Wanted: Secret agent man? Ottawa blunders ad

OTTAWA (CUP) — An advertisement placed for a "chief investigator" who would use "intelligence gathering methods" to keep tabs on campus political activity has embarrassed University of Ottawa administrators.

The ad, placed under job opportunities in the Ottawa Citizen, sought an investigator to "be responsible for protecting the population and the property of the University against criminal offences, particularly those which are politically motivated."

The person would have "to maintain a thorough knowledge of the current political environment on campus by interacting regularly with students...as well as with police forces and agencies."

Qualifications listed included "several years' experience as an investigator, with at least one year in an intelligence unit."

Vice-Rector Pierre Bourgault said the ad was drafted by the personnel and security departments.

"We didn't see it," he said.

He said the new security position was created, in part to combat the increase of theft and vandalism on campus, but the investigator would also "be more sensitive to the personal problems."

Political conflicts abroad sometimes cause conflict closer to home, he said, referring to last year's confrontation between the Jewish Students' Union and the Students' Federation.

The Central Co-ordinating Committee of the federation had condemned Zionism as a form of racism and the JSU complained that it was denied recognition and access to facilities in the university centre. All CCC members were later impeached.

University Rector Roger Guindon said he wanted to prevent such "nasty" friction between different groups developing again.

"The main purpose of the individual is to protect the political freedom of people who would want to engage in any legitimate type of political activity," said Bourgault.

But he said "there is nothing covert at all" about the ad.

"You have to realize that sometimes people who draft these ads don't have PhD's in English and French," said Guindon.

"I can understand how our students could read that and feel betrayed," he said.

Student federation president Tim Evans said there is no need for such a position. "The way it's worded leads one to believe that the university is trying to establish some sort of intelligence. It is outrageous," he said.

Evans said the Students' Federation will try to ensure such a person is not hired. "We want a very precise definition of this person's job description."

A new ad will appear soon that "will better reflect the intent of the job," said Bourgault.

Cedillos

Cedillos called on people outside the conflict to denounce U.S. involvement in El Salvador, to force the resignation of Alvaro Magana's government.

He cited marches, pickets, letters to politicians, and student organizations as possible avenues for public protest. Material support — everything from tools to technical aid — is also needed to rebuild the country. Cedillos said that the war would last a long time, because of the American involvement, but that "every day was a new offensive against the Yankees and the oligarchies of El Salvador...the war will last until the people have won."

He also deplored indirect Canadian support of the regime through contributions to the International Monetary Fund. Canada recently donated $12.5 million to help build and maintain a hydro-electric project in El Salvador. According to the FDR, that $12.5 million was used to buy arms.

A CAREER AS A CHARTERED ACCOUNTANT

Today, the chartered accountant is a valued business advisor. Inflation, intricate tax laws, new corporate legislation, and the fast pace of decision-making, challenge the CA to use his or her skills to the fullest. Clarkson Gordon, with 22 offices across Canada, employs more university graduates training as CAs than any other accounting firm. As a member of Arthur Young International, with operations in 66 countries, we are global in scope. Discuss career opportunities with Clarkson Gordon representatives on campus Nov. 3, 4 & 7.

Arrangements should be made through your Student Placement Office prior to Oct. 13.
