Comment on Politicians Who Went England From Dominion. Remarking on Canadian affairs, a writer in the National Review, says: "Almost invariably the Canadian member of the British house of commons is a useful person. Sir Gilbert Parker is a case in point; not even the reddest, rudest Radical would deny that he has increased the corporate intelligence of a body which is no longer, as from 1906 to 1910, a refuge for parish freaks and every variety of fad-monger. Mr. Donald Macmaster, who scored one of the most amazing victories of the last general election, and is universally esteemed in Canada, Great Britain and the United States, is certain to prove a most valuable addition to the mother of parliaments. His countless friends enemies he has none, not even his po-litical opponents being able to with-stand the charm of his personality... will watch his career with the greatest interest. The disappearance of Mr. Hamar Greenwood will be regretted: he was superior to his political creed, and his breezy oratory — whether in the house or on the hustings, or on a tree stump in the clearings where Prince Rupert is growing—was where Prince Rupert is growing—was always a pleasant contrast to the palavering on his side of members who think that "to err is human, to forget divine." and are inaudible in the gallery. It is a rule that the Canadian-born member has always been useful above the average. Every rule, however, is said to have its exceptions, and the exception in this case is Mr. Joseph Martin, who represents a constituency of coal-heavers. That is no reason, however, why he should heave his coke-like rhetoric at the head of Earl Grey, whom every Canadian regards so one of Canada's best friends. His criticism of Earl Grey's speeches was uncalled for and effensive in the extreme, and has given offense to Canadians of both parties, who are always interested in the governor-genere 's comments on topics of imperial interest."

Benjamin Franklin' once decided to re-write the Bible. He got as far as the allegory of Job. He erased the passage, "Doth Job fear God for naught?" a question supposed to have been put to the Almighty by Satan. This is how Benjamin, who was bent upon making the Bible dignified, academic and scholastic, transformed that passage: "Does Your Maiesty imagine sage: "Does Your Majesty im that Job's good conduct is the effect of personal attachment and affect tion?" we wish to call attention to the notlice for recruits for the 15th Light

CAN'TEATI STOMACH OUT OF ORDER

You are losing strength and vitality. That listless, languid feeling is due to the weak condition of the system. These are sure signs of a breakdown. Check the breakdown quickly and effectively by using PSYCHINE the Greatest of All Tonics. If you feel worn out, and run down, it is time for a tonic. Use PSYCHINE early, do not wait till you are worse. It will tone up your system and restore you to your old-time vigor and health. Keep your stomach in order, increase your appetite, restore your system to a healthy condition by taking PSYCHINE to-day. Mrs. J. T. Miller, of 63 Notre Dame Street, Winnipeg, proved this, for she says: "I am thankful for what PSYCHINE has done for me. I was laid up with weakness. Oh, how I suffered! My appetite was very poor and my atomach was greatly disordered. To-day I am strong and well, for PSYCHINE has brought me.
