County Fathers Strike Out an Account for 60 Cents for lnk Becounty fathers on Saturday was the application from the Canadian Canal Company for a franchise to acquire certain lands in the county for the construction of a canal. The company in the prospectus, set forth their purpose to acquire two ports, one on the Georgian Bay and another at some point on Lake Ontario. By almost unanimous consent it was decided to petition against the proposed canal largely on the ground that the waster courses along the line of the proposed works would be diverted from their natural course, and the present difficulty in relation to an adequate supply of water be still further intensified. Councilor Frank Turner, C.E., vigorously opposed the measure point on take Ontario. By almost unanimous consent it was decided to petition against the proposed works would be diverted from their natural course, and the present difficulty in relation to an adequate supply of water be still further intensified. Councilor Frank Turner, C.E., vigorously opposed the measure, not alone by reason of the fact that great damage would ensue, but that the promoters of the measure were wholly unconstitutional in their mode of procedure. Thru a mistaken idea of expected reciprocity, congress repealed the law which existed for our protection. We find that the re-enactment of this law is absolutely necessary to put us on an equality with our Canadian friends."

According to local opinion from those interested, the protest is reasonable. P. C. Larkin of the "Salada" Company, which does by far the largest trade with the United States, explained that while tea coming into Canada was nominally duty free yet it had the 10 per cent. restriction, which is placed on all imports from the United States, whereas Canadian dealers were at liberty to send their goods across the line without duty.

liberty to send their goods across the line without duty.

"Our government has been unjust in keeping that 10 per cent. duty against them." declared Mr. Larkin. "My argument is that a merchant should not need protection whatever justification there may be for granting it to the manufacturer. But if the dealer cannot import and sell to the consumer as cheaply as any other merchant, we have no excuse for being here because we serve no purpose unless we are prepared to cater to the consumer as cheaply as possible. The Canadian government should have taken that duty off years ago, and we would then have been in the same relation to the states been in the same relation to the states as they are to us. We have talked of reciprocity, and in this instance where the States are willing we do not meet them half way."

Mr. Larkin said he had on several

Mr. Larkin said he had on several occasions written to government officials at Ottawa relative to the matter, but without result. He did not think that the removal of the duty would affect the tea trade here.

At the same time it is evident that a retallatory duty from the United States would affect Canadian trade. Robert McKay, manager of the Blue Ribbon Tea Co., which is also building up a trade in the States, said that it would mean that Canadians wishing it would mean that Canadians wishing to trade in package teas in the States would have to do their work across the States was also subject to the altho that coming direct from Rio Janeiro or Ceylon is admitted free. Canada imports most of the tea direct thru St. John or Newfoundland, altho that which comes thru Boston or other American ports on a "thru bill of ad-ing is not taxed."

Solid Oak --- the Greatest Wood for Modern Furniture

Oak has long been the symbol of honest strength and sturdiness and certainly solid oak furniture leaves little to complain of as regards stability. Mahogany and walhut, the favorite woods of a century ago, have become too scarce to come under the head of economical material for general-purpose furniture these days. And really, apart from the sentiment attached to those old dark colored cabinets and tables, and considered simply on the question of beauty alone, is not the modern oak furniture every whit as worthy as the walnut and mahogany of our great grandparents? We think so, and we think you will think so when you see our display of oaken furniture at the February Sale prices. Run your eye over this list of economies in oak furniture, which we display specially to-morrow:
