POLICE CHIEFS MEET IN OTTAWA

Opening Address Of Chief Clark at Session Today

A GOOD ATTENDANCE

Head of St. John Force, as President of Association, Refers to Benefits of the Organization in Cooperation and Other Ways—Replies to Welcome of Mayor Hopewell

(Special to Times)

Ottawa, June 27.—The Chief Constables' Association of Canada opened their seventh annual convention here today with a large attendance of members, including police chiefs from nearly all the important cities from coast to coast. Chief W.

Chief W. Walker Clark, W. Chief of St. John presided, and responded to the welcoming address by Mayor Hopewell on behalf of the 100 or more delegates present. Most of the police chiefs have their wives with them, and special attention is being paid by the committee in charge of the programme to provide for the comfort and entertainment of the ladies.

The Chief Constables' Association, since being formed seven years ago, has had a successful career. Its membership is limited to the chief constables of all cities and towns in Canada, having a permanent police organization, the commissioner of the Dominion police force, the chief inspector or any recognized head of a provincial detective force, officers of the Royal Mounted Police, and the deputy chiefs, inspectors, or heads of detective forces of cities with a population of more than 50,000.

At the opening of the convention today Rev. W. M. Loucks gave the invocation address. Mayor Hopewell delivered an address of welcome and Chief Clark responded. He thanked Mayor Hopewell for the welcome and for the many kind words he had placed to bestow on them. He also appreciated his kindness. "Your presence with us today," continued Chief Clark, "is an assistance in many ways, and one I might mention is to make it possible for your chief of police to attend all the conventions."

ANOTHER ATTEMPT TO WIN LIBERTY FOR CHAS. W. MORSE

Petition for Habeas Corpus Writ on the Ground That Sentence of Banker Was Illegal

Atlanta, June 27.—Working for the release of Charles W. Morse from the federal penitentiary here, Attorneys Reuben R. Arnold and Lamar Hill, representing the prisoner, served notice on the United States District Court and the district attorney that they would file a petition for a habeas corpus writ. The petition makes an attack on the legality of Morse's imprisonment.

Mr. Morse was convicted under section 3,200 of the Revised Statutes of the United States, and Mr. Arnold, "The only punishment which can be inflicted under this section is that of imprisonment. The statute reads as follows: 'Shall be imprisoned not less than five years nor more than ten years.'"

THE TIMES' NEW REPORTER

THE NEXT MEET There is a rumor that the city engineer and the C. P. R. engineer will meet some evening soon on the new embankment near Mill street, to settle their little difference about the meter house, and that the C. P. R. engineer will act as referee. If the city engineer wins on points, the meter house goes south; and if the C. P. R. engineer wins, it goes north. As they meet it shall be measured under them.

A TENDER FROM HIRAM Mr. Hiram Hornbush was looking for a city contract this morning. He informed the Times' new reporter that he had a stack of hay left over from last year, and as it was only fit for feeding he wanted to sell it to the safety department to feed the horses.

MR. CROCKET'S EXPLOIT At that last evening Mr. Crocket gave an exhaustive and masterly exposure of hollowness of the arguments used in support of the reciprocity convention. Not only so but we are assured that Mr. Crocket "hollowed his argument." Although the Standard does not say so, there is reason to believe that Mr. Crocket finished the job by putting on the shingles.

Lord Lansdowne Gives Notice of Several, and Deadlock is Expected to Follow—A London Editor Dead—Theatrical Agent Wins Suit Against Mordkin, a Dancer

(Canadian Press)

London, June 27.—Parliament reassembled yesterday after the coronation recess, and the struggle over the veto power of the lords will be immediately resumed.

In the House of Lords, Lord Lansdowne gave notice of a series of amendments to the veto bill, providing for the exclusion from that measure of bills such as that relating to Irish home rule, for a joint sitting in case of a disagreement between the two houses and for a referendum in other cases. As it is quite certain that the government will not accept these amendments if passed, another deadlock and eventually the creation of 500 additional peers seems the only outcome, unless the lords yield.

Pavlov and Mordkin, two dancers, were the central figures yesterday in a lawsuit in the high court. The case grew out of a claim brought out against Mordkin by Mayer, a theatrical agent, for a commission alleged to be due the latter for putting the dancer on an engagement at the Crystal Palace. When Pavlov was called to the stand as a witness, she seemed keenly to enjoy testifying against Mordkin and said the commission had been promised. She had said that at that time she felt friendly towards Mordkin, but added, with a significant smile and a shrug: "But now, well no."

Mordkin testified that he had no idea he had contracted to pay a commission. The case was decided in favor of Mayer. Samuel Levy, chief assistant editor of the Standard, died yesterday. His wife was Genevieve Frances MacGregor, daughter of the late Charles Edward Sherman, of New York.
