VOL III．NO． 8.
TORONTO，AUGUST 16， 1872.
WHOLE NO 60

Abstract

of red silk，prodigiously ample and of a texty so thick and inflecible as to appear raificielly di tended and supported．Whaterer may be said tended and supported，Whatever may be said his physical altuributs，he on on this ocassion（a visit to the imperial college Yeddo）certain monal Yeddo）certain monal qualities which cannot recalled without admintion．His endurauce as patience are wholly beyond comparison nearly four hours he sat composedily survering proceedings（most of which must have been qualifedly dull for him），without giving a sign， the gentle serioring a syllable，or even changing did not even permit himself the relaxation smile，although one or two incidents occurr which provoked the unrestrained mith of came with him．At the same time，he appeare in no degree indifferent to the ceremonies．He observed every thing pretty keenly，and followed the printed programme with a watchfoul eye．The only sign of direct personal recognition which vouchsafed was in response to a few complimenta sences at the close of the proceedings，when be courteously inclined his head．All having be welcomed，he left the hall in the samestately man ner he had entered，elosely followed by nis ssuite Having privately reposed for half an hour，an caten his simple noon－meal，he re．entered his ca rage glanced at a few of the not particularly a tractive surroundings of the espablyghment，an was rapidy whirlechayay in the midst of this troo  ry of its c heat at shanghai

he thermoneter is the biggest liar that eve lived．It is only ninety－five or ninety－eigh degrees here at night，and one hundred or one hundred and three degrees by day，and yet it it hundued and three degrees by day，and yer hotter，intensely hotter，thian I lave felt it Napa（California）Valley，coming from the Gey－ or on the sands of Egypt．Thermometors，there－ fore I Tore，I have no hesitation in saying，lie，not exact ly in words，or figures，or letters，but in spirit，in substance，in caloric，at least．I am suffocating ere ！I cannot get breath enough ！What would give for a puff，and how much more for ir，night or day，and，if possible，it is hotter by ight than by day．There is no sleep in this ven－bed，and，if there were，the mosquitoes would eat you up，if you did not throw over you the well－reticulated net．A mattress is unendurable ；a ould stick you to the mattress．Never，never Yankee pilgrim，enter here in June，July，or august．They say you can breathe，and live，and leep，in all the other months of the year ；Shanghai inearly in the latitude of Northern Florida；but， amid low lands as it is，on which are boundless fields of cotton，near the mouth of the great Yang－ tze，doubtless，＇the climate is like that of New Or－ eans，on the Mississippi，with the thermometer rranging higher．What I know for a certainty is， you will never catch me hereagain in July，it there der

The foreign residents of Shanghai suffer not a ittle this season of the year ；but here，then，they nust stay，for now is the season of＂tea＂and silk，＂the great exported staples of the country． winter they can play，but never in the summer． possible－not exactly in our Georgia or the ilization will permit．They go without shirts to begin with．A white flannel frock－coat，closely fitting to the body，somewhat fancifully made， with white linen trousers，is the costume．N could stand the drippings of perspirationhere Nove five minutes，if on．They live thus，and do busi－ ever kept going by a half－sleeping coolie（China－ nes man）．We breakfast by punkas ；we dine by pun kas．Heaven giving us no breezes，men raise as many artificial winds as possible．No one ven－ tures out，if it can be helped，till the sun is going down．A great two－story，tong－tailed pith hat then sported．They ride out toward sunset

| ＂traps，＂low－hung carringes drawn by one pony |
| :--- |
| or in a California－made carriage，with California | horses，where that costly luxury can be afforded Chinaman，two at a thime，on a wheel－barrow，dog． cheap for such rides as that－the vilest invention， possible，than the Japanese sen yet－worse ＂Soven Month＇s Rum．＂

