EMPEROR WILLIAM AND AGRICULTURE

Among the German emperor's multifarious activities he has not neglected to include agriculture. That, perhaps was not generally known until the recent meeting of the German Agricultural Council in Berlin, when he appeared in person and read a paper on the subject of the cultivation of waste lands. In the course of his address the Kaiser referred to his own work as a practical farmer at his estate of Kettinen, on the shore of Frische-Haff in East Prussia. At the date when he acquired it, the land, he explained, was in an utterly neglected condition, and the first undertaking was to reclaim about 400 acres of uncultivable turf, which was often under water. Adroit persuasion was needed to overcome the objections of the keeper of the privy purse and to get the sum needed to try the experiment. The bogland was successfully drained and reclaimed and now brings in a considerable yield.

The Kaiser's appearance was highly successful and his address was enlivened by frequent humorous asides and revealed real enthusiasm. Stress was laid, not merely on the material gain which at a cost of 73,000 marks, had increased the yearly return to 12,000 marks, but on the encouragement it afforded to farming neighbors similarly to redeem waste lands. Throughout the speaker kept steadily in view the advisability of assisting the movement that has for its object Germany's independence of the outer world in the matter of agricultural produce. This is desired largely to solve the dead meat problem without sacrificing the principle of agricultural protection. The moor and waste lands in Germany have been estimated at about 400 square miles and considerable progress has already been made in their reclamation.

THE ROOFING PAINT PROBLEM

When you have bought a ready roofing, how would you like to have the dealer guarantee to keep it painted for ten years without further charge? That would seem like a good proposition, wouldn't it? You can obtain practically the same bargain by buying Amatite, the new-style no-paint roofing.

Amatite has a mineral surface consisting of stone particles embedded in a tough plastic matrix of pitch. It is a thoroughly practical proposition. It lasts as long or longer than the painted roofings when same are carefully maintained with paint, and it does this without any care or expense. Nobody should consider the purchase of roofings nowadays without finding out all about the new type of roofing. Information is very easy to obtain, because the manufacturers are naturally more than willing to tell you all about it. Simply address a postal request for a free sample of Amatite to the nearest office of the manufacturer. The Carrite-Paterson Mfg. Co., Limited, St. John, N. B., Halifax, N. S.

This Was No Joke

The other day over in the town of G., Ontario, Mrs. R. came into Mr. B's store and asked for a couple of packages of Dye. He was selling the Old Style Dyes that require a Separate Dye from Wool and Cotton, and asked her if she knew what KIND of cloth her goods were made of. Mrs. R. said she wasn't sure, so he advised her to go home and make the following test:

"First to take a small piece of the goods, and tavel out the threads each way of the Cloth, than put a match to them. Cotton would be apt to burn freely with little odor, Wool might merely singe and would be apt to give out a disagreeable odor, some thing like burning hair. Silk would burn less freely than Cotton and smell like burning Wool. Now, if it did not smell very much, she was to use a Dye for Cotton, if it did she was to use a Wool Dye, but she was to look out to see that it did not smell too much or too little."

New unfortunately, Mrs. R. had a cold in her head at the time, and couldn't smell ANYTHING, so she naturally thought that the goods were Cotton, and used the Cotton Dye. It turned out that her goods were really all Wool, and naturally her Dyeing was a failure. Since then B's has but in an assortment of the Guaranteed ONE DYE for ALL KINDS of Cloth, which does away with all chance of using the WRONG Dye for the Goods one has to color.

Mrs. R. is naturally much relieved as well as B's other Lady Customers.
