Triumph Greater Than
That of Last July for Young Turks

BEIRUT, Syria, April 18.—A terrible uprising has occurred in Adana. Street fighting has been going on for three days and at least 1,000 persons have been killed. The city has been practically destroyed by fire. American missionaries named Rogers and Maurer, the latter from Hadjin, are dead. All the other Americans are safe. The British vice consul, Major Daugherty, Wiley, is among the wounded. He was shot through the arm.

At Tarsus there was less loss of life.
The American quarter, however, was destroyed. Four thousand refugees are housed in the American mission. The need of relief is urgent, for shortly the fugitives will be on the verge of starvation.

Conditions in the vicinity of Alexandretta also are most serious.
LONDON, April 18.—It is unsafe to predict anything in the surprising developments in the Turkish crisis, the aspect of which changes from day to day. The present situation, however, seems to portend a further triumph for the Young Turks, greater even than that of the July revolution and unlike this time to involve the deposition of the Sultan. While the Young Turks are rallying to the committee of union and progress, whose leaders already are gathering an imposing force with artillery almost at the gates of the capital, with completeness, dispatch and secrecy, showing the capacity of the organizing generals, the authorities in Constantinople, civil and military, thus far display utter helplessness to meet the threatened invasion.

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 18.—The telegraph line to Adana has been re-established, but owing to the fact that five of the clerks who operated the line is congested, and it is difficult to get messages through. Over 1,000 persons were killed at Tarsus and Alexandretta.
The massacres and incendiarism continue.

The Saloniki army has six batteries of machine guns and one battery of quick-firing guns. They expect by morning to number 30,000 men at Spatakuleh.
Quiet reigns in Constantinople and the several barracks here looked to be deserted.

Izzet Pasha, chief of the general staff of the war office, with several officers has gone to the encampment of the Saloniki troops to confer with the officers on the demands which they submitted to the Chamber of Deputies.
It is considered not improbable that the ill demands of the soldiers are purposely being withheld until the entire third army corps is concentrated at the gates of the capital. The government is hopeful of a peaceful solution, although some doubt is expressed in parliamentary circles that the cabinet can obtain a vote of confidence tomorrow when it makes its statement concerning the government policy.

A circular letter has been received at Tarsus from the foreign embassies in Tunis Pasha, commanding the Saloniki army, dated Wednesday, Saturday, in which he says:

"I have the honor to inform you respectfully that the object of the army corps in marching on Constantinople is merely for the definitive re-establishment of the constitution which is sacred to all Ottomans and the lives and property of foreigners, the honored guests of our dear fatherland will be safeguarded and that tranquillity and security will be assured the entire population."

CONSTANTINOPLE, April 18.—Confirmation has been received here of the killing of two American missionaries at Adana. The murdered missionaries were Mr. Rogers and Maurer. The others connected with the missions are safe, including Mr. Christie, who is at Tarsus.

Three French warships are hurrying to Mersina, where the situation is desperate. Foreigners and many Christians have taken refuge in the consulates. The local troops and the governor are doing their best to protect the town, but there is great fear that it cannot hold out much longer against the invasion of the Moslems, who are sweeping down in large numbers. The American vice-consul at Mersina, John Debas, has been unable to proceed to Adana, owing to the interruption of communication. A British warship is proceeding to Alexandretta, which is threatened by the Moslems. Several

COVIL IS THE EMBLEM OF THE TAFT ADMINISTRATION

WASHINGTON, April 17.—The broiler of the Gridiron Club, that famous organization of newspaper men, was kept busy tonight serving up wit and humor at a special dinner complimentary to the new administration given in the hall of the New Willard. Care was taken that men prominently in the public eye got all that was coming to them in the way of thrusts and jibes that kept the great assemblage in a constant state of uproar. And then, too, there were some skits by an asgregation of scintillating skits that would have put to blush many who count themselves in the class of professionals.

TAFT WAS THERE.

Of course President Taft was there, were Speaker Cannon, members of the cabinet and the diplomatic corps, men high in the industrial and financial world and plenty of others of distinction. In the absence of President Henry Hall, who is vice-President Scott C. Bone of the Washington Herald presided over the evening's doings. As soon as the dinner was over the room was thrown into darkness while a musical welcome was extended to the distinguished guests. Then the mammoth electric gridiron flashed into view, the lights were turned on and thrusts and jibes were made.

Almost the first thing to greet the guests was a handbill distributed by some speedy messenger boys announcing that there would be a great mister show by all-star performers, including "vocalists, comedians and cabaret stars." This undoubtedly was the hit of the evening. In true mister fashion, with all the accompaniments of gesture and a more or less disorderly band, this troupe of club talent paraded through the hall before going on the "stage."

CLEVER IMITATION.

The programme of the show was a clever imitation of the real thing, even to the naming of the executive staff together with a special "note by the management," which called attention to what was to come and added the injunction that there should be no flowers. "Bating through Georgia" was the opener, and it ran like this: Sound the good old dinner horn, we'll sing another song.
About the trip that Taft once made, when with digestion strong He ate his share of everything that they would bring along.
As we went eating through Georgia.

We tackled the opossum that they took care to bake.
We ate canned watermelon and a dish they called hockeack.
We did not even draw the line at alligator steak.

By southern hospitality our hearts were surely won.
And we resolved to do the very best though this dinner was a pun.
For Democrats, and so we saved some for Dickenson.
As we went eating through Georgia.

