1900

At this season of the year, when good wishes and friendly feeling seem particularly appropriate, we have much pleasure in extending to you all seasonable compliments, and to wish you a very Prosperous and Happy 1900.

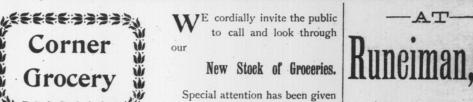

191

We take this opportunity of thanking you for the kind favors you have extended to us during the past year, and to assure you of our continued intention to leave nothing undone on our part to merit the continuance of your confidence.

Our line for the coming season will be very large and varied, and will embrace all the latest and most fashionable goods, and we therefore bespeak your kind consideration before you make your purchases for Spring.

Yours very truly,

After Mr. Armstrong had finished his first remarks, I. Young was called upon to state what he knew about it. He replied: "I do not know anything about it, only what Mr. Armstrong said. "Some of the people ob-jected to Mr. Irvine, and would not work through him; probably if cases had been sent to Mr. Irvine, he would have acted on them," etc. This shows where the fault lies. Mr. Armstrong said later at the same meeeting, "I do not wish anyone to think I have any personal animosity against Mr. Irvine; the has some good qualities, but he is not fit for Inspector;" now here is volun-tary testimony given by a witness, supposed to be wholly disinterested, that Mr. Irvine "thas some good qualities." Can Mr. Arm-strong name a time or place, when, or where such testimony has been given at any public gathering in favor of himself? if not, the weight of evidence as it now stands, is in favor of Mr. Irvine. I do not for a moment think that any person could be found, who, when solicited, would make a similar state-ment relative to Mr. Armstrong. After the last quotation from Mr. Armstrong, he sub-mitted the following resolution; "Resolved, that the present Inspector has shown him-self to be unfitted for the position and that we take steps to secure a successor."
