The Old Fair Story.

A mother kissed her baby,
Rocking it to rest,
And gently clasped within her arms,
It nestled in her breast.
The old fair story,
Set round in glory,
Wherever life is found,
For oh! it's love, it's love, they say,
That makes the world go round.

A fair-faced boy and maiden
Passed through the yellow wheat;
And their hands were clasped together,
And the flowers grew at their feet.
The old fair story,
Set round in glory,
Wherever life is found,
For oh! it's love, it's love, they say,
That makes the world go round.

An old man and a wrinkled wife,
Amid the fair spring weather;
"We've shared our sorrows and our joys,
God grant we die together."
The old fair story,
Set round in glory,
Wherever life is found,
For oh! it's love, it's love, they say,
That makes the world go round.

Backbone.

When you see a fellow mortal
Without fixed and farious views,
Hanging on the skirts of others,
Walking in their cast off shoes,
Bowing low to wealth and favor,
With subject, uncovered head,
Ready to retract or waver;
Willing to be turned or led,
Walk yourself with firmer bearing;
Throw your moral shoulders back;
Show your spine has nerve and marrow—
Just the things which his most lack.

A stranger word
Was never heard
Than this—backbone.

When you see a theologian
Hugging close some glib creed,
Fearing to reject or question,
Dogmas which his priest may read;
Holding back all noble feeling;
Choking down each manly view,
Caring more for forms and symbols
Than to know the good and true;
Walk yourself with firmer bearing;
Throw your moral shoulders back;
Show your spine has nerve and marrow—
Just the things which his most lack.

A stranger word
Was never heard
Than this—backbone.

When you see a politician
Crawling through contracted holes,
Begging for some fat position,
In the house or at the polls;
With no sterling manhood in him;
Nothing stable, broad or sound;
Destitute of pluck or ballast;
Debaile sided all around;
Walk yourself with firmer bearing;
Throw your moral shoulders back;
Show your spine has nerve and marrow—
Just the things which his most lack.

A stranger word
Was never heard
Than this—backbone.

Fun and Fancy.

"Brilliant and impulsive people," said a lecturer on physiognomy, "have black eyes or if they don't have 'em, they're rept to get 'em, if they're too impulsive."

When you see a man take off his hat to you, it is a sign that he respects you; but when he is divesting himself of his coat, you make up your mind that he intends to make you respect him.

"There's one kind of a ship I always steer clear of," said an old bachelor seaman, "and that's courtship, 'cause no that ship there's always two mates and no no captain."

"That is probably the oldest piece of furniture in England," said a collector of antique curiosities to a friend, pointing to a venerable looking table as he spoke. "How old is it?" asked the friend. "Nearly four hundred years old," "Indeed!" "Yes, the multiplication table."

An anecdote is told by Harper's Editor of the late Father Taylor, of the Boston Seaman's Bethel. A prayer-meeting had been prolonged one evening beyond the usual hour of closing, and he had been pretty well warmed up. Just then a few restless spirits in the rear of the audience took occasion to leave. The old man rose, and swinging his arm in his peculiar way, shouted out, "That's right brethren; the tide's rising, the driftwood is beginning to float!"

A couple of Galveston dawkies were talking politics. One of them asked uncle Mose: "I say Mose, what's the meamin of a silver-tongued orator? I has read that expression in de paper, and it sorter stumped me." Old Mose who never failed to answer any question asked him, responded at once: "A silver-tongued orator is one who never goes back on his word when he promises you a silver half dollar for votin' for him."

"Dat ar species is mighty skurce in Galveston—dat's all I've got ter say."

Two grammarians wrangling, one contending that it was only proper to say, "My wages is high," while the other insist that the correct thing was "My wages are high." Finally they stopped a day laborer, and submitted the question to him. "Which do you say, 'Your wages is high' or 'Your wages are high'?" "Oh, oh! was your nonsense," he said resuming his pick, "yer nayther or yer right; me wages is low, bad luck to en."

It always gives us pleasure to draw attention to articles which are deserving of public patronage. Probably no article ever offered to the public has met with the same success as GRAY'S SYRUP OF RED SPRUCE GUM. Thousands of families in the Dominion keep it in their homes as the standard Cough Remedy. The sale of this article has assumed enormous proportions. Our advice to the public at large is to try its virtue if they should at any time unfortunately contract either Coughs or Colds. It is sold by all chemists.—Advt.

A man threw a couple of superannated eggs at an actress in a Philadelphia theatre, and he was fined $300 for his little diversion. This is $3,000 a dozen for eggs, and not very good eggs at that. We seem to be getting back to war prices.

A Column for the Curious.

A French student has made a careful comparative analysis of the statistical tables of suicides in England and Sweden. He finds that they are almost identical, viz.—That widowers commit suicide more frequently than married men; and that the existence and presence of children in the house diminishes the disposition to suicide both in men and women.

NATURAL LANGUAGE OF THE HANDS.—The hand has a great share in expressing our thoughts and feelings;—raising the hands towards heaven, with the palms united, expresses devotion and supplication; wringing them, grief; throwing them towards heaven, admiration; dejected hands, despair; amazement; folding them, idleness; holding the fingers intermingled, amusing and thoughtfulness; holding them forth together, yielding and submission; lifting them, and the eyes to heaven, solemn appeal; waving the hand from us, prohibition; extending the right hand to any one, peace, piety and safety; scratching the head, care and perplexing thought; laying the right hand on the heart, affection and solemn affirmation; holding up the thumb, approbation; placing the right forefinger on the lips perpendicularly, bidding silence.

"Griffith's Valuation" is that at which the Irish Land Leaguers are willing to pay rent for their holdings. It is the valuation put upon the land by Sir Richard Griffith an appointment of the late Government. His valuation was made for uniform taxation purposes, the old valuation system being arbitrary and irregular. Sir Richard Griffith's valuation is regarded by Irish landlords to be 30 per cent beneath the real value of the land, and therefore when the land league demands Griffith's valuation, he means that the landlord shall abate about 30 per cent of the rent.

THE COMING COMET.—It is announced that a comet is soon to make itself visible in the heavens. It is coming straight towards the earth, and in course of time will be plainly discernible with the naked eye. At present it is a luminous orb of small magnitude, but it is throwing off a tail of considerable brilliancy, which will steadily increase in length. Astronomers lean to the opinion that it is the same comet which cast such an extraordinary splendor just previous to the year of 1812. If this be the case, the people of to-day will enjoy a sight among the celestial bodies such as has not been witnessed for 68 years.

At a recent Berlin bird show several canaries were exhibited which attracted much attention on account of the peculiar colors of their plumage. Some were green, others red and light brown, more or less from the light yellow of the common bird. These variations of color were produced by the daily use of cayenne pepper in the food of the birds. The immediate effects are, however, anything but pleasing to the holder, for the feathers soon begin to fall, giving the appearance of molting, but in a short time new feathers appear, having the curious tints observed.

NAMES AND THEIR ORIGIN.—There is a class of surnames emanating from natural objects, and which embraces so many members that an attempt to commemorate them would be an act of folly. A glance through the London Directory will give some idea of its extent. Of this class there are several subdivisions. From the weather we obtain Storm, Rain, Frost, Cloud, Tempest, Fair-weather, Snow. From some of our money names we get Penny, Half-penny, Farthing, Shilling, Crown, From measures—Gill, Peck, Bushel, From games—Ball, Cricket, Bowles, Bowler, Disease gives us Cramp, Blindman, Fever, and, shall we add, Cough and Death. From clothing spring such names as Coats, Coats, Caps, Hats, Shirts, Boots, Bookes. From the animal, vegetable, and mineral kingdoms—Hedge, Clay, Birch, Chubb, Drake, Nightingale, Jay, Gold, Peacock, Stone, Irons, Myrtle, Herring, Pike, Steel, From relationship—Cousin, Husband, Lover, Guest, Bachelor, Friend. From a house—Chambers, Kitchen, Gate, Hall. From the body—Head, Chin, Back, Foot. All these names are as plain as a pikestaff to us; but we must revert to the old English and provincial dialects ere we understand that Brock means a badger; Talbot, a mastiff; Tod, a fox; Culver, a pigeon; Henkale, a young hutton; and Cokke, a cook.

