HAVE YOU MADE A MISTAKE

We all make them occasionally and they sell other than to convert them into money. As a matter of fact these machines are sold at a higher percentage of profit than is asked for Tubular Separators because of false statements made by the manufacturers and their agents. Others have bought cheaply constructed machines for which great claims are made and which are advertised as being sold at a great reduction in price by mail order houses and others who have no reputation to sustain, and who have no interest in the separators.

THIN BLOOD MADE STRONG

Tiredness and Weakness Overcome

A Joyous Letter

"I admit because I neglected early treatment I am entirely to blame for the condition of weakness that for nearly two years made my life a real misery," writes Mrs. Hazen, of Beaufort. At first I felt sort of flat in the morning and could do no more than pick at my breakfast. Later I remembered my sleep was disturbed, that dreamy, restless sleep, from which you finally awaken, feeling as if you could never get up. Then I became thin, lost my color, got nervous and irritable, cross and easily made cry. What would have become of me if I had not taken Ferrozone I can't imagine. Ferrozone put new life into me from the start. It strengthened my nerves and brought back my color, and in a little while, less than three months, no healthier and brighter woman could be found anywhere. I highly praise Ferrozone and advise sick people to take advantage of its health-conferring properties."

Ferrozone quickens the powers of both body and mind, simply because it forms lots of blood that's full of life and vitality. Ferrozone creates appetite, gives strength, vim and endurance, it's good for old people, good for everybody that needs better health. Thousands of men, women and children use Ferrozone every day and all say it's the best nourishing, strengthening tonic made; try Ferrozone yourself, 50c. per box or six boxes for $2.50. Sold by all dealers.

How Moving Pictures are Made

Four thousand people packed the space in front of Borough Hall, Brooklyn, the while they gazed at a baseball bulletin board. The police moved here and there clearing the tracks. Up came a boy. He didn't look much like a boy—because he was an actor. Behind him toddled an old woman, and behind her came a stage manager, a camera man, and a helper. Scarcely had the old woman established herself on the curbstone before a trolley car came clanging down the avenue. The boy spat professionally on his hands. The old lady gathered herself together. The car was thirty feet away and bowling along in lively fashion, writes Harris Merton Lyon in the New Broadway Magazine for September.

"Now go!" yelled the stage manager. Out on to the tracks she went. It was a business of seconds and split seconds. Subtly somewhere a camera began clicking off its little stamp pictures, the photographer turning away at a crank like a housewife grinding coffee.

"Now, you!" was the second command.

This time the boy leaped out. The car came jarring to a standstill. The motorman jumped down to the rescue. "Keep back!" The stage manager again. "Let the boy save her."

Then the crowd took its eyes off the baseball results long enough to stare at the picture of a young man carrying an old woman in his arms to safety out from under the very wheels of the terrible trolley car. "Who got hit? Was the old lady hurt? What is it? An accident?" No; it was the American Vitagraph Company's crew of five-dollar-a-day actors, bound on their day's work of telling in pictures the heroic "Life of a New York Lad"—six hundred feet of it and twenty pictures to the foot.

But sometimes it isn't a noble lad, but a clever thief escaping from Sing Sing—"Sing Sing" being a set of canvas scenery down in a peaceful Long Island studio; or it is a band of actor-desperados holding up a chartered train—this at least, is real—and robbing actor-passengers of much actor-money and actor-jewels. Sometimes it is a company of clowns, all rolling themselves into one and then disintegrating again—a mere trick of film patching; or a man sliding up a rope—by simply reversing the film of the film; and sometimes it is the Russo-Japanese War, actually taken upon the spot by a Russian photographer, or a whaling expedition ending with the capture of a big whale—and that, you may count upon it, is the real thing, with a camera operator making pictures against time from the uncertain perch of a deck rail.

Grandma on Matrimony

Matrimony is not wholly a failure or success. It is not a failure for the masculine member of the contracting party. In nine cases out of ten he has married a woman a great deal too good for him; he has (I speak of the lot of the majority of women) gained a housekeeper, cook, seamstress, laundress and later in married life a nurse and governess; he has gained a deferential listener, and firm believer in all he does and says, for of course a wife has implicit faith in her husband; he has gained a valuable waiter, something which he needs, for early in married life he develops helplessness in a remarkable degree; he can never find anything, even after his wife has described the exact location of the desired article, neither can he put on a collar or necktie without her assistance. "Goodness only knows how he did it before marriage." For all this he expects to give and she to receive board and clothes.

She has lost her freedom and her name, she has to work twice as hard as in her girlhood even if she then earned her own living. Then she always had money of her own to spend as she pleased; now in addition to her home duties, she many times works for others—"It is so nice to have a little money of my own," she says. Of course she does not do anything at home to entitle her to a part of her husband's earnings as her "very own." By the time she has been married ten years she looks ten years older than the sister who is only two years her junior, and her husband is usually the first to remark it, but of course he is not to blame.

Be Considerate

The greater the value of the article the choicer we are supposed to be of it, and in the same line of argument, the choicer we are supposed to be of binds us the more considerate we should be in the handling of it. I may hurt the feelings of the society acquaintance, and there is no special harm done, beyond the estrangement of two people who care little for each other, but when I stab the fond old mother's heart, that loves me with a love next in tenderness to Heaven's or wound my child with a hasty word, an injustice or a cruelty, or ridicule the sensitive feelings of a brother or a sister, eternally itself shall not be long enough to extract the sting from memory.

A Home Day

God intended that there should be one day each week as an especial day when the father would be home from work, and the children home from school and the mother have less of household cares, when all could put on their best clothes, sing their sweetest song and enjoy a day of love. The Sabbath should never be made a day of labor in the house. The work of each home should be so arranged that it can be done almost entirely in six days and as evenly as possible in each day. "Six days shalt thou labor and do all thy work."

The baking and cooking can be done on Saturday, and Sunday can be made almost entirely a day for warming over the food prepared before. We fear many good housewives make a serious mistake in giving too much time on Sunday cooking. Others perhaps are equally in error by overworking on Saturday, so that they cannot properly rest or enjoy the Sabbath day. Parents and children ought to be more to each other on that day than on any other. A day of uplift and enlight it ought to be made in every home.

A little girl the other day referred to the mousetache of a young man as a "bang" on his lip. If she doesn't look out one of these days she will get a bang under the nose.—Exchange.

The French say it requires the presence of three generations to make a perfect home, and we are glad to see that the grandmother is becoming more highly appreciated in this country, as she no longer confines herself to the chimney corner and her knitting, but takes a kindly interest in all that goes on; keeps mind and body disciplined by study and active useful participation in what is going on around her, and is as careful of her appearance as when she was a young girl.
