THE SPICE OF LIFE.

"This bill," said the chairman of the legislative steering committee, "must not be allowed to become a law in its present shape."

"Why not?" demanded the member that had charge of the bill.

"It's too plain and direct. There is only one possible interpretation of it, and no possible way of evading it. Read it again yourself, man, and tell me, as a lawyer, if you think you could get a case out of it in a hundred years."

Admiral Dickens during the sham bombardment of Fort Monroe, smiled one morning as a sailor staggered past him with a bale of hay on his back.

"He makes me think," said the Admiral, "of another sailor, a British one, whom I saw one day at Gibraltar."

"He, too, had a load of hay, and was toiling with it up from the little fishing village that lies at the foot of the great rock. I talked with him a little while, and, as we parted, I said:

"Who are you, my man? What job do you hold here?"

"Well," the sailor answered, as he took up the hay again, "I used to consider myself a British blunderbuss, but I'm dashed if I don't begin to think I'm a commissary mule."

"Let me see," began the visitor who was returning to the little town after an absence of ten years, "you used to have four sons. How did they turn out?"

"Wa-all, neighbor," drawled the old man, removing his pipe, "some of them turned out a little unsartin. Bill, he got to stealin' chickens, so they rode him out of town on a rail."

"And Sam?"

"Sam? Oh, he stole a cow and they gave him five years."

"Well, what became of Jim?"

"Stole a hoss an' they strung him up in that thar apple tree."

"Too bad! But there was one more—Pete. What became of Pete, who used to be so cunning when he traded marbles?"

"Oh, Pete did well. Got in politics an' stole a legislature an' now he's livin' on his income."

It was a house with a balloon frame, standing on cedar posts. A fierce tempest from the north had struck it just after the roof had been put on and the weatherboarding finished, and had pushed it five feet out of perpendicular.

The owner was sitting on the front step, calmly smoking his pipe, when the traveller happened along.

"Had a stroke of back luck, haven't you?" said the traveller.

"Yep" (Puff.)

"Building would have stood it all right if it had been finished, wouldn't it?"

"I reckon so." (Puff, puff.)

"Going to tear it down and build it over again?"

"Nope." (Puff.)

"May I ask what you intend to do with it?"

"Nothin'," answered the owner, removing his pipe from his mouth. "Goin' to wait for a hurricane to come from the other direction and straighten it up agin."

We want you to remember that HOLSTEIN COWS owned by me (formerly at Brookbank Stock Farm, Currie's) won all sorts of honors in milk tests at Toronto, Ottawa and Guelph (5 years), and among many other prizes in the show-ring, including sweepstakes at Toronto and Pan-American in competition with the best in the world. Our herd is always improving. We have now 5 cows whose official test average 22.4 lbs. butter in 7 days, 10 cows whose official test average 20.4 lbs. butter in 7 days, 15 (3 yrs. and up) whose official test average 19.6 lbs. butter in 7 days, 10 (3 and 4 yrs.) whose official test average 17 lbs. butter in 7 days, 10 heifers (average age 26 mos.) whose official test average 11 lbs. butter in 7 days. That is our idea of a dairy herd, and the kind of stock I handle. A few good young bulls, 1 to 13 mos., for sale.

GOSSIP.

The annual auction sale of Jersey cattle at Biltmore Farms, North Carolina, on August 22nd, was very successful. The 57 head sold, including 14 heifer calves and 9 bulls, one year and under, averaged $207.89. The three cows, three years and over, averaged $590, one selling for $735, another for $685, and the bull, Golden Khedive, brought $475.

Although the herd of Scotch and Scotch-topped Shorthorns belonging to Fitzgerald Bros., of Mount St. Louis, Ont., was reduced considerably by an auction sale in February last, there are a considerable number on hand yet. Many of the young things are by the John Marr-bred bull, Imp. Diamond Jubilee, which bull has a good pedigree, having such noted sires behind him as British Flag, William of Orange, Symund, etc. He was a prizewinner when shown, and what is better still was the sire of the first-prize herd of calves and the champion female at the Western Fair, London, in 1902, also of the champion female at both Toronto and London in 1903. The sire used previous to Diamond Jubilee was the Kinellar-bred bull, Imp. British Statesman, which was used in the herd of S. J. Pearson & Son, Meadowvale, with splendid success for six years. Several of the breeding cows are by this sire, and are a strong, useful lot. The present crop of calves are reds and roans, and promise to develop into good ones. This herd is kept in ordinary breeding condition, as the firm think it more satisfactory to their customers to get stock in that condition than fat, and, of course, they can afford to sell for less money. A flock of Cotswold sheep is also receiving attention. They are of the approved type, and in thrifty condition, the present crop of lambs being for sale. This firm is situated in Simcoe County, between Coldwater and Elmvalle Stations, G. T. R.
