

MOTTOES.

Our principles are the springs of our actions; our actions, the spring of our happiness and misery. Too much care therefore cannot be employed in forming our principles.—Skelton.

Then will I turn to the people a pure language, that they may all call upon the name of the Lord, to serve him with one consent.—The Bible.—Zeph. III. 9.

Can two lines teach a lesson from above?

Yes! one can teach a volume—"GOD IS LOVE."
