MONDAY MORNING, AUG. 25.

EAST YORK CONSERVATIVE NOMINATION.

In Mr. George Henry East York will have an excellent representative in the provincial legislature. He has had extensive experience in public life, having sat successfully in the township and county councils, and held other important offices. The delegates were evidently desirous of again nominating a farmer, and that being so, no possible exception can be taken to their choice. All that remains to be done is for the Conservative party in the constituency to support him loyally and unitedly should the threatened opposition to his election materialize. But as the result is a foregone conclusion, no reason offers itself for compelling the trouble and expense of a contest.

A HAGUE PRECEDENT FOR THAW.

In connection with Thaw's escape from Matteawan and flight to Canada the decision of the Hague Tribunal in a somewhat similar case appears to have an important bearing. The point submitted to the international court arose out of the escape of Savarkar, a native of India, who was being conveyed back to that dependency to stand trial. While the steamer was lying in a French port Savarkar managed to elude his guards and reached French soil, where he was recaptured and handed back to the custody of the British officials. Questions regarding the legality of this action of the French government arose at the instance of the French government, who in fact asked that Savarkar be returned to France. The dispute was ultimately referred to the Hague Tribunal, which upheld the British contention that it was not a matter for French jurisdiction.

This precedent was successfully cited at Marseilles on Friday last in the trial by court-martial of a French soldier named Vogel, who was charged with assaulting his superior officer and with desertion. Vogel fled to Switzerland, but the Swiss Government decided to expel him. On being returned over the frontier he was immediately rearrested by the French authorities. The court at Marseilles held that the Hague decision disposed of the plea that Vogel's rearrest was illegal and sentenced him to ten years in prison. Thaw does not seem to be in better case and apparently the Canadian Government would on the authority of the judgment quoted be justified in returning him to the United States.

FIRE AND WATER SERVICES.

There seems to be a doubt on the part of some local authorities whether the judicial investigation into the fire and water services will occur. At any rate a vast amount of information is reaching the public through the usual evening channels which the board of control, unaided by Controller Foster, seems to have been unable to elicit. Our old friend, and in the tunnel, has stuck up his head again, and alleges that if he had not been disturbed by the hydro pumping which kept stopping, and surging him up and down, he would have lain quiet, and not got into the mains or the hydrants.

So we are carried back to the time when the city council refused to listen to expert advice, gathered at enormous cost, but negligible in the face of the immediate necessity for aldermanic votes. An extra intake pipe, more and larger mains, an indispensable and inevitable high level reservoir at Scarborough, foreseen fifty years ago, and other items of professional interest, have been demanded by the engineers, but the aldermen know better.

It's a beautiful system. One of these days the citizens will adopt a real city government and save two or three millions a year.
CHANGING WITH THE TIME.
There is a time for everything, we are reminded by the ancient sage known to scholars as "The Preacher." The Globe seems to have imbibed the idea, judging from the difference in treatment it has for different political contests. In connection with the last year's contest it had a most enlightening and instructive article on the inspiring kind. The Liberal party, it stated, did not want office, but power, and the way to get power was to have high principles and lofty aims, and public integrity, and we believe it went as far as to suggest that they were to be put in practice as well as professed in theory.

Anyhow, the tone was quite different from the tone adopted in the North Gray election, where it seemed there was a fair chance of retaining Hon. A. G. MacKay's seat. The usual political methods were regarded as likely to be efficacious in Owen Sound, and they were not neglected.
But it is different in East York. Brother Chamberlain leads a forlorn hope, and the high moral attitude is regarded as correct under such circumstances. If The Globe was really in earnest East York might awaken to the significance of the phenomenon, but porphyry pillars are only stucco nowadays with rusty iron underneath. Most of Sir James Whitney's strength consists in the fact that he is no worse than he seems, but rather better, with the rust on the outside.

GALICIAN EMIGRATION.

Britain is not the only country that has become alarmed at the increase in the volume of adult emigration. The governor of Galicia, the largest of the Austrian provinces and possessing self-government in matters not expressly reserved to the central government of the empire, has intimated his determination to stop emigration to Canada and the United States, and has accordingly instructed the police to arrest all male persons between the ages of eighteen and thirty-six who attempt to leave the country and return them to their homes.

