THE FEAR OF BLAME.

"But if I did do it and anything happened, my husband would blame me."
So said a friend of mine in explanation of her reasons for not doing a certain thing which seemed a perfectly right and reasonable thing to do.

"Don't you think it would be right for you to do it?" I asked.

"Oh, yes," she said with perfect certainty.

"Then you feel that there wouldn't be any real reason for him to blame you?"

"No, not the least in the world, but I know he would."

"Well, what would you care if he did if you knew you were right?"

"Oh, I just hate to be blamed for things," she said nervously.

That is not the first time I have heard that woman say that or something similar—she seems to have a perpetual fear of being blamed for things.

Now, everyone hates to be blamed. That is perfectly natural. Everyone resents it and reacts against it by trying to defend himself or herself. All that is natural. But there is a point at which the fear of blame becomes an abnormality. I think this woman has reached it and I think there are a good many people who are like her.

They allow themselves to be terrified by the fear of blame, out of doing things that there is no reason they should not do. Sometimes they are even prevented from doing things they really ought to do by this same inhibition.

This is a Weakness.

Now this is unquestionably a weakness of character. If you know blame is unjust you should not allow yourself to be influenced by the fear of it.

Of course one might say, "But suppose the other person is right and the blame is just, even if it doesn't seem so to me."

That too is to be considered. But not too long. One ought to consider other people's points of view thoroughly, but in the last analysis one must make one's own decisions.

Don't you love Kipling's "If you can trust yourself when all doubts you, / But make allowance for their doubting too—"

That is the ideal.

Miserable Through Fear of Blame. Many err on the other side, but their error is a painful one because of the mental suffering it entails.

Don't be afraid of blame which comes after an effort to find the right, and do it. Don't let it hurt you. It can't, you know, unless you do let it.

Tribute to Corporal White.

Marked tribute was paid to Corporal Allen Boyd White at the military funeral service held at the First Baptist Church, Sunday afternoon. They were attended by a large number of relatives and friends, Chelsea Post No. 34 American Legion, Commander Nicholas Lacy, and the Somerset Club. The eulogy was delivered by Rev. William S. Jacobs, the pastor, who spoke eloquently of this hero son who had given his all for his country. He told how at the outbreak of the war, Corporal White went to his widowed mother and told her he was going to enlist, how he joined the Regulars and how long he served "over there" in the fight for the great principles of democracy, how he died upon the field of battle on July 18, 1918, of the heroic mother who had given her son, and the beautiful example of that boy in his service to his country.

There were selections by Mr. Raymond Simonds, pastor of the Old South Congregational Church, Boston. The benediction was given by Rev. Mr. Jacobs.

There was a profusion of beautiful flowers banked about the casket and altar, and the casket was covered with an American flag.

The remains were escorted by Chelsea Post American Legion to Country road, eight of the members acting as pallbearers. Burial was in Woodlawn where volley cheers were fired over the grave and a bugler sounded taps.

Corporal White was born in St. John's Newfoundland, in 1896. He came with his parents to Chelsea as an early age and attended the Carter Grammar School. He was a member of the Chelsea Boys' Club and the Somerset Club, being one of the crack players on its baseball team.

It was on May 11, 1917, that he enlisted in Company K, 9th Infantry Regulars from Syracuse, N.Y., with his first overseas the following September.

His letters home to his mother were full of optimism and sought to cheer her from time to time. Only a short time before he was killed she received a letter from him which was dated July 4. In it he said, "This is a holiday, the Fourth of July. We had a good dinner, but the Germans will not give us any peace in which to eat it. We have been dodging shells all day. You want to cheer up. Mother, the stars and stripes will be flying from the flagstaff in Berlin next Fourth of July."

His death was a terrible blow to his brave mother, who met her bereavement with fortitude and found consolation in the fact that her brave son gave his life for his country in the struggle to preserve the great principles of government.

From a youngster when he sold papers in Chelsea square, Corporal White was popular among a wide circle of friends. He was a many chap and his brave death was in line with the splendid character he possessed.

Besides his mother, five sisters and three brothers survive—Chelsea, U.S.A., Gazette, May 21.

Corporal White was a son of Mr. Wm. White, late of Water St., this city, and grandson of the late Capt. Wm. White, one time master of the brig "White Devon."

Annual Collection

For Belvedere and Mount Carmel Cemeteries.

Once more the time has arrived when the Roman Catholic people of St. John's are called upon to subscribe to the beautifying and beautifying of the Cities of the Dead. The announcement from the Altars of the different Churches in the city last Sunday was given with the care and attention displayed by our Roman Catholic friends in beautifying the various plots in our cemeteries upon all occasions, year after year, but there are duties that devolve upon the energetic Committee that entail very considerable expense and it is to carry out the various most necessary repairs and improvements that the assistance of the Faithful is asked for on Sunday next. One of the first places visited by our countrymen and women, who visit Newfoundland from the United States and Canada during the summer months, is the great cemetery of our cemeteries, Belvedere or Mount Carmel, because there rests the mortal remains of their ancestors or some near and dear relative or friend in the sacred grounds in the centre of which are erected the beautiful little mortuary chapels in which Requiem Masses will be celebrated on the dates to be announced later on.

