Of course, we give either numeral or decimal punctuation in the printing of figures. You may not want an adding machine to handle dollars and cents. You, therefore, want it punctuated in a different fashion.

Of course, the Burroughs way is always a hit in advance of the actual requirements. That implies "wise anticipation," which is one of the principles of scientific management.

We give a combination of numeral and decimal punctuation in the same machine. A new idea, of course, but it is one that is used a great deal in

I. C. R. Strike was Brief.

Moncton, Nov. 15.—About forty employees of the I. C. R. mechanical department refused to work at repairing trucks outside of the second class car shop. The men declined to continue work on the cars, owing to the inclement weather. The matter was straightened out shortly afterwards and the employees returned to work inside the shop.

Swindler Gives Himself Up.

Paris, Nov. 15.—Augustin Max, known as the blind banker of Paris, who enjoyed the highest reputation in banking circles here, has given himself up to the police, confessing that he has misappropriated $2,000,000 of his clients' money. He claims to have invested the money in mines in New Caledonia which turned out failures.

Carelessness Cause of Death.

Sherbrooke, Que., Nov. 14.—Miss Lilian Sheridan lies at the point of death here as a result of an operation. She underwent an operation in New York, but did not recover rapidly. She returned to her home and another operation was performed, when the doctors found that she had been operated on twice. The operation was performed in the first operation had not been removed.

Another Man Who Fell In.

Roy Winters was called, and said he met Cribbs on Saturday night, Nov. 3rd, and left him at 10:20 o'clock that night. Witness said he knew the elevator from the fact that he had seen it in the place himself about six years ago.

Witness visited the building on an average of twice a day. In the evening when the lights are dark when he visited the building.

Charles Cameron, a member of the Opera House building, was at the Dockrill building and he was at the Dockrill building on Saturday night, Nov. 2nd. When he left at 9:30 o'clock the hall was fairly well filled. Witness knew Cribbs as a sober man.

Mr. Teed's Address.

Mr. Teed addressed the court on behalf of Mr. Dockrill and in his address said that from the evidence it was shown that Cribbs came to his death by falling down the elevator shaft, and this was caused by the negligence of some person leaving the doors open. Mr. Dockrill, he claimed, was not liable. The elevator beneath the first and second floor of the Dockrill building was used by the Opera House people.

The Opera House Company leased to F. G. Spencer, but it had not been brought out that the lease was in the name of the Opera House Company, or Mr. Spencer, and he would not say that the company or Mr. Spencer were responsible for the death of Cribbs.

Mr. Teed then read the lease of the building, showing that the dressing rooms, the approach, halls and other rooms connected with the Opera House building, are leased to Mr. Spencer and that the lease had control of those sections of the building.

When the accident happened to

Mr. Teed claimed that the dressing room was provided and he then applied to the management of the Opera House who had such repairs made.

The evidence went to show, Mr.

Teed claimed that if the elevator was used negligently an accident could happen and a verdict could be found that the accident happened as the result of some person leaving the gate open.

The Coroner's Charge.

Coroner Berryman in his address to the jury reviewed the evidence. He said he had visited the building two years ago and was shocked to find the condition then which gave no protection to the casual members of the Opera House and suggested that proper precautions should be made. He watched the Opera House for some time and things ran smoothly. Matters have changed considerably since then as the evidence in the Cribbs case showed.

It was shown that the balls were in darkness at night and it was possible that Cribbs went to the elevator doors in the dark and, mistaking them for the door to the hall, walked into the elevator shaft to his death. John Wilson, who was one of the men to find Cribbs' body, examined

RECORD MORE LIGHT THE REFORM AND LOCKING OF DOORS IS APPOINTED

Jury Returns Verdict in Enquiry into Death of Bernard Cribbs -- Addresses by Coroner and M. G. Teed.