And the chorus, well it would grate on the nerves of a hungry man if he heard these words:
Hurrah, hurrah, we sound the jubilee, Hurrah, hurrah, 'twas something fine to see.
We put away three meals a day And sometimes three times three.
As we went eating through Georgia.

Then there ensued some lively conversation, but in the middle men who posed as the "vice-president" and the "speaker of the house" and "the cabinet officers" who composed the balance of the troupe. After a good deal of singing and dancing, the evening of "dead literature" and whether referred to Sanscrit or Aetec, the end man declared it to be the president's message.

MERELY A BIG NOISE.

"Say, Mr. Vice-President," a member of the "cabinet" inquired, "Do you believe in the morning when all these bottlers blew up and scared a lot of people?" "Oh, yes, I remember it perfectly, but I do not see why it should have scared anybody. It was merely a big noise."

"Yes, that was it. Everybody thought Mr. Roosevelt had come back."

"But he never left the state," said one, "there were things at night."
The title of a song.
Secretary MacVeagh was classed among the fifty-second varieties of reformers who had great difficulty in remembering when registration day came around. This discussion was cut short by the references to the tariff, which it was stated was being talked pro and con.

"Indeed," remarked the "vice-president" with evident surprise.
"Yes," replied the end man, "pro-stands for the trusts. Con is what the consumer gets."

WHITE HOUSE COW.

The White House cow, already famous, was made the subject of the best stunts of the evening. Attended by a dairy maid, a splendid imitation of the bovine was led into the room, which instantly caused the "president" to inquire "what's this?"
He was promptly informed that while there had been a lot of loose talk about the "possum being the animal emblem of the present administration and that the teddy bear was one of "my pollicies," that had been inherited, it was all nonsense.

"The emblem of this administration," said the animal's keeper, "is the cow and this is it."

It was discovered that the milk pail was minus the lactical fluid and in its stead were found numerous articles, among which was a bottle edged with a testimonial from Senator Aldrich as follows:

"We used this medicine on the tariff bill and removed all Payne from it instantly."
The ball was being emptied of its contents when in rushed a member who impersonated Castro and who demanded a place of refuge. It was decided to let him take care of the cow.

CHATHAM, N. B., April 18.—High Currie, a young son of James Currie, foreman of the Dominion pulp mill, Millbank, was badly hurt last night while in the mill. He had been sent to the mill while the night shift was at work and became entangled in the machinery, resulting in his thigh being called and did what was possible to ease the lad's sufferings. He was removed to the hospital today and will hope to be up a long time, though it is expected to be long.

Interest in the civic elections is increasing rapidly, and a big vote is expected to be polled on Tuesday. The mayoralty contest is engaging the minds of the electors. The combining of both newspapers, the World and Commercial, to force through their candidate, Ald. Benson, is not having the desired effect. The combining of both news-

Mr. Burchill presented his motion regarding the advisability of requiring the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway to operate its trains through our forest lands by electricity. He said this would be a great step towards the preservation of our forests. Not so many years ago it was felt that our forest lands were of little value, were practically useless, and that they could be disposed of for what they would bring. This led to wasteful methods of lumbering and to carelessness in preserving our forests. In fact cases have been known where trees have been cut to clear land, but now people are awakening to the importance of preserving our forests and beginning to realize how much of our future prosperity depended upon its future preservation. Action had been taken to preserve our forests and be-
future preservation.

It is stated that Dr. Lozier of Tracton, who has been in Chatham for some time, will settle here. This will give Chatham two new doctors as Dr. Marven of Hillsboro arrived last week and is now practicing here.

PARIS, April 18.—The desk in the Consulate of Wm. E. Bainbridge, an American agent of the United States Treasury Department in charge of its Paris office, was found this morning empty. It was discovered that he had committed suicide in this city Saturday morning. It contained a box of cartridges, five of which were missing, and a letter from Mr. Bain-bridge's handwriting, describing himself as "beset by a plot."

However, the official papers found disclosed the slightest evidence denied that the department was dissatisfied with Mr. Bainbridge's work.
The fact that he committed suicide was not mentioned in the official record, and it was stated that he was suffering from the mania of persecution.

THROUGH FOREST LANDS.

The course of the Transcontinental Railway was almost entirely through forest lands. It was a line to Moncton, most of it, privately owned with quite a large body of crown land near Green River, the Blue Bell tract and a small body of crown land near Newcastle River, south of Chipman. It ran through crown lands forty miles. It would thus be seen how important it was that every means should be taken to prevent fires and it was fortunate that we had the natural facilities for the generation of electricity, convenient to this line at Grand Falls, where it was estimated that one hundred thousand horses power could be developed. As it was estimated that only about forty thousand horse power would be required to operate the railway, it would be seen that Grand Falls would furnish abundant power. We had the experience of what had happened along all the other lines of railway, and it was our plain duty to try and prevent further damage. We should make every effort to prevent the loss of forest land by fire. The fact that the gentleman now opposing this section were supporters of the government, which first enacted the law without any objection on their part made it appear to him as though their present opposition was factious. He felt this section should stand.

Mr. Lowell said there was no reason for the survivor general to show the bill. When introduced the bill he had invited discussions upon it and now he took exception to such discussion. He thought it was coming to a pretty level to tell the people of the province that not one honest justice of the peace could be found in every county to administer the law. He believed that a large portion of our forest had been devastated, if we acknowledge it we must try to preserve what
