When a woman make up her mind that a hen shall not set, and the hen makes up her mind that she will, the irresistible meets the immovable, and every law of nature is broken or prevented.

A Massachusetts clergyman was receiving $300 a year, which was raised to $600. But he protested because it took half his time to collect the $300, and if he had the $600 to collect there would be no time for writing sermons.

After man came woman. And she has been after him ever since.

Men are geese, women are ducks, and birds of a feather flock together.

It is said that the most unhealthy position a man can hold is that of being "the oldest Mason."

The most useful pedestrian is the man who walks up and down the room all night with the baby.

A little girl was reproved for playing out-d-ors with boys, and informed that being seven years old, she was too big for that now. "Why," said the little innocent, "the bigger we grow, the better we like them."

Always manage to live so as to leave something at death. A Chicago man of ninety-eight years of age married the other day because he thought it far better to leave a widow than nothing.

Learn not to judge too harshly of any one, either in respect to good or evil, for both are dangerous.

Artemus Ward once began a lecture by saying: "Ladies and gentlemen, I possess a gigantic intellect, but I haven't it with me."

A young lady who was rebuked by her mother for kissing her intended, justified herself by quoting the passage, "Whatsoever ye would that men should do unto you, do you even so unto them."