The inquiry into the death of Bernard Cribbs, held in the court house by Coroner Berryman, was finished last night. The names of several persons who were summoned as witnesses were read, and as they were called they gave evidence. The Coroner took the evidence of three witnesses, and after the addresses to the jury that body was out about 45 minutes and brought in the following verdict:

"We, the jury empanelled to enquire into the death of Bernard Cribbs, find that he died of injuries sustained by falling down the elevator shaft in the Dockrill building, after called, in the City of St. John, on November 2nd, 1912, through the neglect of some unknown person leaving the doors open to the elevator shaft."

"In our opinion the halls and stairways are inefficiently lighted in the interest of public safety, and we recommend that the elevator doors on the first floor be kept locked, and that the side door on Union Alley also be kept locked."

William Jackson, a truckman, was the first witness called last evening and he testified that he trucked all the theatrical baggage to and from the Opera House. "The trunks for the gentlemen's dressing room are taken up on the elevator from the first flat to the floor above. These trunks are placed on the elevator from a door in the alley, which is about five feet lower than the first floor."

On the Saturday night of the accident witness went to the Opera House with a trunk and found the elevator was out of order. It was up at the top flat and would not come down. Witness had found the elevator door on the alley open several times. He had also found the poor open on the Opera House floor several times. He returned to the flat door to keep it up, leaving the elevator well unprotected. He had no key to the door, but did not know how it was fastened up.

The theatrical manager make a contract with the witness for handling the baggage, and the Opera House management has no transaction with him.

To Mr. Teed—He had found the elevator gate fastened up so tightly that he could not pull it open. The Dockrill took possession of the building last August, witness found the gate in working order. It was 8:30 o'clock on the Saturday night of the accident when he visited the elevator and found the doors on the Opera House floor secured by a padlock.

Any time witness found the elevator out of order he reported the matter to Joseph Stetson, the stage carpenter, or the manager of the Opera House, and they stated they would attend to it.

Roy Winters was called, and said he met Cribbs on Saturday night, Nov. 3rd, and left him at 10:20 o'clock that night. Witness said he knew the elevator from the fact that he had seen it in the place himself about six years ago.

Thomas Killen, a letter carrier, was called, and gave evidence that the Opera House building was safe in the elevator section to those acquainted with the building and the well was protected as long as the doors were closed.

Witness visited the building on an average of twice a day. In the evening when the lights are dark when he visited the building.

Charles Cameron, a member of the Opera House building, was at the Dockrill building and he was at the Dockrill building on Saturday night, Nov. 2nd. When he left at 9:30 o'clock the hall was fairly well filled. Witness knew Cribbs as a sober man.

The Coroner's Charge.

Coroner Berryman in his address to the jury reviewed the evidence. He watched the Opera House for some time and things ran smoothly. Matters have changed considerably since then as the evidence in the Cribbs case showed.

It was shown that the balls were in darkness at night and it was possible that Cribbs went to the elevator doors in the dark and, mistaking them for the door to the hall, walked into the elevator shaft to his death.

John Wilson, who was one of the men to find Cribbs' body, examined the place at the time and found the doors and gates open on the first floor and the second floor. Evidence was given that Cribbs was a sober, industrious young man.

The evidence of Chief John Kerr and C. H. Jackson, a district engineer of the fire department went to show that they visited the scene of the accident the day after it happened, and they found the doors and gates on the Opera House open, leaving no protection to prevent a person from walking into the elevator well.

When Dr. Hetherington was injured the manager of the Opera House rapidly made the repairs to the elevator. "The question is," said the coroner, "did he call on the experts to examine the building? He assumed the liability and did the work properly. The question is, did he call on the experts to examine the building? He assumed the liability and did the work properly. The question is, did he call on the experts to examine the building? He assumed the liability and did the work properly."

In the Dr. Hetherington case the name of A. O. Skinner was not brought up at the inquiry at any time. In this case of Cribbs, the present manager of the Opera House was pointed in his evidence that he would not make any repairs to the elevator.

The coroner said that even since the Cribbs accident no repairs have been made. As Mr. Dockrill had leased the building to others, it was very probable that he had nothing to say in the matter, while the lease lasts.

If the jury considered Mr. Dockrill is liable, or the Opera House Company, or the lessee, they should say so.