THE BERNARDT ELBOW-ANGLE.—The Grecian bend has quite gone out, the Roman fall as well, but I will tell you what is coming in next. It is the Sarah Bernhardt elbow-angle. It was observed Saturday night in its full perfection at the Bernhardt reception, and then and there many ladies were seen to make an assay at it. The arms are braced backward, and crooked like the wings of a trusted fowl. They project so far behind the back that a mop handle might be run through them without in the least disturbing the action of the fan, which gives little gusts of air which may refresh the unshin, but cannot be of much avail higher up. As a military pose the Bernhardt elbow angle would meet the approval of authorities at West Point, while hygienists, who are always insisting that we should throw our shoulders back, must be delighted with it, for the shoulders cannot be thrown any further back than this, unless we fling them away altogether.—[New York Letter.]

FOR CONSUMPTIVES.
See what Physicians and the People say about SCOTT'S EMULSION OF PURE COD LIVER OIL ENRICED WITH VITAMINS, as a remedy for Consumption, Scurvy, and Wasting Affections.
Messrs. SCOTT & BOWNE, Gentlemen— I have prescribed SCOTT'S EMULSION OF PURE COD LIVER OIL ENRICED WITH VITAMINS, in my private practice, and have been greatly pleased with its effects. It is better borne and can be taken for a longer time than any other preparation of Cod Liver Oil. In Consumption and children's diseases I have found it especially valuable.
Respectfully yours,
I. H. M. LANG, M.D., 279 East Broadway, N.Y., Louisville, Ky., January 3, 1875.
GENTLEMEN—For the last fifteen months I have used your Cod Liver Oil Emulsion in my hospital and in private practice, and have been greatly pleased with its effects. It is better borne and can be taken for a longer time than any other preparation of Cod Liver Oil. In Consumption and children's diseases I have found it especially valuable.
Respectfully yours,
JOHN A. COTTERLY, M.D., Physician, Louisville City Hospital.

Messrs. SCOTT & BOWNE: I have used SCOTT'S Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil in various instances and I have found it to be easily taken, readily assimilated, and rapidly improves the nutrition and flesh. I consider it the best Emulsion I have ever used. R. E. HATHORN, M.D., Indianapolis, Ind.
Messrs. SCOTT & BOWNE: I have given your Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil a fair trial, and am glad that I can say I think it is the best remedy for weak lungs and for the general debility of young men. When the doctors had given me up, I commenced using your medicine, and I can truly say that my health is now very fast and I think I shall soon be well.
Yours truly,
G. BIEDENSTADT, Galveston, Ind.
SCOTT & BOWNE: I felt it my duty to let you know the benefit I have derived from the use of your Emulsion. I had a very bad cough for years, and on consulting Dr. J. B. HARRIS, of this city, he informed me that my lung was diseased, and prescribed Scott's Emulsion with phosphates. After taking two bottles, I began to improve very rapidly, and continued to use it until I had taken ten bottles, when I felt that I was a man as there is in the city of Baltimore. When I began using it I weighed 150 pounds. I now weigh 175.
Yours, D. P. FAUQUHAR, Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 3, 1875.
CANANDAIGUA, Sept. 15, 1877.
SCOTT & BOWNE: Gentlmen—I thought I would write to you, as I saw a notice upon your bottles late upon the long coasting. This has come over in my case. I was given up by all the doctors to be long and I was told to go to sea and make no use of any treatment. My husband used your Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil. He has bought twelve bottles, and is recovering so to health beyond the expectations of himself, and I think it a great blessing. He has not coughed since he began to take it. When I think I will be perfectly cured.
Yours with respect,
MRS. ELDRIDGE.

FELLOWS' COMPOUND SYRUP OF HYPO-PHOSPHITES

FOR THE RELIEF AND CURE OF ALL WASTING DISEASES, SUCH AS—
Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma, General Debility, Brain Exhaustion, Chronic Constipation, Chronic Diarrhoea, Dyspepsia, or Loss of Nervous Power. It is unequalled in the treatment of Palpitation of the Heart, Trembling of the Hands and Limbs, Loss of Appetite, Energy or Memory.

