Government's Fruit Policy Justified by Great Show

C. N. Vroom of St. Stephen, president of the association, presided during the opening of the exhibition. Introduced as the first speaker Hon. J.
D. Hazen, premier of the province.

Mr. Hazen's Address.
Hon. Mr. Hazen in opening said he had been asked by the president of the New Brunswick Fruit Growers' Association to declare the exhibition open and he was sure that any man would feel proud to officiate in such a capacity at such a show. He thanked the members of the association for the honor they had done him in asking him to officiate and also in electing him honorary president of the association.

An Object Lesson.
The purpose of the exhibition was to afford an object lesson to people in this province, and in other provinces, as to the quality of the apples it was possible to raise in the province of New Brunswick. For many years there had been an erroneous idea in the minds of many people that New Brunswick was lacking in such things. First, that this province could not raise as good apples as the provinces of Nova Scotia or Ontario, and secondly, that when the mineral wealth of the world had been distributed the province had been left out.
This idea, he said, was incorrect, and he thought the events and the development of the past few years would show that New Brunswick was not behind in the matter of mineral wealth and the activities of the provincial department of agriculture and the Fruit Growers' Association would dispel the idea that this province could not raise as good fruit as any other province in the Dominion of Canada.

Exhibits in England.
He expected that this exhibition would be a revelation to all, and yet it should be known that during the last few years this province could hold its own with any of the others in the matter of fruit raising. Last year the department of agriculture very hurriedly got together an exhibit of apples and sent it over to London to the exhibition of the Royal Horticultural Society and there it had been in competition with the best in that line that could be produced by the other provinces and states. As a result of that exhibition this province received a gold medal and three of the leading fruit growers of the St.
John Valley received silver medals for the excellence of their fruit. This year the government was sending a larger showing in London, for they believed that there was nothing more attractive to the settler who leaves the British Isles in search of a new home than to find that the country to which he thinks of coming abounds in good fruit.

To show what the province can do in the way of fruit growing he considered one of the very best exhibitions that could be had for the encouragement of immigration to the province. It had been abundantly shown that the province could raise the very best apples and in support of this contention he quoted the opinions of well known fruit experts. G.
H. Vroom, fruit inspector of the province of Nova Scotia had said in reference to New Brunswick apple growing: "I feel satisfied that the St. John Valley is destined to become one of the best apple growing sections of the Dominion."

Strong Testimony.
A. McNeill, chief of the Dominion fruit division, after seeing an exhibit of apples in Fredericton, which he had seen nowhere else, had said present one, had said: "Any man who says apples cannot be grown successfully in the province of New Brunswick in face of the exhibits we have here today, does not know what he is talking about."

These two statements came from officials, expert men in their line who knew every knowledge of the subject.
The opinion was not confined to apples but the fruit growers of Nova Scotia were also loud in their praise of the New Brunswick fruit. R. W.
Starr, pioneer of the apple industry in Nova Scotia, had said: "There is no doubt that there are large portions of New Brunswick well adapted to the growing of fruit, especially of apples, as any other part of the Dominion."

Encouraged by reports of that sort the provincial government had added a trained horticulturist to the staff of the department of agriculture and had secured A. G. Turney to take up the work. Mr. Turney had come to the province highly recommended from the experimental work done at Guelph and had been engaged in stimulating the interest in the agricultural resources of the province.
He has gone through the province and has advised the fruit growers in the matter of spraying and in the general cultivation and development of their trees and as a result the increase in fruit growing in this province is now greater than for years.
Creating a Demand.
A gentleman who had been and still is a leading citizen of St. John, had told the speaker that in the past it had been the custom to import the apples. In fact people who had come from Nova Scotia or Ontario apples.
The provincial government is laboring to change these conditions. It is their aim to have the province produce not only enough of the finest apples for our own use but also to send tens of thousands of dollars worth across the water for sale in the British and European markets and thus bring a large revenue to the agriculturists of the province.

He was glad to see that the New Brunswick Fruit Growers' Association was taking on new life. Their membership was now double what it was before and this is the first occasion they have attempted a big show. He thought the results from it would be a great benefit to the province.

