At 15 Cents Per Share

This map can be relied upon for accuracy as to location of the mines indicated. It is drawn from and upon the same scale as the official maps. The shaft-houses indicate the correct locations of the working of the mines. Silver Bird may be seen in the centre of the map.

SILVER BIRD is surrounded by the greatest producing mines in the Cobalt District.

SILVER BIRD is absolutely inside property, consisting of twenty acres (patented), being the west half of the north-east quarter of the north half of Lot 3, concession 5, Coleman.

SILVER BIRD is a mine in full operation, with two 25 h.p. boilers, steam hoist, steam drills and all machinery and buildings necessary to complete an operating mine.

SILVER BIRD is working two shifts and is in full operation both day and night, sinking upon three veins and in the same formations identically as in the O'Brien, Timmins and Right of Way mines and lying immediately between these mines and the Green-Meehan, Red Rock, Cobalt Contact and Nipissing Extension. The veins are broadening out and are increasing in value, with depth now 40 ft. in shaft.

SILVER BIRD has no indebtedness; there are no encumbrances against the property or stock of the company. The capitalization of The Silver Bird Cobalt Mines, Limited, is but $1,500,000.00, par value of the shares $1.00 each, with 500,000 shares in the treasury, of which 200,000 shares are now offered to the public for subscription at 15 cents per share.

Considering the inside location of the property, development done, results obtained, low capitalization and the large amount of shares in the treasury, this is unquestionably one of the best bargains (if not the greatest bargain) that has been offered in Cobalt mining shares. We predict this first allotment will be largely oversubscribed and we urge that early application be made.

CONSCIENCE MONEY.

What the Old Time Publishers Paid From a Sense of Justice.

Some interesting details have been given out lately as to the sums voluntarily paid to British novelists by American publishers before the days of international copyright. Any American firm could reprint at once whatever issued from the English presses, but some publishers arranged with British authors for advance sheets of forthcoming works, thus enabling them to get the start of "piratical" firms which paid the author nothing. It is interesting to observe the occasional disparity between the merit of the book and the price paid. The whole thing was in the nature of a leap in the dark. Often the sum given by the American publisher was really more than the American rights would probably have been worth had it been possible to secure them by copyright. Thus Anthony Trollope got $3,500 for "Sir Harry Hotspur," one of his poorest novels; George Eliot $8,500 for "Daniel Deronda" and Charles Reade $5,000 for "A Woman Hater." No publisher today would pay any such sums for these books if he were permitted to read them before buying.

On the other hand, by way of comparison, the very best books brought their authors only trifling returns from America. Charles Reade received only $250 for "Put Yourself in His Place," $1,000 for "Hard Cash," these being two of his finest novels, and $1,000 for "Love Me Little, Love Me Long." Thackeray got only $750 for "The Newcomes" and $500 for "Henry Esmond." Trollope obtained from the Harpers $125 for "The Bertrams," $250 for "Castle Richmond," $500 for "Phineas Finn," $250 for "The Eustace Diamonds," "Orley Farm," "Lady Anna" and "Ralph the Heir." The $500 for his "Cicero" is fully as much as any American publisher would give today for the copyright of such a book. George Eliot received only $100 for "Adam Bede" and $500 for "Silas Marner." "The Mill on the Floss" brought her $1,500.

Wilkie Collins and Dickens were the most popular authors of the pre-copyright period, and they fared best of all at the hands of their authorized American publishers. The former drew from this country $1,800 for "The Woman in White," $3,750 each for "The Moonstone" and "Man and Wife" and $3,000 for "Poor Miss Finch." To Dickens the Harpers paid $1,250 for "Little Dorrit," $1,800 for "Bleak House," $5,000 each for "Our Mutual Friend" and "A Tale of Two Cities" and $7,500 for "Great Expectations," this last representing the high water mark of such voluntary payments.—Bookman.

The White Canoe.

In the far north there is a superstition in which the trappers and traders firmly believe even now, that a white canoe, piloted through the heavens by the spirit of an old pioneer, comes for the dying.—Metropolitan Magazine.

Bait for the matrimonial hook.
The most effective substitute for brains.

Money is the most difficult root to cultivate.

That which women look for while men sleep.

Money is the loudest sound in the voice of life.

What the rich don't need and the poor don't get.

A curse to some that have it and a cure to all that haven't.

A provider for everything but happiness, a passport to everywhere but heaven.

The one thing that makes crooked things look straight and straight things crooked.

That which speaks a language we can all understand, but in which so few are able to converse.

Purchasing by Scent.

"The nose is a powerful factor in the selection of flowers," said the proprietor of a flower stand. "I keep the doors of this glass case open in all kinds of weather. I want possible customers to catch a whiff of the fragrance. Most people buy flowers for the smell instead of the looks. They will pass a shut-in flower stand day after day and never think of buying anything, but just let them get the odor of some favorite flower and they will go home carrying a bouquet as big as your hat."—New York Press.

