centres of business; it would destroy the trade of importers. New York, with its harbor open all the year would be our source of supply for foreign goods and domestic manufactures; its commercial travelers would penetrate to every village, the warehouses of Montreal, Toronto, Hamilton and London would be tenantless, the engines in the factories of these and other places would lie idle and the workmen would betake themselves to warmer climates. Whatever benefit the farmers derive from local markets would be lost to them and they would have to compete with the products of the south and west in their own neighborhood. It is alleged that being relieved from American duties they would be benefited by high prices for their produce in the Eastern States, but a little enquiry shows that the gain from this source would be but small. under the leadership of Mr. Mercier, propos to vote themselves $200 each additional in This is the sort of thing that passes for reform in this Canada of ours. Legislators uselessly chew the atmosphere for months and then turn around and bill the taxpayers for the wind that has been consumed.

The English law has thrust still another person into prison for being High. They do not use the word in the popular Canadian sense, and they spell it with a big H, always excepting the Cockneys. The recalcitrant minister probably thinks that the authorities have played a low game on him. Let him come out and grow up with this glorious climate, where a man can be an attitudinarian, as to him seems best, provided the collection plate pans out.

Interests demand separation, a condition which may never arise. Look at the forces arrayed against Mr. Wiman, Mr. Butterworth and the Globe and Mail—all lovers of British connection; the French Canadians as a body, headed by the hierarchy; conservative men of all nationalities, those who love to leave well alone and dielike above to leave well alone and dielike above to leave well alone and dielike above to leave well and the courage of his ignorance. Mr. Charlton ought a leave comer here, wrote the United States that the Canadian volunteers were no good and could be easily beaten by the Fenians. He talks of rebellion as glibly as though he were of the choicest properties in Toronto, as will be seen by his list in to-day's issue. A valuable parcel is also included, situate at "Nigara on the Lake," (four acres), a chance for speculators seldom met with. Mr. Boyle will be glad to give all particulars of the properties.

Concerning Canada the Cincinnati Enquirer says that "the proper thing to do is to take her in." Our neighbors have always proceeded upon that theory, but they have taken her in so often that Mr. Wiman's present confidence game will not work.

STOVER'S SNAKE FARM.

Lots of Battlers for Sale and Some Hlack Snakes and Blue Racers on Hand. From the St. Louis Globe Democrat. Your correspondent last Sunday visited the celebrated snake farm—"rattlesnake forty"— near Galton, Ill., owned and managed by Capt. Dan Stover and wife, and assisted by William Dunn.

Miss Berry and I left the scance room for the cottage where she was temporarily stopping, and her first words to me on our ext were, "Well, Doctor, did you have a good scance?" "Excellent," I replied.
"Did you see airyone you knew?" "One," was said after a hearty laugh. I asked: "Did this ever occur with you before, Nellie?"
"No," was her reply, and then she gave this brief explanation: "While entranced in the cabinet I said to "Charley" [her controls Now, I am a spirit with the rest of you and why can't I materialize and go out?"
