Weeks by Germans.

"There were 3000 wounded and sick in Baden-Baden even as early as Sept. 15," stated Mrs. C. Brent yester-day for the first time since her husband, the U.S. consul, was moved from Jamaica to Toronto. The beautiful drawing-room with its hangings of Rose du Barri brocade, lovely flowers and ferns made a very pretty setting for the reception, the hostess looking exceeding-length were traveling thru Germany when the war broke out, and who were detained under police surveillance at Baden-Baden for more than eight weeks.

"We tried hard to get out of Germany when the war broke out," said Mrs. Brent, "but we were stopped near the Swiss frontier and sent back to Baden-Baden, where we put up at the Holland House, the proprietor of which was, luckily for us, a very brocad-minded German gentleman. The German army was mobilized even as early as July 27, but upon making enquiries we were told that it was only the ordinary manoeuvre assembly. At the English Church all references to the King's enemies' in the prayer book service were omitted by order, whilst the prayer for the kaiser was continued.

This musical comedy, now at the Alexandra Theatre, is certainly the greatest gloom destroyer that has been seen here in many a long day. Stella Mayhew, the funniest of all comediennes, and the crowd of singers, dancers and fun-makers, seem to have no other object in view than to drive dull care away, and well do they succeed in doing it. To miss seeing "High Jinks" is to miss the merriest musical frolic of the season. Large and pleased audiences have witnessed every performance and packed houses are sure to prevail for the balance of the week. There is a debt of gratitude due

JOHN MCCORMACK'S RECITAL.

THE WINNING OF BARBARA WORTH Love, deep-toned and constant, flowers the effort which makes possible the reclaiming of "the hollow of God's hand" desert scene of the fascinating dramatization of Harold Bell Wright's novel, "The Winning of Barbara Worth," which has been placed on the stage, and will be the attraction at the Grand Opera House next week. To those who have read the great novel the coming dramatic sequence will be welcome. The authors have caught the very spirit of the novelist and the light and shadows of the splendid west and its life. To see the characters is to love them and all of the absorbing-ly interesting figures of the book have been placed unce the stage of the special contents.

Kinkaid's Kilties, a troupe of Scottish singers, dancers and pipers, including a sweet-toned brass band, will be the sawet-toned brass band, will be the headline feature of the show at Loew's Winter Garden for next week. Rose Maurer, the comedienne in kilts, will sing the Scotch comic songs with the true heather flavor. Caesar Rivoll, lightning thanga artist, enacts a whole play himself, changing costume and make-up as occasion requires, and following it with a series of impersonations of famous music masters. The Roland West playlet, "When We Grow Up," reveals a charming story of rural life in two scenes, written and staged by Eddic Clark. Oscar Lorraine, protean violinist and favorite of the Winter Garden, New York; the Jolly comedy duo Barnes and Robinson, B. Kelly Forrest, the tramp comedian with the big voice, Fields Brothers, unique dancers and others are all on the same bill.

AT THE GAYETY. Frank Harcourt is one of the fixtures of burlesque. If the patrons of the Gayety Theatre couldn't see Harcourt during the season they would think something had gone wrong. For years Harcourt has caused the patrons of this theatre to laugh loud and long at his comedy, and as an eccentric comedian he is without an equal on the burlesque stage. When Joe Hurtig presents "The Girls from Happyland" at the Gayety next week, Harcourt will be there with all new laughs for his friends.

THIRTY LEAGUES UNDER THE SEA THIRTY LEAGUES UNDER THE SEA.

Few of the readers of Jules Verne's fascinating story, "Twenty Thousand Leagues Under the Sea," ever gave a thought to the possibility of a realization of his fantastic tale of the wonders of the deep. When the author describes the splendid saloon of his imaginary submarine, with its crystal panels, thru which could be seen an unexplored abyss, in which countless strange fish darted in and out among the luxuriant ocean growth it suggests to the average mind only an impossible, altho fascinating, dream. But today, thanks to the wonderful results achieved by the Williamson expedition to the West Indies, this dream has become a reality. Next week at Princess Theatre, three times daily, with lecturer, will be shown in marvelous motion pictures the first and only ones ever taken at the bottom of the ocean, a panorama of sub-aqueous wonders that far surpass the imaginary pictures of the famous French novelist.

His wonderful voice enables him to give a more varied and extensive program than most singers, and in his selections for his concert tonight there is something to please every-body. In view of the fact that the entire profits will be turned over to the Toronto Relief Society, an organization that is doing such noble work at present, his should in itself be a sufficient magnet to draw a large audience tonight.

The announcement of John McCormack's recital on Dec. 4-has brought so many mail orders to Massey Hall this week that his record of last year has been passed already. Remittances by letter addressed to Mr. Withrow will be accepted until Monday, when the advances sale opens at 9 a.m. McCormack returns to his Toronto friends this season at the zenith of his powers. He has been singing less than eight years and the crities who have heard him in New York and elsewhere since the beginning of his present tour have found many new beauties in his voice. As one of them has expressed it: "In the simplicity of John McCormack's singing that reaches the heart, there is vocal skill of the most admirable kind and something more exquisite still is the controlled fervor of a nature which is more attuned to the tender stops of pathos than to violent outbursts of grief or passion."

LOEW'S WINTER GARDEN.

The "Broadway Girls," which comes to the Star Theatre next week, is really a Broadway musical review in fact, i possesses a vim, snap and dash that the others often lack.

Miss Hazel Crosby, the "Lady Dainty of burlesque," has the principal female role. She is assisted by Miss Ada Lum the fascinating contraito; Miss Florence Campbell, the bewitching soubrette; Mr. Joe Morris, the funny Dutch comedian; Save, the jumping juggler; Baker and O'Neil, "The Census Takers"; and Al. K. Hall, the eccentric entertainer.

The rehearsal called for Thursday, Nov. 19, will be held as arranged before and was canceled in error. The following end men are requested to be on hand: Roscoe Lukey, Bud White, Harry Wickett, Fred Kelly, Bert Orr, E. B. Ross, Stan. Reid, Harold Lorimer, Ritchie Forbes, R. G. Ross. T. Harland Fudge wants all the chorus and members taking part in "Darky Courtroom" scene to also be on hand.
