TRINITY

RICHARD WATERMAN.

A Child of Trinity Two Hundred Years Ago.

"One of the few, the immortal names that were not born to die." One of the names that I find on the earliest pages of the old Church Registers, and one that is, decided euphonic and distinctly English, is the name Waterman. Though there are several entries in those Registers in which the name Waterman is found, yet there is more or less of the usual number of definite and minor details statements lacking in them—such details as I usually find in connection with entries—that in order to make the history consecutive, as well as interesting, I shall have to use more or less fiction, in order to join the facts together; but, as good fiction is only a statement of possibilities, I have no apology to make for the use of it occasionally. My object is to revise the memory of Richard Waterman and to gratefully acknowledge the definite share that he had in establishing family life in Trinity one hundred and sixty years ago; so that we, in our days of peaceful possession, may realize how much we owe to men of his day and generation. Let me forget.

The first representative of the Watermans, of Dorset, England, came to us in the person of Richard Waterman about the year 1760. He was married to Mary—before the regular Church Registers were begun. The oldest headstone in the churchyard, however, records the death of two children of Richard and Mary Waterman (named Robert and Ann) in the year 1744, aged three, and seven years, respectively. During the years of Richard Waterman, he was a by-boat keeper; or what we should now call a planter, or a middle-man, who fitted out a number of men and boats for the fishery. There was much profit in the prosecution of the fishery at and around Trinity during those years; for in the account of the Colony put forth by Lieutenant Griffith Williams, R.A., in 1765, he mentions that "several boats at Trinity caught 990 qts. each during the year; and that fully one-quarter of the whole catch of fish in Newfoundland, from the year 1745 to 1762 was to be credited to the fishermen of Trinity, Catalina, and Bonavista. There were, we must remember, five men in a boat, or rather a large skiff." Thus Richard Waterman took a mainly part in the uplifting of the prosperity of Trinity in those days; and within a few years of each other, he and his wife were called to rest during the closing years of the 18th century, and their son, Richard, succeeded to all their worldly possessions.

Richard Waterman Jr., who was born in 1742, was married to Sarah Gillet. Women undertook the responsibilities of married life at an early age in those days; thus, Sarah Gillet was married in 1762, and died in 1765, and was only 20 years of age when she died. In 1766 Richard Waterman Jr. was married again to Sarah Archer, and to them were born several children. One of those was Grace, who was born in 1780, and who, twenty years later, became the wife of Mr. Joseph Gover, who was one of Slade's first agents in Trinity, and the progenitor of all the Govers in Trinity since and down to the present day. Mr. Gover's headstone, standing next to that of Richard Waterman's in the old churchyard, indicates that he is buried beside his father-in-law. One interesting feature of a biography of this kind, is the variety of names that become associated with the original name through marriage. Thus, in addition to the original name Waterman, we get associations with the names Gillet, Archer, Bailey, Gover, Whittle, Pile, Newell and Stevenson; and then more or less so directly or indirectly down to the present. Thus, the name Gillet takes us back over a hundred years, when a part of the property at the eastern side of Thack's Hill (that was till recent years owned by Mr. James Gent) was then owned by Richard Gillet, and then by Charles Randall, of Somerset, who married Richard Gillet's widow.

They in turn passed it over to the ownership of David Durrell for Messrs. John Butley, and George Garland, and then it was purchased by Mr. Samuel Augustus Gent. Richard Gillet was a blacksmith, and his forge was situated at the north end of the Gent property. This accounts for the fact that coal clinkers have been found there for years past by those who did not know till now of the location of Gillet's forge a hundred years ago. Not very important, but an explanation, nevertheless.

Then the names Waterman and Archer become associated through marriage. Mr. Waterman's second wife was a daughter of Mr. Thomas Archer who carried on a business at Hog's Head about the middle of the eighteenth century, and whose head-living in Twillingate, or Fogo; but whether they are relatives of the Trinity Watermans, I know not. All those references are respectfully submitted.

REPLY TO INQUIRY.

Some time ago I had an inquiry, re how many men by the name of James Collis lived in Trinity a hundred years ago. In reply, I gave the names, etc., of two, then I found a third, and since then I have found a fourth. They were all Englishmen, and as follows:

1821—Married, James Collis, of Knowle, in the Island of Purbeck, England, and Mary Jenkins of Trinity.

1830—Married, James Collis, of Poole, England, and Joanna Sabbin, of Trinity.

1833—Married, James Collis, of Milford, Hants, England, and Sarah Hodder, of Trinity.

JOHN MAIBY, 1800, AND THE SECOND GENERATION.

One of the names that was brought from the old country to Trinity about 140 years ago, was Maiby. The name is still retained in Trinity by several of our citizens, though it is now spelled Maybee. John Maiby came to Trinity about the year 1800, and I find his name for the first time, in the following entry in the old Church Marriage Register:

"1810—Married, John Maiby, of the town of Poole, Dorset, England, and Dinah, daughter of the late William and Mary Bugden, Trinity."