He expressed the hope that the press of the city would adequately report for the people, the splendid character of the exhibition and he was sure that as the result of having this known the association could make exhibitions of this sort that would in the future, have great results for the province and for the fruit growers who would profit by it.

In conclusion he congratulated President Vroom, Mr. Hubbard and Mr.
Turney through whose efforts so much had been done to make the show a success.

Premier Hazen was loudly applauded at the conclusion of his address.

Mr. Hubbard.
Mr. Vroom then introduced W. W.
Hubbard, secretary of the department of agriculture. Mr. Hubbard expressed his regret at the unavoidable absence of Hon. Dr. Landry, commissioner of agriculture, who had been detained at his home by his important engagement, but who would be in the city today. He desired to simply call attention to the fact that the Fruit Growers' Association had made in this, their first provincial exhibit, the present year had been rather an off one for apples, and comparatively very few of the orchards of the province were represented. If there had been an opportunity to get at all the orchards, the showing would have been a much finer one, and would have been a great opportunity to the people of the province. He hoped the effort of the Fruit Growers' Association would be appreciated and that the exhibition would be visited by a large number of people who would thus have their attention attracted to one of the most profitable branches of farming. It was not the most profitable, possibly to the farmers, but fruit growing was not confined to farmers. It was open to all. Much is heard of the wonderful fruit farms of the Pacific province and states, but it was not only the farmers who were making all that noise. They were not publishing large and attractive advertisements in magazines and newspapers. Fruit farming in the west was purely a commercial business and was conducted on a commercial basis. The fruit farmers who were also business men brought business methods to bear on the farms and took a business advantage of the best markets. There was western fruit sold right in St. John as an example of business methods. They put their fruit on in the best shape so that it would bring the highest prices.

Money in Fruit Farming.
and the government desire to see the people of the province put their money into fruit growing and thus benefit the province and themselves. Chances for successful apple growing are better in New Brunswick than in any province in Canada today, and there is room in the province for 100,000 growers of fruit. The John Valley was not the only fruit field. In addition there is the Petitcodiac valley and other sections, all of which are good. He hoped the people of the province would take hold of fruit growing and thus help to usher in an era of greater prosperity for the whole province. Nothing is more conducive to pleasure as well as profit than the successful growing of fruit. He hoped that the residents of St. John would visit the exhibition and learn something of the development of the province in the successful growing of apples.

Some of the citizens of St. John in the past had been pessimistic as to the fruit growing and agricultural prospects of the province. It had been said that the province was a practice when people came into the city for those in high places to say there is no use investing your money in this country, there is nothing here. This was not the right spirit, and he was glad to say the people were coming to have faith in their own province. He would like to see every city, town and village in the province unite to make New Brunswick one of the best places on earth.

President Vroom announced that if it had not been for the generosity of the provincial government the exhibition would not have been possible.
He then called upon the Hon. Robert Maxwell.

Dr. Landry Has Done Much.
Hon. Mr. Maxwell congratulated the members of the association upon the excellence of the exhibition. He was glad to see that the province was under the leadership of the premier, able to be present at the opening of the no member of the government was more deeply interested in the success of fruit growing, or had given greater time to it than the commissioner of agriculture. He believed that the provincial horticulturist was the right man in the right place, and that the government was doing a wise thing when they secured his services. He stimulated an interest in agriculture in the province as well as in fruit growing.

The people of New Brunswick had hardly yet awakened to the fact that they could grow fruit in the province, but this exhibition would show them.
They would see every county in the province engaged in fruit growing, and in the production of fruit, and he felt confident that during the exhibition the New Brunswick Fruit Growers' Association would have experts here from all over the province. It would do good as it would convince the people that the lands of the province are fertile lands, and that we can grow fruit.

Hon. Mr. Maxwell referred to a visit he had paid to the Amherst winter fair, and there he saw that the fruit from New Brunswick was far ahead of the best from Nova Scotia or P. E.

IDEAL BEDDING CO.

