IN MUSICAL CIRCLES.

What has become of the musical club? I understood that meetings were to be held every month and that the club was under new management which was going to make it a success and keep the regularity and standard of its meetings. But alas, like many other institutions in St. John, it seems to have died a natural death. It is really to be regretted that there are not enough musical people in the city who possess sufficient energy and interest to keep up the monthly meetings of a society which professes to be devoted to high class music. Now that the "grippe" is practically a thing of the past I hope to hear that the regular meetings of the musical club have been resumed.

I had the pleasure of hearing and examining a new pipe organ the other day, for Moncton episcopal church, and I am happy to say that I was perfectly satisfied with what I saw and heard. The organ is a 2-manual instrument, with 5 stops on the great organ, 5 on the swell, 1 on the pedals, and one of the various stops is very satisfactory, especially that of the organ, melodia and open diapason; while the mechanism of the action, couplers, bellows, and other internal arrangements is most excellent in every detail. Several of the latest inventions, as used by the best English organ builders, have been introduced.

Miss Beebe Swan, solo soprano of the Mission church choir, has gone on a visit to Boston. Both at the Mission church and in the Oratorio society her voice will be greatly missed. The Philharmonic club will hold their weekly rehearsal tonight at Mr. Bowler's residence, at 8 1/2. The music for their concert is, I understand, progressing extremely well. They hope to be ready for a public performance about the last week in April. Mr. Gilmore's band is to visit us in May, and Mr. Gilmore has written asking for a chorus to take part in his concert. I hope the Oratorio society may be able to provide one for him.

TALK OF THE THEATRE.

Josie Mills is a new actress to St. John audiences, but this week at the Opera house she has made many friends and admirers. She came with a good and well-balanced company. In fact it is seldom that the star of a travelling company is better supported than in Miss Mills, and a number of the members of the company have already become favorites. Tuesday evening Mr. Chapman gave an excellent rendition of a Chicagoan who suddenly became rich; and Miss Mills, as his ward, a dashing, open-hearted, western girl with quaint sayings, won favor from the time of her first appearance. St. John audiences are, as a rule, partial to the comedian in a dramatic company, and if he knows his business, is apt to be the most popular man on the stage. Mr. Ainsley filled the bill, Tuesday evening. His eccentricities caught the house, and kept the audience in good humor until the curtain fell. Another member of the company who did good work Tuesday evening was Mr. Sheldon. In old man parts his acting is of a high order, and make-up almost perfect.

The company play Silver King tonight, and remain over next week with change of bill nightly.

ON HIS OWN ACCOUNT.

Mr. Samuel C. Porter's New Dry Goods Store on Charlotte street. So many people in this city know Mr. Samuel C. Porter as connected with the dry goods business that when he opens his new store on Charlotte street it will be like greeting an old acquaintance in a new residence. Mr. Porter started to learn the dry goods business with Wats & Turner and continued with that well known concern until Mr. Wats' death when he was secured by Mr. Turner who always regarded him as his right hand man. His position with the firm of Turner & Finlay brought him in contact with the people and the best customers of the old house usually knew Mr. Porter better than either members of the firm. They will be glad to know that he has started business on his own account and will no doubt be very responsive to the modest announcement printed on the seventh page of PROGRESS and also circulated through the mails.

Mr. Porter has secured a bright and attractive store three doors from Union street, with liberal light from front and back—an important requisite for customers—and his new stock, every bale of which is fresh from the English, Canadian and American markets, will, he hopes, be displayed sufficiently by the latter part of this month to enable him to get friends and customers.

Mr. R. L. Carleton and Mr. D. A. Kennedy, careful and courteous clerks, well known in the city, have been engaged by Mr. Porter whose aim will be to give the public satisfactory service as well as satisfactory goods.

PROGRESS wishes him liberal patronage and every success.

Booming the Singer Bicycles.

Messrs. C. E. Burnham & Son have issued their bicycle catalogue this week. It shows better than any words of PROGRESS just what the 'cyclist' wants. This firm is, as most people know already, through its advertisements, agents for the famous Singer bicycles of England. The manufacturer of this line of bicycles is worth many millions, made out of this business alone, a proof that the wheel must be popular. Messrs. Burnham say that it bids fair to become very popular here since they sold eight the first four days and are constantly in receipt of inquiries. The catalogue, which contains much information of all kinds of bicycles, tricycles and velocipedes will be mailed on application.

MARCH 16.—Mrs. E. MacDonald's afternoon tea Wednesday last was most successful, in spite of rather a dismal day. A large number of guests arrived at her pretty little home and partook of her hospitality.

Wednesday and Thursday evenings Mrs. R. Chisholm was "at home" from "talk to the music" being provided, which was indeed a treat. Mr. Charles Chisholm's playing on the violin is perfect. Miss Annie MacDonald accompanied him on the piano, besides giving solos, and Mrs. Daulton sang delightfully.

Friday evening Mrs. Chisholm had a large dancing party, which was thoroughly enjoyed by those present. Lent is hardly indicative to new gowns, but there were three or four: Mrs. George Ives wore a very handsome black silk trimmed with jet; Miss Ferguson, gray satin, with lace skirt; Mrs. Snow, black silk; Miss MacDonald, black lace; Mrs. E. MacDonald, brown silk, with steel trimming; Mrs. Henry Ives, pale green silk, with cream lace; Mrs. R. Johnston, white; Miss Minna MacDonald, white silk; Miss Frazar, black lace.

KENTVILLE.

MARCH 16.—When March shows the lamb-like side of its character and gives us a warm, sunny day, the streets at the same time presenting a combination of mud and snow, one is constantly being greeted with a "lovely day overhead!" The reply of a former resident to such exclamations, "Yes, but few are going that way," always suggests itself. This much abused month seems to have no friends unless because it is the harbinger of a warmer season.

Mr. and Mrs. T. P. Calkin went to Boston last week.

Major and Mrs. Carter have gone to the capital for a short visit.

Mrs. Barnett paid a flying visit to Halifax last week.