Then let our Roman Catholic friends make another grand effort to assist the Committee in their efforts to beautify and improve our cemeteries, because, after all, the characteristics of a people are judged to a great extent by the care and veneration displayed by a people upon the resting places of their departed. By making the Annual Collection of 1921 a record one, it will be a striking reminder to the past to our fellow-countrymen abroad that the resting places of their dear departed is being well looked after, and the fact of the great interest displayed by those of us who remain in the Old Land will call up old associations amongst our absent countrymen, and amongst the older and more thoughtful of them this short reference will cause a moistening of the eyes, by awakening former scenes, and, if only once for the year, no matter how fortunate their lots may have been in their distant home, they will breathe a fervent prayer, to be permitted to view, if but for once, dear old Newfoundland again, and kneel at the mounds of their dear departed, offering up a prayer for the repose of their souls.

Then let an extra effort be made, and every encouragement be given to the energetic Committee to continue the good work in beautifying and making much repairs and improvements as may be necessary to the last resting places of our ancestors, relatives and friends.

Conditions at Bay Roberts.

STRONG CENSURE FOR DR. BARNES.

Dear Sir—A pretty nice situation has arisen in this part of the District of Harbor Grace in connection with the expenditure of our portion of the special monies being granted by the Government for special work on roads, wharves and bridges.

In the Harbor Grace portion of the District the money is to be spent through and by the regular channel, the Road Board, duly elected by the people to look after the roads, wharves and bridges.

In the Spaniard's Bay section the same thing is being done. But in this section, Dr. Barnes, a man who is proving himself to be absolutely incapable as a representative and spokesman of the people, and utterly unable to interpret the will of the electors, has deigned to say that the special monies shall be placed in the hands of a commission to be spent.

The four Road Boards of Coley's Point, Country Road, Shearstown and Bay Roberts, the choices of the taxpayers of these respective sections, have been ignored by Mr. Barnes as being unfit or unable to handle the special grant in a manner satisfactory to that autocratic politician.

He is the gentleman who declared in 1919 that the people should not be given the privilege and power in public meeting assembled to choose their own candidate, and as a result of the people will at that time being ignored the same Mr. Barnes is a discredited man.

I can positively state that he does not represent ten per cent. of the electors of this District to-day. Although he received over 1,300 votes in 1918, if a vote was taken to-morrow he would not save his nomination fee. He is standing in the way of a more efficient working out of plans for the general public good. And the cry everywhere is, "What can be done to force him to resign?" His most prominent and strongest supporters are the most pronounced against him. They are disappointed and disgusted with his inaction, inability and silence.

Government of, by and for the people is a farce so far as this part of the country is concerned since Mr. Barnes was elected in 1918. I am informed that the Road Board recently sent messages to him, making certain enquiries regarding the special monies above referred to, and could not even get a reply. The Premier was then appealed to and asked to get Dr. Barnes to reply, and this also failed. Then the Minister of Public Works was asked, and at last a definite statement was given by him.

As one who knows the mind and temper of the people at the present time, I can assure the Government that the people or their elected Boards cannot be treated with contempt or impunity.

The Liberalism parading itself before us, is Liberal only in name. In practice it is the very worst form of arrogance and Toryism. And it is my opinion that the battles for the rights of the people fought and won in 1908 and 1909, will have to be fought over again. For dare any man deny but that the people secured their rights and enjoyed these rights during the years between 1909 and 1919 more than at any other period in our history.

Where are the good times and prosperity and opportunities so manifest on every hand during these years? Look at the opportunities that were afforded the common people and their sons and daughters, in obtaining responsible and lucrative positions hitherto largely denied them?

It was an era in the history of our country that will stand out prominently in future years and be remembered as other periods are recalled in the development and progress of other countries.

But men like Dr. Barnes were unfortunately given a chance to put certain disablist experimental policies in force, crippling the progress and development of the country, almost ruining our main industry—the fishery, and bringing about conditions generally that will take almost supermen to change. Strong words, say, "Certainly. But not quite as strong as I would wish them to be in expressing the disgust and contempt of those who not only vote against Barnes, Goss and others, but hundreds who enthusiastically but now very regretfully cast a ballot in their favor."

There are a number of other matters around here, such as supplying for the fishery, employment, relief of the poor, etc., daily requiring attention, but so far as our member is concerned he might as well be in Dore in Holland. He is only seen here about once every two or three months and then only with a select few, say "know."

Thanking you, Mr. Editor, I remain Yours truly,