In the fiscal year 1906 the Galician immigration into Canada was 14,268. In the following year it dropped to 6,644, and to 3,368 in 1910, but increased in 1911 to 3,552. In 1910 258,737 arrived in the United States, and in 1911, 159,057 from Austria-Hungary. The population of Galicia is about 8,000,000, over 50 per cent. being Poles and 43 per cent. Ruthenian. The province, which is crown land of ports lumber extensively. Agriculture is poor, and socially and educationally the people are backward. It is therefore not surprising that they should seek to escape from their depressing conditions.

THE COURTS AND THE PEOPLE.

Strange it may seem, but true it is that the man on the street looks forward with languid interest to what may be said and done at the meeting of the American Bar Association at Montreal on September 1, 2 and 3. He is interested in the coming of the Lord Chancellor as a figure historical and picturesque; he may glance at the address delivered by former President Taft and fall to musing over the stirring campaign struggle of 1911, but the subjects discussed by lawyers, and the recommendations agreed to, will make little impression. Yet the administration of justice is the prime object of government, and the forum has in bygone days furnished inspiration to the popular literature of the world.
Are the courts getting out of touch with the people? Do the masses of people any longer look upon the bench and bar as great pillars, upholding the temple of free institutions? Is there not a widespread, if erroneous conviction, that an appeal to the courts means endless delay, great expense, and the entrance into a region where common sense is often lost sight of in a maze of artificial rules and distinctions, and where the rich have undue advantage over the poor?

The great number of appeals allowed in civil cases in Canada, and in the United States, will account in part for the general disposition of the people to pocket any loss rather than submit to the uncertain arbitrament of the courts. But there is another reason which goes far deeper. So long as the rich man or corporation can always retain the most able men at the bar, and the poor must be content with lawyers inexperienced and inept, it is idle to say that rich and poor stand upon an equality. If lawyers, like the judges, were appointed and paid by the state, and required to represent the litigants as cases arose in the community, the correct administration of justice would be the goal kept in view by bench and bar alike, and we would return to a simpler and more expeditious administration of justice. One, too, that would guarantee equality of treatment to all classes in the community.

LET EVERYBODY GO.

Anyone who thinks conventionalities of speech are necessary in commending the Toronto Fair, knows nothing about it. There's nothing else in the world like it, except that one in Russia, which is not in the same class anyway, and hasn't six tickets for a dollar, so that you can go every day, and you can get lovely fans at nearly every stall for nothing.

It appears there are calliffs—if we knew anything worse to describe these people by we would use the epithet—calliffs, who do not visit the fair every year. If everybody in Toronto would twice that would be a million. All the others from Hamilton and Bobcaygeon would be surplus. But the fair has yet to cross the million mark. Hamilton has done nobly, and so has Bobcaygeon; what is needed is for the people in Toronto, who haven't been going to get up and see the biggest thing of its kind in America. It is a positive wonder as it stands, the great buildings grouped carelessly in the pleasant lawns of the big park, and the glorious lake view stretching away on all sides from it. There is a hugeness and comprehensiveness about it which is not unworthy of the vast Dominion it illustrates.

This year the unusual attractions are augmented by the new live stock arena, and foreign countries and the sister provinces are taking a more animated interest in the exhibits. The Irish Guards Band is a guarantee of excellent music, and other bands will contribute to the dozen concerts a day, which will be at the choice of amusement.

It should be remembered that the greater numbers expected do not involve greater crowding. The area of the grounds has been about doubled, and with the new train services, the transportation accommodation should be better than ever.

There should be no calliffs or traitors in Toronto this year. Everybody go. A doctor has just died of vaccination in London, Ont. Step up and get vaccinated.

FIRST-HAND EVIDENCE.

