn off. "Leave that sheep alone," he said, and followed this exclamation with a blow on Schofield's head.

Mr. Bell considered that his ram was being abused, and stated that he would not tolerate anything of that kind from any man.

The honor stated that Bell was undoubtedly guilty of assault, although there was some provocation for him acting to defend his pet animal. He was fined $20, which was paid.

A quartette of drunks were part of the morning's programme, and each was asked to donate the usual fine.

J. E. COWAN'S STORE WAS BURGLARIZED LAST NIGHT

The Thieves, Who Were Evidently Boys, Got In by a Side Window—Emptied the Cash Drawer

The store of J. E. Cowan on Main street was broken into last night by burglars and the cash drawer robbed of its contents. The amount taken is not known, but the guilty parties made good their escape and their entrance was not discovered until this morning.

Mr. Stevens, the bookkeeper for the firm, who generally reaches the store first in the morning, failed to call up Mr. Cowan as usual early this morning, and it was thought he was sick. Mr. Cowan then hurried to the store and found that the drawers were broken open and at once it was clear that the store was in a state of confusion over what he had discovered. It appears that Mr. Stevens had not noticed that anything was wrong until he opened the cash drawer to secure change for a customer and found that the drawers were broken open and the contents were missing. A window was found open and at once it was decided that burglars had entered the building. Considerable goods which had been taken from the shelves last night and placed near the window had been taken out into the yard and placed there by the thieves after forcing an entrance.

Mr. Cowan states that whoever robbed the cash drawer understood how to open it. A sum amounting to six dollars is generally left in the drawer evening to allow for change the next morning and often small amounts are received and put in after this has been done. It is impossible for him to state the amount which was in the drawer before the burglary, but he says that it was not more than $100. It is a certainty that it contained six dollars or more. It was impossible to discover whether other goods were missing or not, and this will not be known until later.

Regarding the window, Mr. Cowan said it was a new one just inserted and faced a neighbor's house. The window is generally left in the drawer about five feet from the window, and it was thought that no one would attempt to break in by this means. The fear of being heard by the people in the house. It is, however, thought that the burglars were boys, and that the store was disturbed, which would undoubtedly not happened if a heavy person entered, but as to who they were nothing is known.

THE LOVE SONNETS OF A NORTH END MILLMAN

And How the Kibosh Was Put on the Star by Failure to Print Them.

The star is in sore distress. It has been "run down" by a "constant reader," "old subscribers" or "old-timers," the real identity of the offender one being unknown. It happened thusly: In yesterday's mail two letters were received, they may be. So the letters were laid aside in the hope that the writer would send his name later. Instead of this, another epistle was received today and the star literally bowed down with grief over the deplorable state which has now been reached. This morning's letter, after some ingenuity, was translated as follows:

"To the Editor of the Star you did not think it worth your while to put my name in the paper. With it I will kick the head or him."

Heaven help us Marcy! Wow!!! Now the letters which were sent in were hurried in themselves and read like this—

Sat the 12 1898 Sir Will please give me a Space in the Star on Saturday afternoon highway Bros Mill CreW a tended the funeral of their Comrade to show their Last respects to him. Every man an Boy Looked Well and Was much admirer By the public and looked LIKE gentlen men this was their first time to turnout in a body and much Credit is due to them and a handsome Death was sent By the Mill CreW as a token of kindness to him I thank you very much for your Space and a reader of Star in the star please yours Mill man give me this Monday."

"Sir Will you please give me a Space in the Star a Bout one o'clock this morning their was a Bout twelve young men going down mill Street Singing I suppose the Couid sing they was more LICK a Lot ov Bull frocs or Wile gees or gal lars or cutter Guts their Was no Cops the Cro Wd of north and Bums or night oWls that ought to B home and in Bed in stead of disturbing the peacs and Keep the Bulldogs out of their throat and Keep them from Barkng and making Such noise on the Street in the dreed Ours of night Sir please OBLIGE your truly a citizen and a reader of the Star."