Japupese
BIRDS OFF CAPE HORN
A straw hat and thick overcoat do not form tylish Broadway combination；but are character－ stically a la Patagonia．The one is a needful pro wards off the biting Southern air．Armed with sch defences，I was one aftemoon，reading，while ortable than courtly，when the captain touched my arin，and pointed to the deck．Close beside us stood a little continental visitor．I will describe im particularly，for，not being sutficiently versed in ornithology to know whetier the species has dea of winning an easy fame by introducing a new bird to notice．It was a bird of the same size and otaliy different in plumages：－

then becom next occurs and pure black．Finally the black prevails，and ven stripe of glisteni

He was still and stupid with exhaustion some time ；but，brightenin． wings，and flew landward．
Is the striking difference in motion of water－fow fom land－birds instinctive or acquired ？Perhaps when the former were loosed from the Hand of Providence，the index－finger pointed towards the sea，they had the same mode of fight with other birds．Might not their peculiar，undulatory move－ meut，their wheeling and circling fight，have be aught from the swell of the ocean In their search for food，as they skim over t water，they are obliged to follow its fluctuting water，they are obliged to follow its fluctuating contour，and perhaps carried thence this trick motion into upper air．What，too，is the occult reason why sea－birds invariably have discordant melancholy notes？One would imagine，that catching grace of motion from the sea，some them at least would be attuned in voice to the ripples， storm．
This
This thought kept recurring to me，one evening， after clouds of gulls sad attended the ship all day， for the first time，the cry of a penguin．The cap－ tain had told me that it was a doleful sound，and indeed like the hopeless wail of a half－insensibl drowning man．The single note，repeated sever dark calm evening While I was still pacing the deck，and the nigh peculiar sound from one of the winged company
It was a prolonged，low，but sonorous，flutelik moan，almost a wail，with a trilling rise to a no somewhat higher which has just sounded and the abruptly ended，and seemed more mournful and hopeless than the former．The clatter of other birds broke in like child＇s play upon an oratorio Handel．
It may seem strange that the cry of a bird has ach a power over sensibility；but the captain been once wrecked on an uninhabited South Sea island，and striving against great disadvantages to he could endure the misery of his situation and the uncertainty of his prospects，except when com pletely unmaned by the peculiar cry of this bird． The pre－eminence of the nightingale among singing the charming figure－El Ruisenor，or，＂Lord o Song＂－has never been transterred，so far as I know，to English verse．A kindred，though not equal distinction，is justly due to this winged，un－ equal distinction，is ，wsuly due to this winged，un power，and plaintiveness，henderful volume，and is notes alone，in the midst of the dissonant hestra of the sea and

THE LAST OF MORMONISM
Evidently the Morman system in Utah is near is end．Brigham Young held to justice in Sal ake City is almost like a Pope impeached in Kome．His martyrdom by death might do some hing for the Mormon cause，but his fine and im prisonment will do nothing．For ourselves，we think the system would have died out quietly i let alone．It would have pined and withered let alone．It would have pined and withered under the influence of Gentile civilization pouring under the influenec of Gentile civilization pouring in upon it．But the States are evidenty resolved to make short work of it，and they can do this it mey will．To the ordinary American it appeas mere scandal and disgrace；and one too that mainly exotic in its character．The proportion ative American polygamists is not great．Certa parts of Lancashire and Yorkshire，and many dis tricts of Wales，combine with Sweden way，and a few German cities，to supply Mormon－ Young＇s second in command vietims．Brigham Youg＇s second in command is an Englishman，

－and thus set ignorant and restless people cravy ing for a home in that terrestrial parad se the Wabsatch Mountains．It cannot be to em － phatically repeated miserable little tenth－class country town，un－ drained，unlighted，for the most part unpaved，an built on a reeking swamp．The beautiful scenery the glorivus mountains around it，sometimes be guile the traveller in：o fancying he sees dignity gule the travelier in：o fancying he sees dignity which，were it seated in an English valley，he would turn from with contempt．There are towns the Western States of which the very names are unknown in England，and which beginning later than Salt Lake City，and having to the full sa many difficulties to contend with，are already far beyond difficulties to contend with，are already far beyon it in appearance and in prosperity．Mormonism has no wonderful works to boast of．If it dies，it will die and make no sign．The thing was，fron first to last，half sham and half mistake．We could have wished that America had allowed it quietly 10 fade away ；but if it is now doomed to die sudden and violent death，there is nothing even in its fate to call for pity，or to excuse regret．－Daily