To them were born ten children as follows:—Sarah, Thomas, Dinah, Mary, John, Elizabeth, William, Priscilla, Aquilla, Anne. I can find no further reference to either Sarah, or Thomas, beyond the record of their baptism. Re the others: Dinah died in infancy; Mary married James Miller in 1836; Elizabeth married Martin Miller in 1839; Priscilla married John Late in 1844; Anne married Thomas Late in 1845; Aquilla was married to Caroline Bailey in 1848; William was married to Mary Lucas in 1851; John died in 1840 aged 23 years. The family that was begun in Trinity moved to Trouty about the year 1822.

John Maiby (the father) died in Trouty in 1826; and his widow married John Brown, of Stalbridge, Dorset, England in 1829, and to them were born two children, viz:—Mark and Jane.

LOCAL ITEMS.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Jenkins are spending a pleasant holiday with Mr. Jenkins' parents at Garland Hotel, Trinity.

On Friday last we laid to rest in the Church of England Cemetery, Trinity, the body of Caroline Amelia Facey, who died in St. John's. She was a daughter of John and Sarah Ainsworth, and was born in Trinity in 1847. In her maiden days she was deeply interested in the social pleasures of our village life, and those of us who grew up during those years are indebted to her for many a programme of happy home life enjoyment. In the year 1874 she married Mr. Robert Facey. After several years in Trinity, Mr. Facey was appointed the "Church of England" school teacher, and he and Mrs. Facey and children went there to live. The greater number of their children were both born there. Then Mr. Facey retired from public life, and he and his family went to St. John's to live. Within the last few years Mrs. Facey's health began to tell, and after sharing in the blessing of seeing "her children's children," God called her to the rest of paradise. In the absence of the Incumbent of the Parish, the funeral service was conducted by Rev. Canon Lockyer.

pleased to be known as one of personal friends and who is indebted to her for several personal kindnesses. The funeral was held by her husband and son. The service was preceded by a celebration of Holy Communion at Mortuary Chapel. Great her eternal rest, and may light shine upon her.

May 24th—Interred in the Church of England Cemetery, Trinity, the body of Mrs. Clara Clarke of Dunnet, and years.—Rest in peace.

Mr. Llewellyn Bartlett, who was dangerously ill with pneumonia, now out of danger and picking up strength every day.

Several of our people have their annual liming of their houses, etc. This may be as monotonous work and more expensive, but our individuality in the good appearance and fullness of our town is a citizen that should not be neglected, let alone oblige.

Mr. John Green believes in the building by protecting the face, and has given his house a fresh coat of paint.

Mr. Gilbert Snow registered at Garland Hotel on Wednesday. Glad to see him.

Mr. Harry Fraser, representing White Clothing Co., and Laid Oil Co., registered at the Garland Hotel on Wednesday last, week and called upon Mr. and Mrs. Always welcome.

We welcome Mr. Fred Morris from his enjoyable trip to Boston and Porto Rico.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.

J.E.W.—The origin of "Paul over" as applied to a person, is the influence of intoxicating liquors as follows: During the reign of Henry VIII., the Devonshire men used to associate with those from Pleadry and Pleadry, and times they would meet half way over, and then there would be a carousal and much drinking. A.C.—Catalina was the name of the wife of Sebastian, the "History"—I shall give you some special information on subject. Put the amazing power of this simple food to work for you

The example illustrated here is typical of thousands of similar tributes to Fleischmann's Yeast.

There is nothing mysterious about its action. It is not a "cure-all," not a medicine in any sense. But when the body is choked with the poisons of constipation—or when its vitality is low, so that the skin, stomach and general health are affected—this simple, natural food achieves literally amazing results.

Concentrated in every cake of Fleischmann's Yeast are millions of tiny yeast-plants, alive and active. At once they go to work—involving the whole system, clearing the skin, aiding digestion, strengthening the intestinal muscles and making them healthy and active.

Dissolve one cake in a glass of water (just hot enough to drink)

—before breakfast and at bedtime. Fleischmann's Yeast, when taken this way, is especially effective in overcoming or preventing constipation. Or eat 2 or 3 cakes a day—spread on bread or crackers—dissolved in fruit juices or milk—or eat it plain. Write us for further information or let us send you a free copy of our latest booklet on Yeast for Health. Address: The Fleischmann Company, 201 Duckworth Street, St. John's, N.F.

Fleischmann's Yeast comes only in the "tin foil" package—it cannot be purchased in tablet form. All grocers have it. Start eating it to-day! A few days' supply will keep fresh in your ice box as well as in the grocery.

"A year ago found me morose and irritable, with a nervous, rundown body and an exceptionally bad complexion. Horrid pimples on my face were the bane of my existence. One day while sitting at a soda fountain I read this ad: 'Try Fleischmann's Yeast for your Health's Sake,' and concluded to give it a trial. Within a week I slept better, and everyone complimented me on my improved appearance. To-day I am a picture of health, have a wonderful complexion, and everyone says I look five years younger."