Island. This encouraged the government to go on, and the only way in which to encourage the fruit growers to go on was to encourage such exhibitions as this. He was glad to know that the government had given $500 for prizes for the exhibition. This amount would, he felt, surely rebound 100 per cent to the credit and advantage of the agricultural department of the province. He hoped the present exhibition would be but the beginning of a number of fine shows, and would stimulate the growing of fruit, not only for the use of the province, but also for export.

Get Busy Quickly.
Prof. W. T. Macoun, Dominion Horticulturist, was the next speaker. He said he spoke as one having the horticultural development of all the provinces at heart, and he felt proud of the showing made by New Brunswick.
For many years he had felt that the Province of Nova Scotia could produce better fruit than the Province of New Brunswick, but the present exhibition had shown that Nova Scotia had not. The chief advantage was in the high color of the fruit. In the Annapolis Valley the fruit business is on a firm basis, but New Brunswick could build up a business quicker because of the greater beauty of the fruit in this province, which would sell on the face of it.

New Brunswick growers have an advantage in that they are close to a market in England and Europe. The fruit can be landed more quickly and in better shape. Another great advantage in favor of New Brunswick is that land is cheap, and there is nothing that will prevent the establishment of a fruit industry here that will compare with any in Canada. The kind of apples grown in this province are of a kind to lend themselves to box packing and can thus develop the best kind of trade. The varieties of apples grown here are present as an advantage to the grower as they develop quickly. An orchard of the Wealthy apple, for instance, will in three or four years develop to the profitable bearing point so the profits from it are consequently speedy. In conclusion he advised all people to get busy quickly and thus reap the profits which are waiting for them in the fruit lands of the province.

LOOKING FOR THE BROWN TAIL MOTH

Dominion Government Expert Will Scour New Brunswick This Winter in Search of the Pests.

The extent of the brown tail moth invasion in New Brunswick will be determined this winter by a careful inspection made under the direction of the Dominion Department of Agriculture. Mr. C. Treherne has been detailed for this mission and will be other inspectors will be in the province for two or three months.

Sparking of his work to The Standard last night, Mr. Treherne said that he had spent the past couple of months in New Brunswick studying the insect pests. While he has gathered much other useful information it is difficult to see how much probable regarding the number of brown tails in the trees until they are cleared of foliage. In the winter the other insects disappear, but the moths remain on the trees and are easily served. A thorough canvass will be made to ascertain whether they have secured a foothold here.

Numbers of male specimens have been secured in the province, but so far not a single female has been found. Those that arrive alive have either flown all the way from the infested districts or have been carried on steamers and it is possible for the females also to reach the province.
The discovery of the eggs of the pest in St. Stephen, shows the danger of their invasion.

During the summer, while inspecting nursery stock imported from France, a large number of specimens were discovered and this is one of the avenues of invasion which is closely watched.

Regarding his summer's work, Mr.
Treherne said that he found numbers of web worms and tent caterpillars, which are injurious to the fruit trees, but which are easily dealt with by arsenic spraying. The only dangerous pest which he discovered was the coddling moth. This is more difficult to reach, owing to the fact that it burrows into the apples, but a course of treatment for its extermination has been outlined by the department and he has been instructing the growers in its use.

The possibilities of New Brunswick as an apple growing country deeply impressed Mr. Treherne. He commented on the fact that apples which compare favorably with the best that Ontario can produce with the best methods of cultivation are grown here on trees that receive practically no attention. With proper cultivation and care, he believes New Brunswick apples would rival any in the world.

WEDDINGS.
Cooper-Badcock.
An event which has been anticipated with much pleasure by the Newfoundland residents of this city, took place at the Carmarthen Street Methodist church on the night of the 28th ult., when Miss Jennie Badcock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Badcock of Bay Roberts, N. F., was united in marriage to William J. Cooper of Northern Bight, N. F., by the pastor of the church, Rev. Mr. Dienstadt.
The bride looked very charming in a suit of cream serge with a large picture hat to match. The bridesmaid, Miss Katie Vey, was becomingly attired in white cashmere with a white turban.

At the conclusion of the ceremony the guests repaired to the residence of Mr. Cooper, 315 Gormann street, where a wedding supper was served.
The many beautiful gifts received by the young couple give evidence of the high esteem in which they are held.
