

There is no better country in which to ask these questions than Canada, with its stunning beauty and immeasurable potential. And in Canada, there is no more appropriate place to ponder the future than in Saskatchewan, where the most bountiful glories of this planet are in full evidence.