Sidewalk Sketches.

By H. L. RANN.

DEMOSTHENES.

Demosthenes was a Grecian citizen with great powers of endurance and a record for plain and fancy oratory that has never been lowered on any track. It is said of Demosthenes that he could start flat-footed with a cold wing and orate until the janitor went home without hoarsing up. His father was afflicted with a stutter which made it impossible for him to answer the telephone without having to pay for overtime, and Demosthenes inherited this infirmity, together with a pair of lungs which annoyed him considerably by collapsing at the psychological moment. Demosthenes overcame these defects by going out behind the barn and chinning himself on a horizontal bar, also by throwing parts of speech into the teeth of a head wind. This gave him a very durable and penetrating speaking voice, which enabled him to precipitate his vocabulary several miles in advance of his thought, a system which has since come into general use. No other equipment being required, he became a successful criminal lawyer, showing his fairness and impartiality by taking a retainer from both the plaintiff and the defendant. He made a specialty of person at injury cases and had his passes called in by the railroads, but did not murmur or repine. Demosthenes is said to be the only lawyer on record who could fill the mind of a petit jury with anything but currents of air. Between terms of court Demosthenes picked up a little loose change by gyrating around the Chautauqua circuit and acting as guardian ad litem for people of feeble intellect. His death was very sudden, being the result of low spirits and a half pint of wood alcohol, which his relatives claimed was inhaled by mistake.