It is sold with vigor, gentleness and subtlety, owing to the exquisite harmony of its ingredients with the human system. Its taste is pleasant, and its effects permanent. Its apparent effect is to increase the appetite. It assists digestion, and causes the food to be assimilated properly—thus the system is nourished. It also, by its tonic action, stimulates the digestive organs, induces more copious and regular evacuations. The rapidity with which patients take on flesh while under the influence of the Syrup, of itself indicates that no other preparation can be better adapted to help and nourish the constitution, and hence be more efficacious in all depression of spirits, shaking or trembling of the hands or body, cough, shortness of breath, or consumptive habit. The nerves and muscles become strengthened, and the blood purified.

READ WHAT THE INVENTOR, MR. FELLOWS, HAS TO SAY ABOUT HIS SYRUP OF THE HYPOPHOSPHITES.

In the summer of 1864, I was suddenly affected by a copious expectoration of mucous purulent matter. I had been declining in health for some months, and, being exceedingly nervous, the symptoms caused alarm. As my business was that of a dispensing chemist, the shop was constantly visited by medical men, all of whom tendered their advice. During 1864 and 1865 my chest was examined by ten first class physicians, some of whom pronounced the case Bronchitis; some, not wishing to cause alarm, or unwilling to venture an opinion, gave no decision; some stated unequivocally that I had Tubercular Disease of the Lungs, and located the trouble where the pains were felt. By professional advice, I used, in turn, horse-back exercise, country life, eggs and ale in the morning, tonic, Bourbon whiskey, cod-liver oil, castor-oil, tar, and various inhalants, but the trouble increased. Expectoration became more profuse and offensive. Night-sweats set in. Cough, chills, diarrhoea, dyspepsia, cough, blood-streaked expectorations, loss of sleep, loss of appetite, loss of memory, loss of ambition, accompanied by general prostration, showed themselves. Under the microscope the blood was found to contain but a small portion of vitalized corpuscles; the heart's action was feeble; the pulse intermittent; the stomach could not digest properly, so that flatulency and acidity was the result. Finding the symptoms indicated Consumption, I determined to use every effort to stay its progress, and, if possible, to cure it. I selected the most powerful tonics and moderators, and combined them with the vital constituents of the human body. For months I endeavored to amalgamate them by my efforts were crowned with success. I cannot speak too plainly or too strongly of the effects produced, and the benefits I received from the consumption.

At first my appetite improved; then my general health became easy, digestion better; the feces became more copious, I slept longer, cold chills ceased; night-sweats lessened; I gained in weight; the hacking cough left me; refreshing sleep returned; my spirits became buoyant, the muscular and nervous system. I continued taking the Syrup month after month; but owing to the damp, foggy climate of St. John, my recovery was necessarily slow, although I could observe a gradual return of strength for three years, during which time I continued taking the remedy. My present weight is one hundred and eighty-eight, being thirty-eight above my usual. I have no symptoms left of my disease. The only notable sign during twelve months was the expectation. Now that has stopped, and I consider myself well. The reader may ask, How do you know your difficulty to have proceeded from ulcerated or tuberculated lung? I answer, In the most certain of all modes for ascertaining. In March last I coughed from the right lung a piece of PHOSPHATE OF LIME, half the size of a pea, which could have come from no other place, and which the highest authority in Lung Diseases (Lancet) states is the result of tubercle, which has been cured. Added to this, I had the leaden colored, purulent, blood-streaked expectoration, and the opinion of one of the best diagnosticians in the country. I believe I have experienced all the symptoms incident to the two first stages of Consumption, and have successfully combated them, so that I do not despair of any case where there is left sufficient lung tissue to build upon. I can only add that the more monetary consideration of increased sales would never induce me to publish this report, but a sincere sympathy for the poor consumptive, with whose misfortune I believe it villainy to trifle.

Respectfully,
JAMES I. FELLOWS,
Inventor of Fellows' Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites.

Substitutes!

The public are cautioned against a custom which is growing quite common of late among a certain class of medicine dealers, and which is this: When asked for a bottle of Pain-Killer, they suddenly discover that they are "sold out," but have another article just as good, if not better, which they will supply at the same price. The object of this deception is transparent. These substitutes are made up to sell on the great reputation of the Pain-Killer; and being compounded of the vilest and cheapest drugs, are bought by the dealer at about half what he pays for the genuine Pain-Killer, which enables him therefore to realize a few cents more profit per bottle upon the imitation article than he can on the genuine.