Deep into prehistoric mists the visiting geologists have delved while in our fair young land—the members of the learned band have handed many a telling rap at divers places on the map. With little hammers they have whacked our famed Niagara cataract; they've knocked our famous mountain peaks—in short, for many, many weeks, these scientists have tripped around returned, just to thump and pound the smiling land which gave us birth, to find out its latitudes and longitudes. While on my porch the other day, I saw a man who passed that way, and quicker than a flash I wist that he was a geologist. My neighbor's fence he soon espied, and quickly I was at his side, as from that cobblestoned fence the savant knocked off chunks immense and dropped the pieces in a sack which he was bearing on his back. "Most learned sir, good morn to you," I spoke in all the tongue I knew. "I find would learn if all is well with this here land in which we dwell." The man of science nodded his head, and he said to me: "The stuff of which this country's made is of the very finest grade and should produce a splendid race well qualified to hold its place among the greatest of the earth—this land was noble at its birth and has been so at every stage of evolution; age"—then with apologies ornate he knocked the knob from off my gate.

TAILORED SUITS ARE SACRIFICED

House of Hobblerlin in Position to Offer Remarkable Bargains.

If you have any doubts as to the effect of the present offering on some lines of business you can get a splendid object lesson by just stepping into the House of Hobblerlin, which is now located at the corner of Yonge and Richmond streets. You will have a chance to buy some of the finest tailors' suits and overcoats that ever came from these wonderful tailor shops. These garments are out of the ordinary. They were made for a number of the firm's agencies, where high-class tailoring is required by the orders of some of the best customers in western Canada. The total amounts to several hundred garments, and they will be sold at from $25 to $40 overcoat in the lot for $15. To say that the store is bound to be filled is merely expressing the concrete fact that will be fully substantiated before many hours have passed. We were told that the number of these suits and overcoats, and if you could only realize just what savings can be made and the superior character of the garments you would be one of the first men there.

Included in the offering are also the usual dress suits, and the most comprehensive and meritorious of the firm have ever offered the public. ## LARGE PERCENTAGE ARE FROM TORONTO

Over Half the Patients in Muskoka Hospitals Are From This City.

Two hundred and eighty-seven patients of the 445, the total number of patients in residence in the hospitals for consumptives at Muskoka and Western are from the City of Toronto; 800 do not pay anything at all towards the cost of their own maintenance; 55 pay $4.00 or less per week. Forty-eight of the total patients in residence are children, and are housed in the Queen Mary Hospital for Consumptives; 150 are in the Toronto Free Hospital and King Edward Hospital at Weston; 172 in the Muskoka Cottage Hospital for Consumptives, and 75 in the Muskoka Cottage Sanatorium, the pay institution.

This constitutes the largest number of patients ever cared for in these institutions.

LORD NORTHCLIFFE TO VISIT MONTREAL

Owner of London Daily Mail Visits Canada to Seek Golf Championship.

LONDON, August 23.—Lord Northcliffe, owner of The London Daily Mail, and a majority stockholder of The London Times, to say nothing of fifty other papers and periodicals, sailed for Montreal yesterday on the Empress of Britain.

He will then go to Newfoundland to look over some property there, but one or the objects of his trip is to be present at the golf championship in which English professional cranks are taking part.

Lord Northcliffe is putting up the money for Ray Vardon's expenses in America, and has guaranteed to make good any amount that may be needed. It was he who persuaded the English professional cranks to take part in the American competition, for he is tremendously interested in the "ancient game," and has set his heart on England winning the trophy.

"I don't mind what it costs," he is reported to have said to Ray Vardon when the players left for America, "but bring back the championship." So keen is Lord Northcliffe on the game that he has laid out on his estates, close to his magnificent home, Sutton Castle, Surrey, private links for himself and his friends.

He is interested in all forms of British sports and is one of the large financial supporters of the Olympic games. It is said he offered to put his name down for the whole of the $500,000, which now is being subscribed for training the English competitors, on conditions that he should be allowed to choose the English team, and practically to run the show, apparently for the benefit of his newspapers. The Olympic games committee thought it better that contributions should be national.

MILITARY MEN AND ATHLETES AT WAR

Calgary Athletic Organizations Fight Against Site of New Armory.

CALGARY, August 23.—The controversy here between local military and various athletic organizations of the city over the site of the proposed armory has taken a new angle. A number of the athletic people as a protest against the council voting away a portion of the city's athletic park for armory purposes last night, captured by military men.

