WELL TRAINED.

Col. Langton of Toronto Succeeds Premier Borden's Brother as Paymaster General-Major Biggar to Succeed Major Smith—Judge Advocate General Major MacDowell and R. P. Brown Also Promoted.

Ottawa, Ján. 29.—Several changes in the staff of the military department have, it is understood, bear authorized by order-in-council and will shortly be announced officially. Among these is the appointment of Col. Langton, of Toronto, to succeed J. W. Borden, who has been superannuated as paymaster general. It is understood that Brig.-General J. L. Biggar, director of supplies and transport will shortly succeed Major-General H. Smith, as judge advocate-general, the latter remaining on the headquarters staff. R. P. Brown, who has been assistant accountant in the raymaster-general's branch, will, it is stated, be promoted to chief accountant.

Major Their Wendelt MecDowell

countant.

Major Thain Wendell MacDowell,
V. C., D. S. O., formerly of the 38th Ottawa Battalion, has been detailed for duty as commanding officer on conducting staff, to take effect from January 24th. Major. MacDowell's work is connected with the transportation of Canadian troops.

Who's Who.

Brigadier-General Biggar, who becomes Judge Advocate-General, was born in Carleton Place, Ontario, in 1856. He entered the Canadian militia 1881, as a lieutenant in the 158th Regiment and attained the rank of lieutenant-colonel in 1901. He saw service in the South African war. In recent years he has acted in official capacities at various state functions in England and Canada. Brigadier-General Biggar is also known as the writer of a number of military text books. "Believe Me, I Enjoy My Meals to the Limit. No Fear of Consequences. Either, While I Have Stuart's Dys-pepsia Tablets to Fall Back Upon."

writer of a number of military text poocks.

Colonel J. G. Langton started military life as a private in the Queen's Own Rifies in 1886. He was noted as an organizer, having originated and dministered in succession the first regimental messing arrangements at Nagara Camp, the first Bleycle Corps in Toronto, and the first Canadian Army Service Company in the Toronto military district. As an army service corps officer, he was in charge of the transportation arangements for the tercentenary in Quebec, and his swork in connection with the mobilization of the first Canadian division at Valcartier Camp made him famous at the beginning of the present war.

Mr. J. W. Borden, the retiring paymaster-general, who will be superannated, is a younger brother of Sir Robert Borden. NERVOUS DISEASES