Golf Sticks.

It is of the utmost importance that the golfer should be on terms of the most complete confidence and intimacy with all the clubs in his bag, and particularly the wooden clubs, from which he gets his length. Such confidence cannot be established during the first few seasons of a golfer's experience. It needs a long time and much thought to grasp what are the essential features of a wooden club that make it exactly suited to the peculiarities of a particular player.—Fry's Magazine.

THE CODE OF HONOR.

Duelling as it was in France in the Time of Richelieu.

The passion for duelling, which had cost France, it was said, between 7,000 and 8,000 lives during the twenty years of Henry IV.'s reign, was at its height when his son came to the throne. The council of Trent in 1545 had solemnly condemned the practice of single combat, impartially including principals, seconds and spectators in its penalty of excommunication. In 1602 an edict of Henry pronounced the "damnable custom of duelling introduced by the corruption of the century" to be the cause of so many piteous accidents, to the extreme regret and displeasure of the king and to the irreparable damage of the state "that we should count ourselves unworthy to hold the scepter if we delayed to repress the enormity of this crime."

A whole series of edicts followed to the same effect, but it was easier to make edicts than to enforce them. Degradation, imprisonment, confiscation of property, loss of civil rights and death were the penalties attached to the infringement of the laws against duelling, and still the practice prevailed. In 1626 Richelieu published a milder form of prohibition. The first offense was no longer capital, a third only of the offender's property was to be confiscated, and the judges were permitted to recognize extenuating circumstances.

A few months later the Comte de Bouteville thought fit to test the minister's patience in this direction. The Place Royale had long been a favorite duelling ground, and De Bouteville traveled from Brussels to fight his twenty-second duel here, in the heart of Paris, in deliberate defiance of the king's authority. The result was not encouraging. Montmorency thought he was the count went with his second to the scaffold, and the marked decrease from that time in the number of duels may be attributed either to the moderation used in framing the law or to the inexorable resolution with which it was enforced.—Macmillan's Magazine.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

Villains usually get what is coming to them—on the stage.

It too often happens that the only flowers mother gets are those strewn on her grave.

The man who saves money is sure of one thing—he will never find that he made a serious mistake in doing it.

There are some people who pray for patience and then get mad because the fire goes out when they prayed so long.

Perhaps the next time you do what you shouldn't you will have reason to regret you didn't quit with the last time.

If you get along with people you do not like, your friends think you have tact and your enemies accuse you of being "smooth."

No matter how poor a man's memory is about other things, he never forgets the time and place where he once found money on the street.—Atchison Globe.

Jarring Realism.

A popular novelist described at a dinner in New York the difference between realism and romanticism in fiction. "To make my meaning clearer," said the author, "I will take the case of a young man and a girl—sweethearts. The young man, a romanticist, said passionately to his girl, 'Darling, it shall be my life's one purpose to surround you with every comfort and to anticipate and gratify your every wish.' The girl, a realist, smiled faintly as she answered, 'Oh, Jack, how good of you, and all on $9 a week too!'"

Marrying an Opera Company.

The late "Aunt" Louisa Eldridge, meeting a reporter on one of the New York papers, learned that Lillian Russell was to be married to Signor Perugini.

"Isn't she clever?" quoth Mrs. Eldridge. "Why, she first married a leader of the orchestra, then a composer of comic operas, and now she will wed a tenor. Bless my heart! If she keeps on, she'll have an entire operatic outfit of her own."

Baby's Progress.

"How is Bilkins' baby boy getting along?"

"Fine. I was up there yesterday and was surprised to learn that he is beginning to talk."

"Does he pronounce his words plainly?"

"Not very. They sound like a railroad brakeman calling out stations."—Milwaukee Sentinel.

THE CROWN AND PEOPLE.

To Combine in Britain to Defeat the Aristocracy.

London, Feb. 9.—The Attorney-General, Sir John E. Walton, who presumably spoke with the full knowledge of the intentions of the Government, made an important declaration in a speech at Leeds Thursday night, foreshadowing the Government program for a reform of the House of Lords.

In his remarks the Attorney-General said that "the grim and serious work" upon which the Liberals were entering "would mean a revolution and involve two or three dissolutions." He added that the House of Lords was entirely "out of harmony with modern democratic institutions and must go." The Government would endeavor to give effect to the will of the people by bills, which the peers would probably throw out, leading to a "combination of the crown and people to defeat the aristocracy."

Attorney-General Walton recognized that the struggle would be prolonged and exciting, and would mean a complete re-arrangement of the constitutional and political forces.