OLD AND NEW COLORS．

1

 variably more beautiful and becoming tha The truth is that a color may be too pure mere gandy tints，have so much improved color－distilling and dyeing，that our modencolors are hideous through their extreme purity elddfashioned blue，which had a dash the fashionable staring blues，was one of the nost exquisite hues ever worn ；so was the war un yellow we see in old master＇s．pictures ； was the soft，brownish crimson．The same re mark applies to Oriental colors．The old Indian and Persian manufactures，which will never and Persian manufactures，which will never grow old，look forever perfect and grand；and feeling for combining colors－it is partly due th the imperfection of colors hefly dull，the blues greenish，the wh yellowish or gray，the black half－brown：the hawl． But，alas ：the Orientals are being demoralized the European mania for vulgar contrasts；and abricate for the French and English markets， hey are beginniog to ase the ohesp European dyes，although the cheap importe sheer ignorance，adhere to the old patteng Soon they may give place to the modern ba ones，and we shall have nothing better from the East than we can make at home，as far as har－ In fact，it is almost poetry of design arese concerraed． an Indian shawl with the old beautiful colors Not long ago，wo searehed，all through the Pari hops，for such a one，and only succeeded，a省，piek going over into the Rue de Bac，where ame of the ．one，that some impoverished grand o sell，and which had Germain was compelled mindia in the reign of Jobaly been importo It would really hat，at first thought，we might call impert of ion，is necessary to beanty．The mpertee mosy fascinating faces are not those with a Costregular features．In an Oriental carpet， ried out were shaw，the pattern is，never the fabrics from the looms of F 位位位，as in very peeularity the Turkish Europe．To this sarls owe a good deal of their charm．Indian all，so to speak，of delightfol sarprises．The he Asiatics．Our perfeet the use of color by make the euriously charming fabries that these poor people weave with their obsolete looms． We have lost the strange charmi of color which Ir anoestorijin the Middye Aged in Ihaicommen am nenin pandernas we livio to 7 Pbock 12 We have perfected our colors and lost our per－ ceptions of，and feeling for，real beanty．Very few Americans，comparatively，have a good eye lor color．But the English are even more the French，in fashions，is that the supremacy of ds of costumes excel in color as well as in form－ To see the way in which some women dress ve might thing that the old and true doctrine complexion，had been altogether forgotten．For oxauple，no blue eyes can bear the propinquity gray ；inded，even blue eyes do not look blue now ；no cheek can outbloom the modern pink brought to such a pitch of perfeetion that the dazzle，but enhance nothing，and they have the retribute effect of not lasting．The antique and probably did so，but they never stawed to anything like the same nor the stains of wear as the modern colors ；they were not so bright， though they were far more subtle．In those days one could put on a gown half－a－dozen times withont looking slovenly it wonld look bent ful and good to the last．Ruskin says truly that＂no color harmony is of high order unless involving indeseribable tints；＂and this is the secret of the antique colors－ach partook of some other；；the very imperfection made then the most perfect of allficeolors．ZWe think we er，however，signs of a reform．Of late，dun colors have been claring colors．The new shade of olive，salmon，eitron，and Igreen－blue are also

A Louisianian has invented a method of racting bee－honey fromethe comb by means of without breaking the＂comb further than uncap？ ping the cells．The comb is then placed in slid at once commence to refill the cells，thus saving he labor of constructing twenty pounds of comb， beo－bread，and wax，in order to preserve one ound of honey There is but one proper mode of regulating olantary agreement bety ployod．Probably no two industries are control ed by exactly similar cirouustances；and human industries must invariably adapt themselves to