There is something that should be given to the public through the press and that is this: The Opera House is left open on the side door where any person can enter, see fire or do damage. This door should be closed at a reasonable time and not left open for the free entrance of the public. If they choose to enter at any time they wish.

Mr. Teed presented the lease of the section of the Dockrill building to the jury. He showed the lease of the section of the Dockrill building to the jury. He showed the lease of the section of the Dockrill building to the jury.

The Veedee's Great Success

Enthusiastic Audience Witnesses Marvellous Cures. Free Consultations Given Daily at 78 Charlotte Street, St. John.

A most representative audience, which included many of the leading residents, gathered last Thursday evening at the Keith Assembly Rooms to witness the Public Demonstration of the Veedee. The proceedings were started by a short Health talk, and the long list of names of distinguished users of the Veedee (including many physicians) which were shown on the screen together with their photographs and their signed testimonials were certainly very impressive as to the value of the Veedee and the large number of its supporters.

This was followed by numerous radiographs of great interest showing for instance, the increase of chalky deposits in the joints of a rheumatic sufferer, and these pictures helped to prove in a very clear and vivid manner why the Veedee is so successful in quickly curing many cases of Rheumatism, Paralysis and other Ailments.

The Demonstration which followed was convincing and remarkable in its results, those receiving treatment were nearly all well known as prominent citizens and everyone present knew their testimony to be genuine.

SELF HOME TREATMENT.

The book of directions that goes with each Veedee makes its proper use, for all the troubles it is good for, so clear and plain that even a child who can read can use a Veedee in the home as to get from it the full extent of its marvellous healing power.

THE VEEDEE'S CHEAPNESS.

Many people are greatly astonished that an invention possessing such unique and superlative curative power as the Veedee should be sold at so low a price as $15, considering that the instrument lasts for years without requiring any attention and is always handy at home to go on giving countless more treatments to all and every member of the family from the baby to the grandparent.

REMARKABLE RESULTS.

During the Demonstration extraordinary results were obtained on the platform by the application of the little machine on the large number of sufferers anxious to test the power of the Veedee Blood Circulator before the eyes of the astonished and applauding audience, who saw people whom they knew to be in many instances long-standing cases of suffering, receive in one short treatment quick relief and improvement. Sufferers from Rheumatism, Sciatica, Lumbago, Neuralgia, Paralysis, Deafness, Short Sight, Catarrh, Stammering, etc., who in many cases had to be helped to the platform and whose pain-twisted limbs could not carry them, except helped by sticks, had their faces lighted up with joy for they felt the life-giving thrill of the Veedee banishing their pain and loosening their stiff joints.

The audience cheered in wonder and appreciation to see these relieved sufferers briskly walk across the platform, without the need of even a stick. Limbs partly paralyzed, and never used or moved for years, moved round easily and held high overhead. People, who had for years suffered from Rheumatism, Sciatica, Lumbago, Neuralgia, Paralysis, Deafness, Short Sight, Catarrh, Stammering, etc., who in many cases had to be helped to the platform and whose pain-twisted limbs could not carry them, except helped by sticks, had their faces lighted up with joy for they felt the life-giving thrill of the Veedee banishing their pain and loosening their stiff joints.

Many, in fact, publicly stated that their sick and aching bodies were cured by the use of the Veedee by themselves in their own homes. Small wonder that the audience became enthusiastic, and showed its surprise and appreciation of the wonders wrought before their eyes, by round after round of applause.

SHOULD CONTINUE THE TREATMENT.

The lecturer repeatedly impressed the sufferers that in order to make the results obtained permanent, they should obtain a Veedee and continue the treatment at home for some time. WHY THE VEEDEE SUCCEEDS.

The Veedee is such a genuine world wide success, because it actually does what is claimed for it. Because it actually does stop pain. Because it actually does often cure where all else has failed. Because it actually does help many long-standing cases which have been fairly called "incurable," and above all because Veedee owners and users whom it has cured go through the world giving practically expression of their GRATITUDE AND APPRECIATION.
