

"YUKON YESTERDAY AND TODAY," IS FINELY TOLD OF BY MRS. BLACK

Wife of Federal Member For That Country Thrills Large Audience in N. H. S. Rooms—Paints Graphically Old and New Days

"THE YUKON OF YESTERDAY AND TODAY" was the title of the address given by Mrs. George Black, F. R. G. S., wife of the Federal member for the Yukon, last evening for the winter lecture course of the Ladies' Association of the Natural History Society.

Mrs. Black went into the Yukon in the gold rush days of 1898 and has made the trip to that northern territory 21 times since then.

She has seen the foot travel of early days change to railway and automobile travel and the makeshift methods of mining days change to the ordered lines of established communities.

CHARMING LECTURER.

She is as charming and gracious a lecturer as the society has ever had and as she painted graphically her word pictures of the old days and the new days. The marvellously beautiful lantern slides which she showed so delighted the audience that many times throughout the evening there were involuntary exclamations of amazement from every one present.

Her audience marvelled most at the lovely flowers and luxuriant vegetation shown in several of the pictures. Mrs. Margaret Lawrence, president of the association, was chairman, and tendered to Mrs. Black the hearty vote of thanks which had been moved by Mrs. Heber Vroom, as a representative of the I. O. D. E. Mrs. Black being a member of the national executive of that order, and seconded by Rev. H. A. Cody.

FREDERICKTON HUSBAND'S HOME.

Mrs. Black explained that although she had been born a "mere Yankee" Frederickton had been her husband's boyhood home. She first took her husband from Vancouver to her home in Dawson City, travelling through the superb scenery of the inland passage to Skagway, passing Alert Bay and the Indian houses and totem poles, relics of a custom as old as the world, and up into Alaska which was purchased by the United States for $7,200,000 and last year brought returns in exports and imports of $130,000,000 to the United States.

Mrs. Black compared the beauty of the bay at Wrangell to the Bay of Naples. She related an amusing incident of two motion picture operators making the trip to the Yukon. The more venturesome had obtained permission to row out in a small boat to a glacier. As the boat was nearing the glacier there was a crash and a huge portion cracked away from the main body. The operator and his two rowers were upset in the water and the less venturesome operator, who remained on board, got an excellent motion picture of the unusual mishap.

NONE TOO INVITING.

Mrs. Black in relating what comforts had been found at the "Grand Pacific Hotel" on the trail in Alaska in 1898, said that being the only other woman, besides the wife of the hotel proprietor, she had been honored with the only cubicle the hotel afforded and had found it none too inviting. For a plain breakfast the hotel charge was $2.50. The speaker explained that the term "sourdough" was given to the old timers because they had a sour milk preparation as a substitute for yeast. When she had fallen and hurt her foot very badly she had had the luxury of a $5 fire, wood being sold at so much a pound on the mountain trail. The water passage through rough waters and rapids brought the travelers to White Horse, a district where copper mining and fox ranching are now successfully followed. The Yukon today, she said, had 1,800 miles of trunk roads. The territory is 200,000 square miles in extent, has mountains between 2,000 and 7,000 feet in height, has sent out $250,000,000 in wealth since the country was first opened, has perpetual sunlight in summer months and perpetual twilight in winter months.

Hon. Mr. Veniot also wanted to know how many applications were received for the position of chief inspector and what were the names of the applicants.

Say "No"

and say it plainly, if asked to "try" a substitute for Quaker. That is, if you want real Quaker flavour in breakfast oats.

The only way to get the real nut-like flavour of the oat is to get Quaker Oats. It is developed only in milling the Quaker way. Remember this when you are asked to try "something just as good."

Children delight in this unique flavour. Mothers know that Quaker Oats is best for little folk. Young, active bodies consume as much energy food as grown-ups . . . they need other nourishment for growth. In Quaker Oats they get the energy and body-building elements. It is easily digested . . . yet has the "bulk" necessary to assist regular elimination.

Look for the name and the picture of the Quaker on every package. They assure you of Quaker Oats . . . with the exclusive flavour that has made it the most largely used breakfast cereal in the world. Remember, say "No" if substitutes should be offered.
