S. S. Neptune
 Second Arrival*BUMPER TRIP OF FAT.

S.S. Neptune, Capt. George Barbour, the second ship to arrive from the sealfishery, entered port yesterday afternoon, with all flags flying, hauling for a catch of 25,500 prime young harps. The Neptune, with the others of the fleet, left St. John's on March 12th, and after getting clear of the ice jam outside the Narrows, made good progress in open water down the shore. On the following day the Funks were sighted abeam.
 Steaming in a position 50 miles to the N.E. of the Funks, the ship was soon headed in a westerly direction toward White Bay. Good headway was made through closely packed ice until getting within ten miles of Horse Islands, when she became jammed.

With the Eagle and Thetis in the same predicament alongside, the ship was forced to remain in the vicinity for several days awaiting a change of wind. Many an anxious day was spent on board, and the men, to save their ship from being crushed, were engaged almost daily keeping the rattled pans of the decks. The good old Neptune, however, weathered the storm, and on Monday, March 24th, a rent came in the ice, which was availed of and, with open water sighted a few miles distant, butting and blasting was resorted to, and two miles progress was made. On March 27th the Neptune again forged onward, 15 miles from Hoping Harbor, with the Eagle and Thetis lying 8 miles W.N.W. On the following day the report was received that the Terra Nova had taken seals, and by Saturday, 10 miles from Partridge Point, the flags of the Terra Nova's pans were first sighted, and at nightfall the ship was passing through their dead seals. On Sunday the ship's crew assisted the Eagle in clearing a space for the aeroplane, when a successful flight was made and a large body of seals reported.
 The aeroplane patch was struck on the following day, the ship's position then being 9 miles East of Partridge Point. During the day 12,000 prime young whitecoats were killed and banded. For the next few days the crew did excellent work, and by this time the patch was cut up, a total of 33,000 having been accounted for.

Hauling seals on board proved to be an arduous task, as the ice was very rough, with numerous lakes of water, and it was with great difficulty the men worked the palls. On Thursday the weather broke and a heavy swell carried the remaining pans miles away from the ship's position. Roughly 71 pans were lost, containing about 6,000 seals. Fortunately several of the scattered pans were picked up, and on Saturday last, 26,000 had been placed on board and stowed down.

Capt. Barbour then decided to head out in the Bay in search of old seals, and after butting a passage through the ice, open water was made 12 miles North of Horse Islands. Only a few scattered seals were spotted, and on Sunday night it was decided to bear up for St. John's. Coming South the ship ran into a heavy S.E. gale and was forced to shelter at Bonaville from Monday evening until early yesterday morning, when the run was continued to port. Capt. Barbour recites many interesting events in connection with the season's sealfishery, particularly the operations in White Bay. The ice, throughout the whole period was unfavorable for operations and the crew were compelled to work doubly hard in hauling seals to the ship. Speaking of the fishery as a whole, the captain states that no one will ever know how many seals found their way in and out of White Bay this spring. Apparently the main patch, driven by prevailing easterly and northerly winds, had drifted with the ice far into White Bay and, owing to the tight pack of the ice, the whitecoats were unable to find open water to dip, with the result the whole herd began a migration, slowly crowding out of the Bay to the lakes of water beyond.

Capt. Barbour and crew are quite well after the hardships endured, and baring a few slight colds, from which several of the men suffered, not one single case of serious illness occurred. Heartly congratulations are extended to the captain on his second arrival and bumper trip of fat. Discharging commenced at Job's South-side premises this morning.

Llewellyn Club

The event of the season's program-on Thursday next, April 24th, in the attraction, the passing of them is also a form of initiation for all new which follow this sumptuous feast, are of a very high order.
