The Royal Templars of Temperance held their regular meeting in the L O. O. F. Auditorium yesterday afternoon, A. D. Westman presiding. Splendid addresses were delivered by Splendid addresses were delivered by the Rev. Mr. Hoyt and the Rev. Mr. Cobbledick. Quite a number of signatures were added to the petition for the reduction of liquor licenses in the city. Arrangements were made for presenting the petition to the City Council to-night. Mr. Westman says it is astonishing the strong sentiment in favor of the movement, Those who had the petition in charge had scarcely a refusal.

MINISTERIAL ASS'N

The Chatham Ministerial Association held a meeting this morning at ten o'clock at the residence of Rev. Mr. Hoyt, Murray St. There were present, Chairman Dr. Battisby, Secretary Malott and Rev. Messrs. Hoyt and Cobbledick.

It was moved, seconded and unanimously carried that the association s in sympathy with the petition which is to be presented to the City Council this evening, asking the Council to limit the number of tavern licenses in the city to 10, and the shop licenses to two. We wish to strongly endorse the said petition as n the best interests of our city.

The members of the association arranged to attend the accompanying deputation who will present the petition, and Dr. Battisby was appointed chairman of the ministerial depu-

All interested in this movement are requested to assemble in the Harrison Hall at eight o'clock.

Rev. Mr. Iler, of Ridgetown, was present at the meeting as a visitor. Rev. A. H. MacGillivray, who is out of the city, has expressed himself as being heartily in accord with the movement, and Rev. Root. McCosh, Marconi has a striking personality. Quite six feet in height, powerfully built, the young inventoh has none of that physical frailty which so often distinguishes men great is mind. Many of the published photographs make him boyishly good-looking; in reality his face is the stigma impassive one of a strong man Somewhat pallid, with clear cold eyes, and a towering white forehead, he has a touch of the dreamer as well as of the remorseless student of facts. He crosses the room with a speaks to new acquaintances reservedly, almost distantly. To the casual observer there is not a spayk of enthusiasm in the young man whose enthusiastic researches have resulted in a discovery which has made him famous all over the world. But once break beneath the surface, made him famous all over the world. But once break beneath the surface, and you will find Mr. Marconi a keen and clever talker. He has a wenderful gift of expression, with that cold eloquence that convinces rather than persuades. And yet some af our hardest-headed men have been beth convinced and persuaded after a talk with Mr. Marconi.

The Lobster's Claws. If you take the trouble when you save up money enough and purchas; a lobster to notice the claws you will observe that each is peculiar and quite materially differs from the other. One claw is a scissors, the other a mill; one is a cutter, the second a cracker.

Practically a lobster has ten legs, but of these only eight are used in walking. Of these ten legs the front pair, the claws, are employed in seizing and erushing its prey. Generally the right claw is the more slender and onger and has sharp teeth on its ut blunt tubercles, or hammers. This oft claw is operated by stronger musles. Sometimes, however, the scissors claw is the left one and the hammer r crusher, claw is the right.

Old Porks. A London jeweler has made a collec tion of ancient forks used in England which show some little known facts about the table manners of a few centuries ago. The forks, which are of solid silver, date from the sixteenth century. In many cases the designs in all this time have scarcely varied in any detail, and the forks look like those which might be bought today. The eld forks were a great luxury in their time and were only used by the