The election of Major Atkinson to the chairmanship of the athletic council was the signal for the athletes to retire, and they organized a second meeting at which proceedings were started looking to violating the city to prevent the transfer of the property to the government.

In the meantime the military men, in control of the original meeting, passed resolutions endorsing the action of the city council. At the same time in another hall, a few doors away, the trades and labor council passed a resolution condemning the city council for its action, while at a meeting of the board of trade, held during the afternoon, the attitude of the council was approved of.

SAYS BROTHER WAS STARVED TO DEATH

Woman Accuses Shilohites of Slaying Thirteen Year Old Lad.

A 'WILD MAN' AT LARGE

State of Maine is Probing Into Alleged Malfeasance of Society.

(Special to The Toronto World.)
LEWISTON, Me., Aug. 24.—The Holy Ghost and Us Society at Shiloh is again under investigation by Androscoggin County authorities. Several informal charges have been made against the institution. The most serious perhaps is that of Mrs. Roland Whittemore of Brunswick, who declares her brother, Hayden Jon, thirteen, was starved to death while an inmate at Shiloh. The Sandfordites declare he died of typhoid fever.

It is also alleged that there is a general shortage of rations; that children are not allowed proper medical attendance and that there are no funds in the treasury at Shiloh.

George A. Allen of Auburn, agent of the Children's Protective Association; County Attorney W. H. Hines, Dr. W. S. Garcelon, chairman of the board of health, and Freeman B. Taylor, chief of the Auburn police department, inspected the Shiloh this week. While they have not yet made an official report, it is said they propose to continue their probe with a view to making one of more arrests.

Agent Allen will take the matter up with the attorney-general and will also place all of the facts at hand before Geo. Hines and ask that the state authorities take immediate action to safeguard the lives of the children at Shiloh.

A strange wild man, who has been living in the woods of Durham near the Shiloh, is believed to be a crazed Shilohite. Recently he held up William Welch, a farmer, and threatened to kill him. Welch escaped and gave the police a party of armed men were organized and visited the place where the wild man had been seen, the only evidence of his presence were the imprints of his bare feet in the dirt.

Welch said the man was nude except for a piece of burlap twisted about his body, that he had a beard, long hair, was lank and bony and looked half-starved. This creature has been prowling about the Durham woods for days, and on several occasions has chased women and children who have been berry picking.

FRANCE EXHIBITS UNDER CONDITIONS

Display at Frisco Depends on Passing of Copyright Bill by Congress.

Special Cable to The World. Copyrighted PARIS, Aug. 23.—The French Government's attitude toward the Sacramento exhibition is that, although the government has already agreed in principle to participate on a large scale, participation depends on the extension of copyright, suppression of false origin marks and the granting of special customs privileges.

If Senator Perkins' bill for the extension of copyright to foreign designs, making manufactured articles valid for five years, passes, the French contribution to the exhibition will probably be large, but the government has protection for its exhibits from foreign free imitations.

TWO FATALITIES OFF LAKE BOATS

Deckhands Fall From Steamer's Deck—Both Came From Hamilton.

ST. CATHARINES, Aug. 24.—(Special.)—When the steamer A. Ames was just about to enter Port Dalhousie harbor this morning, James Hawkins, a new deck hand, who had joined the crew at Hamilton on Saturday, fell overboard and was drowned. No person aboard the steamer saw any sign of his body after he disappeared, and it has not been recovered.

Hawkins lived at 141 Charlton avenue, Hamilton.

Frederick White of Strachan avenue, Hamilton, who had slipped aboard the Colling at Toronto on Thursday, fell from the head gear at lock 22, during the night, and was drowned.

Dear Sirs—About a month ago I had you equip my car with a set of puncture-proof tubes. When the tubes were installed your man, Mr. Shaw, drove a nail into one of the tubes six or seven times to test the self-healing qualities of the tube for some friends of mine, who were present at the time. Since then I am pleased to state that the pressure in the tube has remained the same and I have no trouble whatever with my tires. Now feel confident that I can go as far as I like and get back without stopping on the road to replace a punctured tube. Wishing you every success with the new tube, I beg to remain, yours truly,
