QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS. Veterinary.

CHRONIC COUGH.

Team had distemper last winter, and have coughed some ever since. They will cough several times when starting to trot. I am afraid of heaves.

J. A. M.

Ans.—Feed only food of first-class quality, and limit the amount of hay; dampen both hay and grain with lime water, and give to each night and morning, two drams solid extract of belladonna, one and a half drams gum opium, one dram camphor and twenty grains powdered digitalis, moisten with treacle, and give in a ball or shake up with a pint of cold water and drench.

V.

MAMMITS IN COW.

Give symptoms of milk fever. My cow had very large udder. I milked several times before calving and twice daily after. One quarter is badly caked, and is so sore she is stiff, and can hardly lie down; eats well, and her bowels are normal.

B. H. B.

Ans.—The symptoms of milk fever are: In from six hours to a few days after calving, the cow becomes dull, eye glassy, pulse full; she ceases eating and ruminating, stamps with hind feet, staggers and falls, cannot rise, and becomes comatose, etc. Your cow has inflammation of the udder. Apply hot poultices to the udder; purge with two pounds Epsom salts and one ounce ginger, dissolved in two quarts warm water; milk four times daily, and rub udder with camphorated oil. When inflammation ceases, if a hardening remains, rub daily with compound iodine ointment, and give one dram iodide of potash night and morning every alternate week.

V.

ENLARGED FETLOCKS.

Horse had one fetlock joint enlarged for two months. He was lame for a while. The other joint has gradually swollen, but has not caused lameness.

C. N. S.

Ans.—There is a congenital weakness of the parts. You must give him rest; bathe the joints several times daily with cold water; rub dry, and apply a lotion composed of acetate of lead, one ounce; tincture of opium, two ounces; water to make one pint. As soon as you allay inflammation by this treatment, you must blister the joints with two drams each biniodide of mercury and cantharides, mixed with two ounces vaseline. Clip the hair off; rub blister well in; tie so that he cannot bite the parts. In twenty-four hours rub well again with the blister, and in twenty-four hours longer wash off, and apply sweet oil. Let him loose in a box stall, and oil every day, until the scale comes off, then tie him up and blister again. If necessary after this, repeat the blistering once every month.

V.

LAME MARE.

Mare foaled four weeks ago, but did not expel the afterbirth for three days. She has been troubled with swollen and sore legs. This commenced in one fore leg; I treated, and it got better; but a hind leg became affected; got better; the other hind leg got bad, etc., changing from one to the other. It has now settled in the near hind, the swelling has disappeared, but she is so lame she has to be helped up. She eats and drinks well, but is thin, and gives little nourishment to the colt.

H. F.

Ans.—This is a case that requires the personal attention of a skillful veterinarian. The metastatic nature of the lameness indicates rheumatic trouble, but might be a form of blood poisoning from retention of the placenta. The present lameness must be located, the parts bathed with hot water often, and then rubbed with camphorated liniment. She should be given three times daily twenty drops carbolic acid and one dram each gentian, ginger and nux vomica, mixed with a pint of cold water, and given as a drench. I would advise you to send for your veterinarian at once, in order to locate the leg trouble and avoid mistakes.
